

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Group Situation and Tibit

Omniscient - February 17, 2015, 3:34 pm

Without being overly dramatic about this I'd like to alert the members concerning Tibit losing his group and seemingly owing a lot of people a lot of money.

I have today officially sold a new group to 'Porygon.

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2041579>

I was going to use the proceeds to pay Tibit, however it appears that he's scammed one member for partial ownership of the group for nearly $4k. And he also accepted a lot of money for leadership and member fees. In good-conscience I can't see just forking over all this money to a guy who has scammed the community.

I sent him my concerns days ago and he has not responded. I was hoping to come to an agreement with him to ensure that he repaid the members he promised he would and make right the situation before he leaves. Unfortunately, I can't be sure he will.

I plan on holding the funds for his group until I'm more comfortable that he has corrected these problems.

HF lost 3 official user groups in the past 6 months. I've sold one and another is about to be sold as well. I will very likely leave the 3rd group for the OMC auction which I hope to resume when OMC is stable again.

This thread is more of an announcement about what's going on. It's being closed to minimize drama but I wanted disclosure on what's happening.

Thank you.

Omniscient - February 17, 2015, 6:22 pm

Update:

Tibit has been sent $2k payment from me.

<https://blockchain.info/tx-index/eab0e8129410f1771e761804fe57f7d2d26a06daccffd12ab755c32c83eca1a0>

He will use those funds to refund the appropriate people.