

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [\[Rate\] my 2nd thread design](#)

Razor 1911 - January 31, 2015, 5:57 am

earlier i made a thread design which was not really professional looking, was not a mainstream thread design that we usually see on HF, which are designed flat..

you can check that design here - <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4660154> it was an experimentation since it was a free graphic request and i have no pressure of maintaining a certain quality since the user who requested has nothing in mind and had no expectation...

this is the improvement i made over my previous design.. i designed this one also for free.. and my priority is to learn as for now rather than making money.. however a little extra dollar wont hurt ?

Dem?n - January 31, 2015, 7:00 am

That is actually quite nice. Honest rating: 4/10.

Troja?Hors? - January 31, 2015, 7:01 am

I would rate this around a 7, nice colour scheme.

TH.

Razor 1911 - January 31, 2015, 7:50 am

(Jan 31, 2015 08:00 AM)Dem?n Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That is actually quite nice. Honest rating: 4/10. quite nice but 4 out of 10.! that's quite low imo, anyways thanks for replying can you suggest improvements?

Tigerbait - January 31, 2015, 7:53 am

Too much red. Try adding gradients or something. Maybe a color correction.

Razor 1911 - January 31, 2015, 7:56 am

(Jan 31, 2015 08:01 AM)Troja?Hors? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would rate this around a 7, nice colour scheme.

TH.

thanks for the rate.. can you please suggest some improvements

zetta - January 31, 2015, 7:59 am

Again...

What the actual clusterfuck.

Make the width of your threads 1000px, and get all text centered, and maybe titles aligned to the right or something.

There's honestly not a lot of difference from your first design to the second.

This black and red looks waaay too plain.

Would be cool to see a panel with a red background and black text, instead of it all having the black background and red text.

Maybe even bring in a 3rd color, which is not a contrast color (Black and white).

Tigerbait - January 31, 2015, 8:01 am

(Jan 31, 2015 08:59 AM)zetta Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Again...

What the actual clusterfuck.

Make the width of your threads 1000px, and get all text centered, and maybe titles aligned to the right or something.

There's honestly not a lot of difference from your first design to the second.

This black and red looks waaay too plain.

Would be cool to see a panel with a red background and black text, instead of it all having the black background and red text.

Maybe even bring in a 3rd color, which is not a contrast color (Black and white).Agreed. Too much of one thing is a bad thing.

zetta - January 31, 2015, 8:11 am

(Jan 31, 2015 09:01 AM)tigerbait96 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Agreed. Too much of one thing is a bad thing.

Oops, I forgot to add that. When you make the width of your thread 1000px, you shouldn't get the text closer than 50px-100px to the edge on both sides.

So make some guidelines like this:

<http://prntscr.com/5zd13q>

and keep the text in between those guidelines.

The centered one is just to keep everything centered, which can get a little difficult, when you start getting a lot of layers, and they keep snapping to each other.

Razor 1911 - January 31, 2015, 8:52 am actually i made this in several segments.. overall the image size is little over 3.5MB and imgur makes it .jpg :/ i understand about centering all the things i keep it in mind for my next design..

#DPT - January 31, 2015, 8:55 am

Very nice thread design, If you'd like to do a free one for me, I'll be happy :D

Razor 1911 - January 31, 2015, 10:02 am

(Jan 31, 2015 09:55 AM)#DPT Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Very nice thread design, If you'd like to do a free one for me, I'll be happy :D

sure man i soon start a service :) will do free designs for couple of days

EDIT : BUMP.! Design updated, borders added