Thread: cleaning up the cryptography section

VEX_solutions - February 26, 2015, 9:59 am

while i am aware that crypters belong in this section, i think that they are flooding it making it harder for actual threads relating to cryptography to be found.

i don't know the term but how i guess it would be like a "sub-section" within the cryptography section dedicated to the discussion of crypters (the threads such as "which crypter is the best for ABC keylogger" or "my server doesnt work after i used ACB crypter")

I actually agree with you, instead of it being a place for learning cryptography, it's just a place where people sell their crypters...

IpSiety - February 26, 2015, 10:06 am

I think so to0, I've always wondered why there wasn't a marketplace for the crypters.

VEX_solutions - February 26, 2015, 10:10 am

there is in the premium sellers section, i just checked.

like i get that people may need help with their crypters perhapse like an "info" file or something that lists the best crypters for each program etcetc would reduce the amount of posts about the same topic.

HF has a HUGE misconception of cryptography in that section. Many people think cryptography only consists of FUD'ing their old, out dated Rats. In my opinion that section is useless. They should either ban or create a sub-section for crypting applications, and then the section into true cryptography. I would love to learn more/teach in that section about how encryption actually works and how good it really is. Be good for people on here to also learn how to spoof SSL certificates for MITM attacks and other related activities.

Totally Agreeing with you, this section is such a mess to find useful info about "real" cryptography...

I agree, there needs to be stricter categorization in most sections of the forum, especially the marketplace! Premium sellers section is a mess.

I completely agree with this. The crypters are mostly spam threads too.

hopefully a mod will see this and implement it.

i have found some very cool posts in there about steganography and such but they get lost so quickly amin the crypters

This is already suggested a lot:

Probably won't happen I guess.

But, I support it as well.

Like Neily said above, this has been suggested and denied in the past. Just take a look here;
