Thread: FREE Skype Logger | Log All Your Chats! | View Removed Messages | Not Stored Locally

Drizzy?? - February 21, 2015, 3:34 pm

Hey guys, so I got tired of not being able to see messages after they've been removed so I made this quick program. Basically what it does is logs your conversations and stores them in an online text file.

Features:

- Lightweight program
- Reliable (Ran 24 hours straight no problems)
- Doesn't store logs locally, rather than on a website
- Easy to use interface
- Minimizes to system tray to stay out of your way

How to Use:

- Download and open the program
- In your Skype client, when it asks if you want to let the program access your Skype, click accept.
- The interface should pop up. Click "Start Logging"
- You can then minimize the program to the taskbar by double clicking the icon. (See screenshot)(You can make the program re-appear by double clicking the icon again)

How to Get:

Just visit <http://skypelogs.com>

I made it website sided for a few reasons.

- 1) Easy access from anywhere (not sure if this would be useful but meh)
- 2) Assuming you're dealing via Skype, one or both of you could log the deal that's going down and the logs could be used as proof in the Scam Report. If they were recorded locally, one or the other could easily edit them.

And if I may ask, what type of security risks are you thinking of?

And if I may ask, what type of security risks are you thinking of?The host of the website seeing them.

After all these leaks coming out cloud,bter,sony why would I trust a website that will store all of my personal skype logs.

If you make an option so that It doesn't store on a site that would be nice. Make it the users decision weather or not he allows them to keep them stored on a site.

2) Assuming you're dealing via Skype, one or both of you could log the deal that's going down and the logs could be used as proof in the Scam Report. If they were recorded locally, one or the other could easily edit them.

The scam report would be invaild already because it was delt offsite. You would have as much evidence as using skype screenshots

This.

OP, it just sounds like you are looking for a reason to keep our Skype logs on that site. No thank you.
