What is SupportBoards?

SB is a community discussion board originating around providing assistance and support to others. We bring the community together and help with really any issues that you might be having.

Our top notch crew of supporters are capable of answering nearly any question you may have, some examples of our assistance can be found on Hackforums.

Phoenix Official Innuendo Support
Clearing up LGBT Misconceptions
Ask a LGBT
Ask-A-Homosexual
Clash of Clans Assistance
Phoenix Podcast #1

These are merely a few threads opened by our supporters, we were once known as Phoenix, but have moved onto SB.

Why should I join SupportBoards?

SupportBoards is running off a forum software called Discourse, it's completely mobile friendly and extremely responsive. You're able to see new posts appear without refreshing the page, plus searches are extremely quick. Usability and speed are one of our top priorities, and if you join us you'll notice how easy it is to make posts.

Any benefits to joining SupportBoards?

Sure! Soon enough we're going to start up a contest to discover the member of the month, who'll receive a $100 bitcoin reward plus a special badge to show off to everyone. Plus you can get the chance to join us Phoenix noobs and hang out in our private sections.

How do I join SupportBoards?

Well that's an easy one! Go to www.SupportBoards.net and click sign up, you can create a new account easily using almost any social media site, or just by using an email of yours. We currently have no paid upgrades, which means everything is free to use for everyone. Take advantage of our services, and join us today!

How can I show my support for SupportBoards?

That's another great question! We currently have three signatures compatible with a majority of internet forums, here's how to use them and what they look like.

If it's needed we'll add it, but we don't want a hundred unused sections laying around.

Post some graphic related topics, and we'll made a Graphics category to fit your needs. :D

I remember this in this sticky-ed phoenix section.

Is it custom made or use a software?

Btw almost 12k posts.

Yup, it's managed by old Phoenix members, but since I'm a Staff on the site we figured it was alright for me to host this thread.

The software is Discourse, but it does have some custom additions, plus it's been made extremely mobile friendly.

You guys should join this site. It is difficult at times to give/receive advice on innuendo-related issues on HF due to trolls within the subforum, but if you really need someone to listen or give some guidance... SupportBoards would be your best shot. Our intentions are to help someone to the best of our ability.

And if you miss Phoenix, we are not dead. We are just on a different forum. xD

Definitely agree with everything Nehssa said, join up now everybody! :D

Oh and Phoenix has a private section on SB, so if you manage to become a member you can hang out and chat with the veterans. ?

Great website, although I am no longer as active, I have to say it is one of my favorite boards of all time.

Thanks Frankie! We miss you here, and welcome you to return at any time. :D Just pop on back and join in with the fun. <3

I'll ask around and if your activity picks up I'll get you an invite into the Phoenix group on SB. ?

Loving the theme. Very simple, but looks very addictive. I don't register to that many forums these days as I have a blog of my own - I will have a look at it later.

Thanks for the kind words, we're still around by the way! Activity has dropped down but it can kick back up at any time, we plan on doing advertising soon through reddit, social media, posters at college campuses, and other things to get students (those who actually need support) on board.

Thanks! We're still around everyone, and we've just created a new group called "Dawn".

Come check us out, we'll be coming out with a ton of new original content soon.
