Thread: Are you a psychopath? take this test

whatsupeveryone - March 6, 2015, 3:27 pm

The actual definition of a psychopath actually isn't demeaning, and for those who are a psychopath, it's not taken negatively at all. Take this test below, and post your results! :)

Code personality-testing.info/tests/LSRP.php

Scymo - March 6, 2015, 3:28 pm

Shit mom was right

whatsupeveryone - March 6, 2015, 3:30 pm

You score for primary psychopathy was higher than 97.54% of people who have taken this test.

You score for secondary psychopathy was higher than 92.14% of people who have taken this test.

this is mine, but strangely - I'm not upset by these results!

Yoshikage Kira - March 6, 2015, 3:31 pm

You score for primary psychopathy was higher than 1337% of people who have taken this test.

You score for secondary psychopathy was higher than 1337% of people who have taken this test.

FRANKIE - March 6, 2015, 3:31 pm

I do not need to take the test, I can indeed confirm that I am a psychopath.

It's also not possible to answer them 100% correct, sometimes you don't even know what a word means or what the sentence is trying to say.

We have reasons to answer questions this way, maybe we had a harsh life. Doesn't mean we are psychopaths.

Not everyone who is energetic has ADHD either.

These are your results on the Narcissistic Personality Inventory.

Your score is 38, out of 40. Higher scores indicate greater levels of narcissism.

Your score was higher than 99.2% of the sample. The people who have found this online test are probably not that representative of the general population though, so the averages from a few other groups are tabled below.

i just noticed people post their comparison to others and not their Scores range from 1 (low) to 5 (high)

i got this

Your score from primary psychopathy has been calculated as 2.5. Primary psychopathy is the affective aspects of psychopathy; a lack of empathy for other people and tolerance for antisocial orientations.

Your score from secondary psychopathy has been calculated as 1.8. Secondary psychopathy is the antisocial aspects of psychopathy; rule breaking and a lack of effort towards socially rewarded behavior.

although i don't believe on the accuracy of any tests..i think anyone will be a psychopath if anyone want a revenge or depends on their environment, most pyschopaths are the Richest and the Poorest people..

Middle Class are less psycho if their are raised with love and good family / friends.. :)

Never stated it was a bad thing at all. It's actually pretty cool to see such a large amount of people being characterized as psychopaths by this test.

I feel like they have sort of shifted the meaning of being a psychopath from something that was qualitative ("He/she is or isn't a psychopath") to something quantitative (He/she is more of a psychopath than him/her"). I used to think it was an inability to feel compassion/empathy, now I feel like it is defined as less compassion/empathy. I do also agree that simple tests like that can be ineffective (for example, the question "I admire a good scam" people could interpret that differently; one person could be totally disgusted and not admire it, another could admire it but be disgusted, another could admire it and not be disgusted, and someone might neither admire it nor be disgusted; I took it as simply as possible meaning do I have some level of admiration for the ability but others may think they are signing off morally to some extent by saying so)

Your score from primary psychopathy has been calculated as 4.6. Primary psychopathy is the affective aspects of psychopathy; a lack of empathy for other people and tolerance for antisocial orientations.

Your score from secondary psychopathy has been calculated as 3.8. Secondary psychopathy is the antisocial aspects of psychopathy; rule breaking and a lack of effort towards socially rewarded behavior.

All truthful answers.

This is a load and a half. No matter what you say on the test you always score above the margin.

lulzcat - March 20, 2015, 12:04 am

So this is what it feels like to be a psychopath. Feels good man.

IpSiety - March 20, 2015, 12:34 am

I doubt this is even real, considering psychopathy is mostly genetic.

Great Prosperity - March 20, 2015, 12:39 am

You can't determine who is a psychopath based on a simple lengthy questionnaire. Some people behave or feel differently on certain days.

Anyway here are my results:

Your score from primary psychopathy has been calculated as 1.6. Your score from secondary psychopathy has been calculated as 1.7.

You score for primary psychopathy was higher than 25.79% of people who have taken this test.

You score for secondary psychopathy was higher than 12.67% of people who have taken this test.

Looks like I'm not a psychopath.
