And this is why you shouldn't go first to anyone.

I know that he has a lot of rep and stuff but you run an exchange service and are way more trusted in the Currency Exchange Section than he is so you shouldn't have agreed to go first to him.

Please add a link to his profile as well.

Slut Muffin N - February 4, 2015, 2:50 pm

He has 1.5k rep and only scams $100? If he actually did scam this, he is a poor excuse for a human being. Scamming $100. Man.

Why scam $100 soulzeh if you did? Can you not afford electricity bill over there in Australia ?

K?i?K - February 4, 2015, 2:54 pm

Sucks to know that you got scammed, This is the problem you guys face. One scam and you lose all profit you made through exchanges.

That's very true, I have seen so many people say they got hacked. Which I find funny, what are the odds are getting hacked only when you are making larger deals. ?

Then he could provide proof by linking his BTC wallet, and see all his recent transactions and prove he sent the money.

Looks like a legit scam report , i hope this get solved op

Douchebag # 145 - February 16, 2015, 4:52 pm

Looks like you're not getting anything back. Which sucks. I've talked with Kev and it does seem like a big misunderstanding. With that said, he's in the wrong still, even if he did get fucked by some other dude.

Anyway, sorry OP. That blows.

I don't see how you think it's a misunderstanding.. He gave a fake delivery screenshot and now he no longer responds to his scam reports.

Him and Nickolodean both in a few week span

What's going on here D:

It's a misunderstanding b/c SoulZeh isn't actually the one who ended up with the money.

Regardless of whether he did or did not, he's in the wrong and technically is considered a scammer right now, so.

h?cker22 - February 16, 2015, 9:44 pm

It's really depressing to see SoulZeh involved in this. But it's even more depressing that he doesn't take responsibility for the deal he made, and fix it.

Yep, guess he thought $400 was worth it. ?

I wasn't aware of this at the time of the deal, I found out there was a third party later on. I wouldn't have exchanged with him if I knew the money wasn't coming from him.

He is 100% at fault, doesn't matter how you put it.

400$ or 100$?

But yes, SoulZeh is definitely at fault.

He is 100% at fault, doesn't matter how you put it. Same situation with me. Never claimed anything about a third party until reports starting popping up and stuff, even said before things like "I just sent it", etc.

All these(one being mine for $100), along with one guy claiming in his rep he got scammed but seems didn't post his own report. My dispute is at

Also @OP, you should put it in the database. Also have you had any contact with him recently?

Yeah, I'm a $100 victim, although I was just riding out the other ones instead of taking the time to post my own, as everyone else involved with Soulzesh has provided sufficient proof.

Foundatons - February 19, 2015, 10:18 pm legit scam report sorry you got scammed op.

nickchan - February 19, 2015, 10:19 pm

Sorry op I hope you get your money back

It seems like everyday more and more people are getting scammed by what looks like reputable members

I'm so happy that I will never be one of those. I couldn't imagine scamming someone.

I would feel terrible

Soulzeh is working on resolving this with me now. I'll update this with the amounts paid back. So far he's paid me back $20/$100.

Wow nearly 2 years later. If only that happened often. Thought SoulZeh was a quality member, guess maybe trying to undo wrongs in the past
