Description:

First off, I'd like to say I'm not the kind of guy who makes things complicated. I'm always trying to make a deal go as smooth and transparent as possible for both the buyer and me, and generally dislike making "scam reports", but in this case I've got no other choice.

I'm selling CS:GO items.

The user added me on steam and was interested in one of my items, to be specific the M4 Cyrex. We agreed on 30$ USD, he happily went first, I received the money via PP and sent him the item. Everything went smoothly and he even vouched on my thread.

A few days later, after selling a couple items to different people, he was interested in another 2 items. Same procedure: He sent me the money, 64$ USD and once I received it, I traded him the desired items. (Awp Asiimov Field Tested + AK-47 Case Hardened Field Tested)

A couple minutes later I checked back on PayPal and to my surprise I saw BOTH payments charged back.

I hit him up on steam asking what this is all about, and he replied it was inquired by PayPal, because he had some identification problems with his accounts. He sent me photo proof etc.

He told me he's calling PayPal right now and asking them to resolve the issue.

It was 2:30 AM for me and I told him, if he doesn't solve the issue in 1 hour I want my items traded back, if he gets to sort it all out. I'll gladly trade it back.

Invited him to trade, no reply

Made him a trade offer and went to bed -> next morning: He declined the offer and disappeared off my FL on steam.

If this is all just a series of unfortunate events and he EVENTUALLY gets it fixed, I'm gonna update this and let you guys know..

Proof:

His first vouch on my thread after he bought the M4

Not gonna blur his name since it's fake anyways.

So there you have it, he scammed me in total for $100 USD.

Be careful with this user.

EDIT: I can link proof of the 1st transaction aswell if needed. But i think this speaks for itself. ?

I'm sorry to see this happen to you. Everything including the dates match up. Shame to seem this stuff happen to newer members.

~flexen - March 14, 2015, 10:17 am

Alright, I lost the dispute and therefore lost all the money.

He fully scammed me for 91$.

Bump since hes active on here again.

gore - March 24, 2015, 7:17 am

Well that's just fucked up. Sorry some twat did this to you op.

Rimzee - March 24, 2015, 1:09 pm

Sorry for your loss man hope you resolve this

Protein Shake - March 24, 2015, 1:18 pm

That's shitty man. I hope he has a change of heart even though I know that'll be highly unlikely.

You can get him banned for doing this deal on steam, send a email to support with images and information, at end he and maybe you will be banned too.

YUGOBOSS - March 25, 2015, 1:23 pm

Definitely he used hacked PP account, since money was instant charge-back.

If you have done any purchase on your account, game, wallet, skins etc just contact Steam ASAP and give them transaction details they should return account to you :)

He's been on the forums, but he won't even address this lol. I'll leave him a rep, hopefully he comes through.
