Thread: BLACKSHADES - IM FINALLY GETTING MY ELECTRONICS BACK

Europe - March 10, 2015, 6:05 am

After the endless wait, i'm finally getting my PC, Laptop, USB Drives and everything back

This is the best thing that happened to me through 2014-2015

I hope all blackshades-suspects who got raided as well will get their stuff back.

Minimal. - March 10, 2015, 6:06 am

Haha, congratulations mate!

Heard shit hit the fan for quite some Blackshades-Users on here...

Heulen - March 10, 2015, 6:10 am

I remember looking at your thread.... that was like 5 months ago or some shit.

Glad you're getting it all back! Did they not find it?

Mudge. - March 10, 2015, 6:11 am i remember you telling soo fucking troll, at least now you can get out of bronze m8

Special Ed - March 10, 2015, 6:13 am

Lol I'm glad some ass clown hacked my blaxkshades account a while back or else I would've went down with you suckers.

??¢??? - March 10, 2015, 6:17 am

When you get it back , remember to do a scan for backdoors. I am pretty sure they would have left something to keep monitoring you .

Personally, I wouldn't even trust the HDD if we're being super paranoid, for all he knows they could have replaced it with one containing backdoored firmware.

This. I would simply throw out everything that they "return" to me.

Sur Justice - March 10, 2015, 7:16 am

I goy a call today aswell. I'm getting back one hdd and one laptop. They want to Keep another laptop and another desktop from me. If I accept to let them keep the computer and the laptop I "won't get charged" otherwise I will. Well I'm contacting my lawyer now to see what he says about this.

hope I'll be getting everything back aswell haha!

Ni??c??k - March 10, 2015, 7:27 am

If we're being THIS paranoid, I wouldn't even trust the damn box your stuff came in. For all we know it could have a micro-camera that will keep you under surveillance 24/7.

Thought about the same... They would use it for comming into contact to other people using RATs. Shiit...

Anyways.. I have a question. What was the deal with blackshades? Was it meant to be used for malicious stuff?

All the RAT makers being like: "I am not responsible for the activities you make with this tool." or "For educational purposes only."

Schnitzel - March 10, 2015, 8:29 am

Sell everything on eBay instead of throwing it out if u plan to do that.

Krew - March 10, 2015, 8:31 am when you were raided did they like spit through all the stuff in your house to find your electronics or did they ask you "have we gotten all your electronics now"?

Cuz, ldk about you but I don't keep all my electronics in one place.

The real cracked one removes the backdoor the coders put there to steal all your information. The cracked one would be the safest way. Yet they would be looking for black shades md5 hash. Easily spotted.

But lets say his lawyer wants to have a forensic team for the defence and the FBI ships the laptop to them, the chain of custody show FBI had it last, when i Image it with write blockers, there would be no changes so my MD5 should match their MD5 if it doesn't something was changed, hence now you can go wait who minipliated the data, FBI? If they manipulated the data who says they couldn't of put the incriminated evidence on the laptop. If you get a logical image from them then you know something may be up and exfoliation comes into terms legally and the case kinda gets thrown out form there.

I'm inclined to agree.

If you commit criminal activity and then cry about the fact that you got caught, grow a brain.

It's like robbing someone, but they have a heartattack so you're charged with their murder.
Intentional homicide? No. Are you still responsible? Yes, deal with it.

Hey buddy im gonna give some serious advice if want to stay safe...just sell the laptop and buy a new one...do the same for any electronics they return..dat way you have to be cautious an you will also get your laptop...anything the feds give cannot be trusted..i repeat cannot be trusted...fresh install wont work because they already know that you will do it..so the safest thing to do is sell it and buy a new one

All that happens is they make copies of all your hard drives and USBs. Then your electronics sit in evidences for however long the case/investigation last. The only time they will install malware on your computers is when your on supervised probation. That means you are in cooperation with the FBI, or what ever law enforcement agency that caught you.

Back then cybercrime was really a grey area where i'm from so they kind of broke the law by doing what they did.

Real skids those feds.

I was the first in my country to be nailed with such charges, so I had to fight them regardless to set a Precedence in law here.

I won, so the ones behind me can reference my case as a example of how to proceed. ?

Old fuck here. Taking into context this is kind of bumping a dead thread at this point.

I'd be curious if you could share the process of how everything worked with LE. I've had lots of friends taken over the years but honestly it just seems like they try so hard to scare you. Did they seize your personal electronics as well? Did they try and interview you during the arrest?

I've had a few people get picked up recently and it seems feds now are just willing to interview you on the spot which seems legally questionable.
