Thread: What would you do if you were immortal?

CupHead - February 7, 2015, 10:50 pm

You realized that you are a immortal what would you do? You no longer need to eat, you stop aging at 21, you can't get sick, you can't get hurt!

I would most likely just tell the world that i'm immortal and fuck as many bitches that I can without spreading any type of disease.

adampelletgun - February 7, 2015, 10:50 pm

Take over the world and make it a good place.

CyberneticTitan - February 7, 2015, 10:52 pm

W'bout you? There's a lot of things to do when you're the mightiest of humanity and you have all the time in the world...

I would do shit that otherwise would kill me.

dismayed - February 7, 2015, 11:15 pm

If lets say cut your leg off, it will grow back, I would go to pubs and bet people I will cut my finger off for 200 bucks and of cause they won't believe me and bet, then I will do it. I would put some fake screams and stuff in of cause ;).

But being immortal would be more of a curse in my opinion. You will be used, you will be looked at as the devil, but, people will look at you as God, you might be exiled even from Earth if you wen't a fighter.

Dickface - February 7, 2015, 11:16 pm

I would probably live similar to how the vampires in Twilight live tbh.

Stick around a certain town for awhile, meet some people, make some friends and all that ya know.

Then after a couple years, move to a new place so people don't notice that I don't age.

And if I found someone I loved, tell them and spend the rest of our lives together and then ye.

Cliche and all, but I wouldn't wanna announce it and get abducted and experimented on the rest of my immortal years x)

Would rather be under the radar.

Could always be a superhero though tbh. ?

Didnt really find vampire diaries an amazing TV show, but id much rather watch all of the seasons 5 times over than watch twilight again.

Yuikoro - February 8, 2015, 12:53 am

I'll keep a knife handy on me at all times so that in the event I accidentally into someone and they scream, "kill yourself you fooken cuntng mong!" I'll whip the knife out, stab myself in the head, and keep walking.

I did no crime since nobody was harmed, I didn't harass anyone, nor did I (intentionally) scar anyone for life. All I did was attempt to fulfill a request, and failed and it was just coincidental that a few people might need a therapist.

Of course, this even assumes I would go outside in the first place. I'm practically a vampire as is considering the amount of times I see the sun in my current state.

But idc like... I like basic porno in HBO TV shows which makes them unable to be on normal TV. I also read the books to Vampire Diaries and didn't like the show compared to them. Same thing with what True Blood was based on (Sookie Stackhouse Novels).

But I don't prefer either show over what I normally watch. Just from watching both, I'd rather watch True Blood.

Most idiots here would tell the whole world, and be really open with it.
Just because you are immortal doesn't mean you can live freely. They will think you're the devil, and try to capture you and lock you up forever.

I would live with my family for a while, and after some years, I'd fake my death and study Buddhism, never been achieved before. And I'd stay hidden from the world.

This would be painful. If I found my significant other, her death would be inevitable. I would see her experience the pains of living, pains I would never experience.

I would refrain from falling in love.

Living a solitary existence for eternity would be really lonely. I say this because if you continued to travel around this blue ball in order to preserve your secret, there's no way your friendships would last. While time has continued moving for everyone else, time for you has stopped. Or rather, time never applied to you to begin with. These friends, relationships, and experiences you'll encounter--how do these span of events compare to infinity? They're just an insignificant grain of sand on the beach, a star millions of lightyears away in the sky, an atom on the tip of a pin needle--these events are so insignificant, so incomprehensibly tiny if looked at from an existence that has no end. These insignificant events will likely be overshadowed by the pain that you'll inevitably encounter on your journeys.

These events will be predominant over the course of your eternal existence, for they have, and always will be, a sharp and poignant theme in the lives of every human being on Earth.

Knowing this, would you still want to live for eternity? I wouldn't.

A) end of earth is probably what you meant

B) you wouldn't have to, you could go ahead and research other planets

Dragnite - February 9, 2015, 2:27 am

Live my life how I normally would, do some shit that defies what a human should be able to do every now and then, try to not to draw too much attention to myself because that would lead to experimentation, me being locked up and used as a government guinea pig so fuck that.

How would you even get to other planets if everything is gone.. you would be floating in nothing.

If as in immortal you ment; being unkillable, nothing can penetrate your skin(break your bones or even harm you in any way) I'd fight in wars most likely.

thecamwars - February 9, 2015, 9:46 pm

I wouldnt like to be immortal.

I would supress the human race going to war and destroying themselves.
then.

Nothing, not sure I would like to live like that for ever.

KingGoldenWax - February 9, 2015, 10:57 pm

The president doesn't decide if you go to jail (except certain cases), the judge does.

Just don't do stupid shit and you're fine.

WarOnDrugs - February 9, 2015, 11:44 pm

Try and kill myself in intricate ways. Televisе eachone become a government experiment. Let them kill me.

Naturally, I think we want to die. It would just be increasingly saddening being around all the people you care for die, and you are left alone.

Champ?on - February 10, 2015, 3:07 am

I'll fuck the baddest bitches. I'll take all the money from people so I can be rich as shit, then I'll chill in Hawaii.

Tell my Assistant to line up all the bitches in a single file line because I'm going in. ?

Declan? - February 10, 2015, 10:50 pm

Vueren - February 12, 2015, 9:34 pm

I'll be the first man to live on Neptune. KTHX. I mean it'd be pretty fun. Really high winds, lots of gasses.. idk what's to say I wouldn't like it? Eh nevermind it'd be pretty boring as I'd be stuck there.

Hmm.. yeah. I guess being a mercenary is the only thing appealing. Well either that or being the only person to survive the nuclear holocaust after I cause it. Nah that'd be pretty boring.. I guess I could just go into a never ending sleep. I love the dreamscape.

Pew ? - February 12, 2015, 9:35 pm

i'd jump off buildings and scare people but then be like nah fam i'm good so what you wanna do now

Khalaxon - February 12, 2015, 10:04 pm

Try my hardest to kill myself, what happens when the world ends? You float in space for an eternity. Also you'd lose so many friends, family and loved ones and it would all repeat.

You find love, they die of age, then that repeats.

TLDR: Fuck Being Immortal.

legendaryfiles - February 15, 2015, 2:17 am

I will go for army

I will grow up my nation

I will fuck hot girls every 2nd day

but after sometime i will seem to be bored because everyone you love will die and you will be left alone in this world and your heart will be full of dead dear ones being immortal is not a good thing.

It could simply make your life worse

Yeah, and if they give you, say, 100+ years for some reason you're gonna hate yourself for it.

I'd probably try and find a way to live comfortably while doing the least work possible, maybe learn a bit of thievery, and live it up!

WizeVibez - February 15, 2015, 6:10 am don't think I would tell anyone because seeing that they would immediately lock you up knowing what you could do, I would try to gain myself to power slowly somehow then takeover and bring world peace :D haha
