Thread: Linking to post sections

Hi all,

I was reading this thread: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4703001>

And thought it could be a good idea to allow linking to sections within a post. Rather than linking to the post themselves, there could be tagged sections that you could link to.

On this thread: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4703001> for instance, there is a table of contents. It would be nice if you could actually link each item instead of only being able to do posts.

Something like this:

Code Table of Contents:

[taggedlink=Post/Thread
Questions]https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4703001&pid=44977149#pid44977149#PTQ
uestions[/taggedlink]

[tag]PTQuestions[/tag]

-=Post/Thread Questions=-

I noticed the amount of posts I have just went down significantly, what is going on?

So, in the table of contents, there would be a link labeled "Post/Thread Questions", which you could click on and go right to that section. I'm sure this would be useful mainly for lengthy tutorial threads spreading across multiple posts.

Let me know what you think :D

That would be nifty but I don't think it's a common enough occurrence for it to be really needed.

Would still be useful for the members that make mega-threads/tutorials and wish to help members navigate their threads.
