Thread: 4096 console game\(2048\)

Moen - January 29, 2015, 12:11 pm

Long time since i have been programming and I decided that I should make this game.

Screenshot:

When i started playing the game it was kind of harder than the regular web interface ones with different colors for every number

If you decide to take a look at the source i would love some hints of what to improve/simplify

Very well done buddy.

I suck at this doe.

Wow pretty nice! But why do use a console application for this ?

Because i was to lazy to create an actual GUI for it. I do not regret it since it looks kind of cool in the console window..

Wow, this is really cool. This one seems a lot harder than the original though. XD

There is a tactic at it.

I failed at the tactic and got it all messed up..

I want to know why VS 2010 appeals to so many people.

Give it a week, might be gone again. Hope not tho, and thanks.

VS 10 is old, slow, and outdated. VS 13 is the best, and when VS 15 is release, I will use that.

With tactic you mean choosing a corner and only moving towards there? (So top right corner would be only moving right and up.)

My tactic is to get all big numbers to hug a wall. If i allways have 5 in that row i will be able to use 3 of the moves, and keep on. The highest i have been in is one at 2048 and two at 1024, Then it got blocked up...
