If there was ever a time to get OMC on another exchange, now is it.

Please read: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4707437>

FRANKIE - March 10, 2015, 10:19 am

From the looks of it they are just closing it down to re-do it?

They might reopen, but who knows when.

>So, for now, we are closing shop, and I can focus on getting the whole thing back in order, getting some financial backing so that we can come back with a marketing plan, and be the site that I always intended it to be.

>we will absolutely keep everything in stasis. If and when we re-open, be it a few months or a few years from now, any abandoned balances will be intact (assuming those coins are still alive!)

FRANKIE - March 10, 2015, 10:24 am

That really sucks but it's not surprising they didn't have enough staff to keep things going. Support tickets really do take forever with them.

DLT. - March 10, 2015, 10:28 am

Not much of a surprise to be honest, and i doubt they will make a return. Now OMC definitely needs to get listed on an exchange. Poloniex/AllCoin will probably be a good target.

H.K.S - March 10, 2015, 10:28 am

Thats really sad. Allcrypt was one of the best exchanges i've used. Really hope the owner can get around it and re-open it one day soon...

Aceman - March 10, 2015, 10:36 am

Not the least bit surprised. They've always been understaffed and had incredibly low volumes on everything they have on the exchange. It was only a matter of time given all the warning signs that were there.

I mean, let's face it, OMC with 0.2BTC volume would receive 2 hot symbols and a trophy next to it. Their current highest volume is 0.02332391 BTC.

NiktoKan - March 10, 2015, 10:38 am

I am surprise Allcrypt going to shut down. I don't see why they are unable to continue its business since there are so many coins listed.

Abraham Lincoln - March 10, 2015, 4:19 pm

Well, it's not like anyone saw this coming. I hope everyone gets their OMC pulled out.

I wonder what they will do with the remaining balances.

There is a good chance of a new car for the owner...

[EDIT]: But we must go on to another exchange platform before they shut down because it's "vital" for the coin

lucky. - March 10, 2015, 5:05 pm

I went ahead and withdrew the dollar I had in there, disappointing to see but at least it was not sudden and they announced their leaving.

Raoul Duke - March 10, 2015, 5:05 pm

Beside "bitcointalk/vote on cryptsy" what the community can do for being accepted by another exchanger?

MusleHF - March 10, 2015, 5:08 pm

Sad :/ hope you will remake it. Very good HQ website for exchanges

Moon Rock - March 10, 2015, 5:09 pm

Oh wow, I've only used Allcrypt twice and now I read this :(Hopefully we can get another website to add the currency before this shuts down.

mrnapolean1 - March 10, 2015, 6:53 pm

I just read the blog.

I am sad to see Allcrypt go but it is what it is.

Lets just hope we can get OMC on another exchange or OMC may die out.

I have withdrew the last bit of funds from Allcrypt. I hope all goes well for the site and sties Admins.

If cryptsy doesn't add us before AllCrypt shuts down, we'll just go for something like poloneix. They sent us an offer that we can take up if we want.

nickchan - March 10, 2015, 7:19 pm

This is good!

It will make it harder to get OMC and price goes up.

Awesome~!

P3TE - March 10, 2015, 7:20 pm

Wait so OMC is only on one exchange?

Why not take up as many offers as possible? Or is there a fee?

Yea, there is a price. 1 BTC or so.

If we get on a bunch of exchanges each exchange will just end up with less volume and so might not keep the coin.

DLT. - March 11, 2015, 2:39 am

I'm in the process of trying to get us listed on an exchange. I've contacted a few already, AllCoin are greedy and out of the equation.. they want 2 bitcoins.

I'm waiting for bigvern to respond to my offer which I've sent him last night, so Cryptsy is still on the table, same with polo, bittrex and a few others.

At this moment in time, it doesn't matter if a bunch of trusted exchange accepts us. For example, if Polo accept us today and cryptsy tomorrow, we will obviously be thankful but head towards where it will more beneficial for OMC. Cryptsy.

Yeah, i know. Omniscient has contacted me and wants me to get it listed on Crypsty. In the meantime im targeting other exchanges. I also wouldn't recommend paying the 1bitcoin, as i could possibly get OMC listed for free.

If members here on HF pitch in BTC, Could that expedite the process of getting us listed?

Because OMC still sits at fifth on Cryptsys voting page.

Bigvern has listed multiple of my coins already. I've sent him a new offer last night after Omni contacting me. Also you wont win the voting poll, unless you have minimum $500+ to spend.

In regards to you all chipping in, to pay for that Polo exchange.. i would advise not to at this moment in time, as im still awaiting a response for my new offer. If that falls through there are other exchangers which we can still rely on.

I'll keep you all updated.

They've already stated that existing balances will be kept in the freezer until such a point that they reopen their doors. They've always been slow, but liars and thieves? I'm not so sure. While I'm withdrawing anything I have there, I believe they can be trusted to keep that promise.

(Mar 10, 2015 05:05 PM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Beside "bitcointalk/vote on crytpsy" what the community can do for being accepted by another exchanger?

The number one thing you can do to help is use Omnicoin. Honestly, voting on exchanges doesn't even help as much as using Omnicoin. The larger the number of people using it, the stronger Omnicoin is.

(Mar 11, 2015 09:33 AM)mrrnapolean1 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) OK. Thanks for the quick reply.

The chances of that are slim to none. There's a dedicated community behind Omnicoin and that's really all a coin needs to be successful, besides growth.

Omniscient - March 11, 2015, 1:13 pm

I know we're all working on getting listed from different fronts.

Here are my top choices in order of importance.

Cryptsy
Bittrex
AllCoin
Poloniex

Right now Polo says 1 BTC. AllCoin says 2 BTC. Cryptsy is tough seemingly. We have someone working on Bittrex.

I saw this coming and knew that a larger exchange was needed because the traffic at AllCrypt was terrible. Just not enough activity there. I'm grateful we got listed as it did help us to get to this point but we need to go further.

Has allcrypt stopped crediting deposits?

I was aware they would end on the 31st, so I assumed it would be safe to deposit and exchange before it closes, but its been like 4 hours...

Something is up with their site. Wallet withdrawals and deposits don't work, and trades aren't even being executed.

Majestic12 - March 12, 2015, 5:39 am

I hope deposits do get credited, Withdrew several k and they still havent shown up though :/

#YOLO - March 12, 2015, 7:02 am

My deposit was credited, possibly just delay from everyone withdrawing.

Because they typically don't add small alt-coins. Look at their coins. They are mainly a Russian BTC/LTC to USD/RUR/EU exchange.

Are you serious F8...

BTC-e doesn't add coins unless they're very close with the developers and have considerable upside (own a huge amount of the coin). Even then, the chances are slim, they haven't added a new coin in, what, a year now? Trading coins is almost definitely not BTC-e's primary function.

Not to mention that OMC's network is abysmal at best. If OMC can get 51% for a couple dollars. Why would BTC-e ever think of listing it?

Polo is probably the best option right now.

I have an idea as to how to make it work. Though its a heck of a lot easier to do for bigger coins(doin a site to transfer between ltc/btc/doge/etc is pretty simple to do with good rates, smaller coins like omc are more difficult).

Yes, time to unstick it. Besides AllCrypt is now completely offline. At least there was a few days for everyone to withdraw.

I had 10k OMC in it. Thank goodness it wasn't more.
