Omniscient - March 2, 2015, 10:36 pm

We are no longer running the MoTM (Member of the Month) award.

The section is closed and eventually I'll delete it.

Thanks to everyone who participated and earned the award.

Goodies - March 2, 2015, 10:36 pm

Damn. I never got to win the award ;)

Thank you to Froggy and the rest for a great time!

brian188246 - March 2, 2015, 10:37 pm

Wow somebody called this just a little while ago.

Sad to see it happen, but it was becoming too much.

Doxicity - March 2, 2015, 10:37 pm

Kind of expected this to happen at one point or another.

Congratulations to everyone who's received the award!

FRANKIE - March 2, 2015, 10:37 pm

Really sucks to see a few users ruin it for a lot.

I guess this is for the best to dissolve all controversy.

Update - March 2, 2015, 10:37 pm

Damn, there goes my hopes and dreams. Gratz to all that got it.

CyberneticTitan - March 2, 2015, 10:38 pm

Somehow I think all of us knew that this was going to happen one way or another.

Congrats to the people who have earned the award and those who still continue to be a role model.

.Reef - March 2, 2015, 10:40 pm

Saw this coming with all the drama. Congratulations to those who have it.

haydras - March 2, 2015, 10:41 pm

Not surprised, atleast it makes the award more prestigious.

G???????f????s? - March 2, 2015, 10:41 pm

On the bright side Orchid didn't win this.

SIM-888979 - March 2, 2015, 10:41 pm

What a fucking pity. I always wanted to win that award, but with such a toxic nature it is most likely best to stop it.

Lil Durk - March 2, 2015, 10:42 pm

Any clarification on why this is? Just curious.

Sunlight - March 2, 2015, 10:42 pm

What a shame, I've only been here for a bit but it looked like something good.

Matt AH - March 2, 2015, 10:42 pm

Understalker won that one lmaooo!!

Understalker - March 2, 2015, 10:43 pm

Stupid drama caused this to happen and sadly I must take blame for some of it, was a fun way to celebrate the "MOTM" however at the end of the day it was just who had the most fame.

Sad, but true.

This. MoTM was ruined because people cheat for "the lulz" and it's pathetic. You're cheating and ruining it for everyone else. I don't care if it's just a 24x24 award, those who truly help out on this forum deserve a virtual reward, but it's not just that either, it's a mental feeling that they're doing something good which pushes them even further(in most cases, else they just quit HF...) to help more around the community.

Sad to see it get retired but hey, you can come out of retirement so maybe MoTM will come back with new rules(maybe a staff, admin, mentor "group" that votes for MoTM and not 13 yr old kids so cheating isn't possible unless staff and mentor aren't loyal).

Maximum - March 3, 2015, 5:18 am

Personally I think MotM should just continue but just have the polls and make it so nobody can reply on the thread.

That's true but you can never change people from cheating, people will do what they need to do in order to get what they want, having a poll and removing the discussion would benefit it by removing unneeded harassment and trolls. If somebody has sufficient evidence that a nominee is cheating they can just PM the person running MotM and let them handle it.

I've suggested your idea to Froggy before and she liked it but not sure if she was able to do it.

And you CAN stop people from cheating, have MoTM's voting for Staff, Mentors, and Admins ONLY. They're loyal enough to not take in bribes.

Not true you remember Judge Dredd or what ever his name was took bribes and such.

Roger Waters - March 3, 2015, 5:57 am

I was able to nominate Aura, Escrow, and Crypto for the awards and they ended up winning. Abraham Lincoln was also nominated by me this month and likely would have won if he wasn't disqualified for being in the poll last month. I tried my best to nominate the best members each month and most of the time they did well when they were nominated. Hopefully this can be brought back in some way in the future, even if only Staff and Mentors can nominate and vote in the poll privately, as iHydra said.

D3xus - March 3, 2015, 7:28 am

I said this before, and I'll say it again: You ruined it for yourselves when you cheated and caused all this drama about an award. You can't put the blame on any one person (me, Understalker, whoever it is) because we, as a whole, lost the right to it.

Some people put a lot of time into contributing to the forum in great ways: upgrades, tutorials, contests, help desks, lessons, whatever it has to be. They spend countless hours on things that people enjoy. And this award was a way of saying "thank you" to them. But because some people believe they deserve it more than others, we have users who are willing to cheat, lie, and manipulate others in order to shove contestants out of the way to make room for someone else. It's disgusting.

I want the competition to continue as much as anyone else, but not in a scenario where people do terrible things in order to secure a 24x24 award.

Effexion - March 3, 2015, 7:34 am

It would be perfect if the members up for the award never even knew they were up. Thus, no cheating or nominations period.

Aceman - March 3, 2015, 8:47 am

It came to a point where the entrants were not even big contributors. Hell, last month I came in second and I haven't written a tutorial in months and months. It speaks volumes to the fact that those who get the award often rarely deserve it (except for Crypto, he did deserve it).

As D3xus has recently stated, we cant pin point this on anyone. It's happened with probably every MOTM poll, and it's gradually built up to what Omni has decided to do today.

Hopefully, Omni and the staff can think of an alternative method to make this tradition work. If this is final, goodbye MOTM. ?

I agree it's sad it was a popularity contest and members who deserved it didn't get it.

To a lot of people, it's more than an award, though. There are two categories of people who wanted the award:

- 1) Those who genuinely helped out the forum by posting tutorials, being helpful, being nice, etc... basically these guys were rare to find, and
- 2) Those who wanted it to serve as a popularity mark

Then there was me who just liked messing w/ Froggy

I always wanted to win MOTM but I guess that's not going to happen. Big thanks to the petty cheaters and whiney bitches.

Regulus - March 3, 2015, 11:50 am

Would be so awesome to have the award, congratulations to everyone who got it :)

Well congratulations to everyone who managed to get it. Was a great idea, however I am sure you have your reasons for stopping it.

That's hysterical coming from you.. buying into groups, buying votes, why dont you buy yourself a fucking clue.

(Mar 3, 2015 08:28 AM)D3xus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I said this before, and I'll say it again: You ruined it for yourselves when you cheated and caused all this drama about an award. You can't put the blame on any one person (me, Understalker, whoever it is) because we, as a whole, lost the right to it.

Some people put a lot of time into contributing to the forum in great ways: upgrades, tutorials, contests, help desks, lessons, whatever it has to be. They spend countless hours on things that people enjoy. And this award was a way of saying "thank you" to them. But because some people believe they deserve it more than others, we have users who are willing to cheat, lie, and manipulate others in order to shove contestants out of the way to make room for someone else. It's disgusting.

I want the competition to continue as much as anyone else, but not in a scenario where people do terrible things in order to secure a 24x24 award.

It really suck when your to a website I'll shall never see this award :(

Omniscient - March 3, 2015, 12:28 pm

I'm actually surprised it lasted as long as it did.

But oh well...let's move on. It's 12 less award-whoring members who get satisfied every year and 60 or more members who get butthurt when they lose. That's all it really was.

I'm sure we can do something cooler around here than an MoTM anyways. I'm all for shaking things up around here this year.
