Who's doing this? xD

JavaCoderz - February 27, 2015, 8:47 pm

It was happening a lot earlier, I believe with a bot/script. There were constant sell orders of 13.37 OMC that were also being purchased pretty quickly.

If you read Allcrypt chat, it seems as if Abe did at least the 13.37 orders (not sure about what's in the OP).

If the seller was also the one purchasing them back, it would seem as if they're trying to fake volume, but it could be just for fun or to get people to purchase them since from what I saw, it hadn't really gone on long enough to make an impact on trade volume. This is judging by what I've seen, but I suppose we'll have to wait for said person to post about it if they choose to.

Someone must be extremely fucking bored to do this...

There is a small chance that this could maybe have possibly been done by me.

I got bored.

It's to sell my OMC in a fun way.

I wasn't buying them, though. Someone else had a market order buying them, I believe.

You fucking suck. I thought the price was being manipulated with a bot.

Sometimes we assume the worse when the answer is much simpler. He took the orders down now, does he still suck?

Someone just made a bunch of 13.37 orders again.

Anyone else have difficulties logging in Allcrypt using 2FA?

Keep saying Failure when I enter the 2FA. It worked once at a random moment.

Thanks,

For some reason my cell phone was 45 seconds ahead of my laptop.

Oh my goodness this is hilarious.

Whoever had the time to do this....

That was me. I did it by hand at first, but later wrote a script to do it for me.
