GreenTea - February 12, 2015, 3:46 am

Check out this site guys. I never knew that this actually works. I thought its one of those stupid sites where you don't get nothing. Yes you have to complete a survey. But you actually get the code too after you wait 15 minutes.

Here is the link: <http://xboxtrial.com/?r=629>

NOTE: When you doing the surveys, make sure you don't use any adblock ! If you use adblock the survey won't be verified and you won't get your code.

Also, if you don't want to pay for the surveys and you live outside US. Use a VPN like Hotspot Shield and connect to United States. This will use a virtual location and you will be able to choose surveys which only require some personal information. If you don't want to use your information. Use www.fakenamegenerator.com and generate a fake name.

PROOF:

This is when I didn't had my code claimed yet:

This is after I waited 6 minutes and I received my code:

The code is valid:

You will have to believe me on this one. This is not fake. Please someone try it out and let me know how it worked.

That's a bit ridiculous.

Okay then. Well that's why I posted this method. I know you have to wait a lot, but idk any other better methods to get xbox live codes. I thought this would help out people who really need a code.

T.G.K. - February 12, 2015, 2:31 pm

Thanks. I got a random credit point (maybe it was for liking their page or some shit)? Only took me a couple minutes to realize I got one.

If it wasn't for the effortless credit point, I wouldn't have done this method. Surveys are more of a pain than they're worth.

NVM, this site can suck my dick. The code was already claimed. GG no re.

Because the email from there is fake. The only thing that needs to be valid is the email address.

If that appears try to choose other survey not from AdworkMedia. Choose a offer from CPAGrip. I think it does that when you do the same survey over and over with the same email address.

They have more than 300, it actually shows how many codes they left with. At this moment they have 719 codes left. Last time they had 500 but then it got updated and it showed that they have 1000 codes left. And yes, they probably make some money out of the surveys, but they at least give you something.

Hey, GreenTea, first of all thank you so much for posting this I used this method a couple times last week and it worked perfectly I got two codes, but now that I try it today the credit just doesn't go through no matter how many offers I complete. (Yes, i have cookies allowed and ad blocker disabled, yes I tried refreshing the page and using different info)

I've completed about 10 offers today and still no credit no matter how long I wait. Was wondering if I could perhaps be blessed with a code so I could play with my friend overseas? Would be greatly appreciated :)

just because an advertiser isn't detecting your offer as completed also doesn't mean its fake, you must also disable adblock entirely so you don't block pixels from third party websites such as the survey sites

Yeah, maybe I wasn't clear enough, make sure your adblock is disabled entirely not just only on that page, cause when you make the surveys that's already a different website.
