

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Priority #1 for Omnicoin

Omniscient - February 10, 2015, 4:57 pm

We need to get onto a larger exchange. I tried previously but no luck. So we've rode the AllCrypt train for some time. But I think it's time we renew the effort to get listed at a more well-known exchange like Cryptsy.

Does anyone have any ideas, suggestions, or contacts to make this happen?

Adium - February 10, 2015, 5:00 pm

It's probably best to wait a few weeks before trying to get into other markets, OMC will be viewed as insecure until we have more details on how the recent breach occurred.

FRANKIE - February 10, 2015, 5:01 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 05:57 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) We need to get onto a larger exchange. I tried previously but no luck. So we've rode the AllCrypt train for some time. But I think it's time we renew the effort to get listed at a more well-known exchange like Cryptsy.

Does anyone have any ideas, suggestions, or contacts to make this happen?

This might seem like a bit of a stretch and definitely require a considerable amount of time and resources but what if you were to create your own currency exchange website? You are able to run this one fairly well by yourself and if you were to create an exchange site you would undoubtedly have decent people working with you ( example: the current Omnicoin staff and such) with a slight bit of advertising because of all the recent downfalls to big exchange sites, you could definitely get high rankings and a lot of users. I do apologize if this sounds stupid or uneducated in any way but it is definitely a legitimate possibility.

Ricky? - February 10, 2015, 5:01 pm

Mass tweet?

Get a lot of people to tweet / email, whatever way we can contact them.

They will see a big demand for the coin and hopefully accept it.

That's the only thing I can think of atm.

Fudster - February 10, 2015, 5:02 pm

I think the coin needs a fork pretty soon. You were saying it is over 60% mined.

webdev77 - February 10, 2015, 5:04 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:01 PM)FRANKIE Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This might seem like a bit of a stretch and definitely require a considerable amount of time and resources but what if you were to create your own currency exchange website? You are able to run this one fairly well by yourself and if you were to create an exchange site you would undoubtedly have decent people working with you ( example: the current Omnicoin staff and such) with a slight bit of advertising because of all the recent downfalls to big exchange sites, you could definitely get high rankings and a lot of users. I do apologize if this sounds stupid or uneducated in any way but it is definitely a legitimate possibility.

Security on exchange sites is a nightmare. It's like an unregulated bank essentially. Huge liability for really no gain in this case.

I think that after OMC is stabilized again, we should set a three day period out there to email/tweet/call/contact a chosen exchange. We could easily get a few hundred people to participate.

Fudster - February 10, 2015, 5:04 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:01 PM)Ricky? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Mass tweet?

Get a lot of people to tweet / email, what ever way we can contact them.

They will see a big demand for the coin and hopefully accept it.

Thats the only thing I can think of atm.

Pretty much this. But it can't really be our social media section:p has to be legitimate users.

Even a copy and paste template for emails and tweets

well then - February 10, 2015, 5:04 pm

I think if we start the coin fresh and tweet at Cryptsy with retweets provided by me, they'll look at how many people support the idea and take it into consideration.

Just a thought.

Fudster - February 10, 2015, 5:05 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:04 PM)?????Appa?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think if we start the coin fresh and tweet at Cryptsy with retweets provided by me, they'll look at how many people support the idea and take it into consideration.

Just a thought.

....depends on your retweets :p do they even look real?

'Snorlax - February 10, 2015, 5:06 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:04 PM)?????Appa?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think if we start the coin fresh and tweet at Cryptsy with retweets provided by me, they'll look at how many people support the idea and take it into consideration.

Just a thought.

A fresh coin? Again? Hell no. What's wrong with the currency now? Nothing.

I agree we should look into bigger exchanges. Mass tweeting isn't a bad idea.

well then - February 10, 2015, 5:06 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:05 PM)Fudster™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ....depends on your retweets :p do they even look real?

Yes my friend I only provide the highest quality services. (I'm not trying to promote myself. Just giving an idea and backing up my claims that the quality is good.)

???? - February 10, 2015, 5:08 pm

You could use real retweet promotion such as shout outs and panels.

Cyrus - February 10, 2015, 5:10 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:04 PM)webdev77 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Security on exchange sites is a nightmare. It's like an unregulated bank essentially. Huge liability for really no gain in this case.

I think that after OMC is stabilized again, we should set a three day period out there to email/tweet/call/contact a chosen exchange. We could easily get a few hundred people to participate.

We could even contact multiple exchanges.

Legion. - February 10, 2015, 5:13 pm

I think that we need to get into other forums/communities before worrying about getting into other exchanges.

Illuminati? - February 10, 2015, 5:28 pm

We could all tweet at Bter. (<https://twitter.com/btercom>)

They actually have a voting going on, they add coins that get lots of votes apparently.

It says this on the page; "You are welcome to recommend new coins to us by submitting a ticket at here with the coin announcement link. "

Here's what it looks like: Spoiler (Click to View)

<https://gyazo.com/1fdcbbd4e86dfac6de9681e2ecd6f10ca>

I think if we had tons of members tweet at them and submit tickets they'd actually add the coin.

Only thing that sucks is that you have to have some kind of small exchange history.

It's worth checking it out, sign up and look at the voting.

Post Malone - February 10, 2015, 5:31 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:08 PM)???? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You could use real retweet promotion such as shout outs and panels.

I'd help you if this was an option Omni. I have no problem giving back to HF.

Trap Drugs - February 10, 2015, 5:37 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:08 PM)???? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You could use real retweet promotion such as shout outs and panels.

This.

Do not use fake retweets to promote Omnicoin, its going to look awful if we do.

Omniscient - February 10, 2015, 5:41 pm

Quote: but what if you were to create your own currency exchange website

Most of the best exchanges operate outside the USA for a reason. It's just a lot of hassle to deal with regulatory problems right now. I would not want to be held responsible for wallets anyways.

Quote:I think that we need to get into other forums/communities before worrying about getting into other exchanges.

Properly run exchanges are vital to any expansion. I tried before with dozens of contacts and pleas but to no avail. But I think it's time we try again once the dust settle with the AllCrypt situation. I'm hoping it will be fully resolved within 48 hours.

Bter seems a good choice. I don't even think I contacted them before.

Legion. - February 10, 2015, 5:44 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:41 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Properly run exchanges are vital to any expansion. I tried before with dozens of contacts and pleas but to no avail. But I think it's time we try again once the dust settle with the AllCrypt situation. I'm hoping it will be fully resolved within 48 hours.

Bter seems a good choice. I don't even think I contacted them before. Why don't we get a Twitterstorm up? With a few pre-made tweets, then have a set time and we all tweet. I could help write it if you guys wanted.

Justin Timberlake - February 10, 2015, 5:47 pm

Honestly Cryptsy would be a great choice and would really help OMC. We would have to wait until this whole ordeal settled and then prove to them that it's a legitimate crypto coin with potential. We have a huge member base, it shouldn't be too hard to rack up support for it.

Lord.Baltimore - February 10, 2015, 11:15 pm

For enter on cryptsy, i think is necessary to get a good hashrate and make a tweet for cryptsy about Omni and make RT, RT and RT !!

Hydra - February 10, 2015, 11:22 pm

Like others have said:

Make a few different templates and tweet them out to the target.
Get shout outs from popular accounts.
Contact the target directly through email or something.

If we can get them annoyed, it'll show that we care for OMC and that it's popular enough to get added.

NoMercy - February 11, 2015, 4:53 am

Couldn't we get like a lot of people from HF to put or comment on their twitter or facebook page about adding OMC? I'm not talking about spamming their page with posts before someone gets that impression. I mean Omni makes a tweet on their twitter and then we all comment on it saying how much we would like it. It would sure as hell make them realize how much people actually want OMC on a better exchange.

Aceman - February 11, 2015, 8:04 am

Most exchanges want to see that there is a large community behind a coin which is why some companies ask that people get retweets or Facebook followers to a page. We need to show the exchange(s) that we have a very large backing by a group of people with thousands of BTC to invest should they be interested in doing so. Another part of that would be implementation of the tipping system and release of the plug in so that other forums could use it. This would give OMC a larger purpose which would help to supply the volume that would keep us listed on major exchanges.

Frawshy - February 11, 2015, 8:07 am

Well Omni, let's pay to get onto larger exchange sites. I know there's some well-known sites that would accept even 1 BTC just to be added. I'd be down to donate for this.
I absolutely love OMC.

Fizure - February 11, 2015, 1:46 pm

u know thats not gonna be easy especially if we dont open a thread on BtC-Talk, and you said that, that wont happen cuz u dont want to send HF users to another forum so thats one reason why exchange sites wont let us in,

So is up to you you need to be more confident ...

Omniscient - February 11, 2015, 2:33 pm

Quote:u know thats not gonna be easy especially if we dont open a thread on BtC-Talk, and you said that, that wont happen cuz u dont want to send HF users to another forum so thats one reason why exchange sites wont let us in,

Barely mentioning OMC at Bitcointalk gets a lot of haters responding. And we have no moderation powers there. It could and would likely hurt us more than help us being there. I think that site is poorly run and the fact that exchanges require popular threads there is a bit of a joke imho. I could rant all day about the process to get listed in exchanges and how I think it's moronic. In the end I'm sure we'll get listed even if I have to bribe admins which appears to be the actual way most get listed. If it was because of popularity OMC would be listed in more exchanges. I see a lot of them which are listed which have almost no value or activity. At the very least OMC has fairly constant activity.

VRUMM - February 11, 2015, 2:49 pm

I asked someone. Hopefully he can do it.

HashBTC - February 11, 2015, 2:50 pm

(Feb 11, 2015 03:33 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Barely mentioning OMC at Bitcointalk gets a lot of haters responding. And we have no moderation powers there. It could and would likely hurt us more than help us being there. I think that site is poorly run and the fact that exchanges require popular threads there is a bit of a joke imho. I could rant all day about the process to get listed in exchanges and how I think it's moronic. In the end I'm sure we'll get listed even if I have to bribe admins which appears to be the actual way most get listed. If it was because of popularity OMC would be listed in more exchanges. I see a lot of them which are listed which have almost no value or activity. At the very least OMC has fairly constant activity.

I could help with the posting a thread on bitcointalk if you want. I am a senior member on there.

Young Gerald - February 11, 2015, 2:53 pm

That would be so awesome a fresh new coin, but I doubt unless the whole community promotes it that it goes big, dude you should maybe give a special userbar or something to whoever promotes it well or donates for the cause! Would probably motivate a lot of people.

VRUMM - February 11, 2015, 3:00 pm

FYI there isn't anything in the get started page on omnicoin.org.

Doctor Blue - February 11, 2015, 3:17 pm

If it wasn't hell to keep track of taxes with cryptos in Denmark I'd probably just have an exchange adding everything there is. At most, I'd require the community to pay for the server running the wallet. If they're small wallets it could be done on a really cheap server and would be almost negligible to the person wanting it on the exchange (€15 would pay for half a year for a somewhat inactive coin).

Krew - February 11, 2015, 3:20 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:04 PM)?????Appa?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think if we start the coin fresh and tweet at Cryptsy with retweets provided by me, they'll look at how many people support the idea and take it into consideration.

Just a thought.

Yeah, no..

I haven't spent money on mining for no reason, good sir. ?

Eternal. - February 11, 2015, 4:54 pm

(Feb 10, 2015 06:41 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Most of the best exchanges operate outside the USA for a reason. It's just a lot of hassle to deal with regulatory problems right now. I would not want to be held responsible for wallets anyways.

Properly run exchanges are vital to any expansion. I tried before with dozens of contacts and pleas but to no avail. But I think it's time we try again once the dust settle with the AllCrypt situation. I'm hoping it will be fully resolved within 48 hours.

Bter seems a good choice. I don't even think I contacted them before.
I know you contacted them via Twitter last year.

<https://twitter.com/HackForumsNet/status/462398074531622912>

Accessory - February 11, 2015, 5:46 pm

Omni, i think you should look at this with a clear head before we make any vital decisions that could potentially ruin reputation and such. Mass tweeting wouldn't be such a bad idea as other users have said. But we need to rethink possibilities on larger exchanges and such. What approach do you have in mind at this point.

?Blastonic - February 11, 2015, 6:04 pm

The best approach is any approach which shows how powerful OMC can be, and how well it can be spread and used throughout the crypto word. Opinions from smart economics majors and people with a good economic reputation will get their voice across as compared to some random person on a petition or something like that. Faking a large amount of people won't help at all and it will probably ruin any chances OMC has. Letting omni deal with this personally (maybe with the help of top HF members) is probably the best course of action. People on the development team should probably throw in their input as well to help the case. I say omni should stick with his gut and just try to cut his way onto an exchange and watch a positive impact happen.

Expels - February 11, 2015, 7:07 pm

Offer a retweet chain. Meaning we spread and get OMC bigger. You make a tweet, then offer some sort of reward if WE retweet it. It would get massive spread and you could make the reward something small just like a forum award, or pat on the back. (Something like that, base idea)
You could get massive amounts of retweets and if everyone who retweeted tagged Cryptsy, we might get somewhere.

myeroc - February 11, 2015, 8:32 pm

The real priority should be getting OMC up and running again since its been shut down. I don't know how long that will take and I am sure you guys are working hard on it.

P3TE - February 11, 2015, 8:45 pm

lol it'll be hard to get on cryptsy you need to start lower and work your way up

Che Guevara - February 12, 2015, 10:37 am

Maybe create a main website for everything about Omnicoin. Provide an official wallet and have strict rules regarding scammers/scams. Like you have the right to refund someone's money back to his wallet if his scam report was valid with solid proof. I think that'd help people feel more relaxed using Omnicoin and prefer it over other currencies with time. Social promotion is also a good idea for Omnicoin to become popular outside this forum. It will take some time before it gets listen but if things are done perfectly then I don't see why it wouldn't become popular.

Nassim - February 12, 2015, 12:10 pm

I think we have to focus on buiding a community of omnicoin since HF is not really the good place...

why ? because only 1/6 of the world have access on HF the others are banned.. and it is not good point for Omnicoin we have to think about that

And second i'am sure that supplying other site to accept Omnicoin is not a good things to do

HOPE OMNICOIN WILL shine one day

Just don't give up

Dr. Neck Beard - February 12, 2015, 10:07 pm

Isn't it kind of pointless to start mining OMC anyways? its like 60% mined and Omni irc has about 80% of the coins lol

hoppedup - February 13, 2015, 10:15 am

I had got us on the voting here <https://c-cex.com/?id=vote> this site isn't one of the bigger sites but if you show some volume on trades I have noticed bittrex are more likely to list it next.

Lord.Baltimore - February 13, 2015, 10:24 am (Feb 13, 2015 11:15 AM)hoppedup Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I had got us on the voting here <https://c-cex.com/?id=vote> this site isn't one of the bigger sites but if you show some volume on trades I have noticed bittrex are more likely to list it next.

Go make an announce for all forum !

All member do vote for cex.com !

Go omni go !

I go make a thread!

Moen - February 13, 2015, 10:27 am

(Feb 13, 2015 11:24 AM)Lord.Baltimore Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go make an announce for all forum !

All member do vote for cex.com !

Go omni go !

I go make a thread!

qoute from their site....

"If trade volume of added coins is less than 1 BTC/week - we reserve our right to remove it. "

so c-cex.com do not care about having a coin like omnicoin. When it was on allcrypt it barly got 0.05 BTC tradevolume a day

hoppedup - February 13, 2015, 11:07 am

(Feb 13, 2015 11:27 AM)Moen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) qoute from their site....

"If trade volume of added coins is less than 1 BTC/week - we reserve our right to remove it. "

so c-cex.com do not care about having a coin like omnicoin. When it was on allcrypt it barly got 0.05 BTC tradevolume a day

I know it seems alot for trading in a week but with the bigger exchanges it will need to be even higher but with us working our way up and hopefully gathering more investors 1btc a week will be nothing.

Industry - February 13, 2015, 12:21 pm

Maybe the focus should be to try and stabilize the coin on one exchange, before trying go get it on a more well known exchange hub. A larger exchange would be all it takes to ruin something like OMC. Honestly, I suggest applying OMC as payable currency towards all sort of purposes here.

If all it's going to be used for is an auction here and there, or some award we may as well stick to our preferred currency. To exchange from USD > BTC > OMC just to buy something that could have been paid for with cash, seems a little stupid to me.

MD5 - February 13, 2015, 12:37 pm

You could offer sticky threads on hackforums with like 25% discount if they accept omnicoin.

This would make people on HF more interested in the coin as many big products can be bought with it.

Then, more OMC will be bought so there will be more interest for exchange sites to add it.

- MD5

Supervisor - February 14, 2015, 12:34 pm

I am very good friend with admins and mods on Cryptsy.

If I can help simply PM me please.