

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: AllCrypt Hacked

Abraham Lincoln - March 15, 2015, 11:39 pm

Earlier tonight AllCrypt was shutdown. They just posted the following on twitter:

Quote:Fuck wordpress, and fuck this crypto bullshit. I'm done.

Quote:Username: samuel Email: siavashnobody@gmail.com IP: 89.41.215.150, 37.156.55.84, 5.134.170.95 Responsible for the theft of the BTC

I'm not sure what happened, but I think AllCrypt might be gone for good, and all the coins with them.

EDIT: They pulled down the blog now too.

EDIT:

Quote:AllCrypt.com is down for a bit

Well, due to some apparent exploit in wordpress, someone, somehow, got into the server tonight, installed some files, and managed to empty the goddamned BTC wallet. Best I can tell it was something with that worthless pile of shit software wordpress.

I'm fucking done. I run a site, spend thousands of hours of time, thousands of dollars of my OWN money to run it, decide to shut down, and somehow, through ways I cannot even figure the hell out, someone gets in, uploads files to the server, somehow finds the goddamned BTC wallet on the network, and it appears that they slammed it with withdraw requests. Of course, the wallet is locked - but it unlocks when a withdraw is legitimately made through the site. I THINK they made a real wd on the site, and then slammed the backdoor to get the other funds out.

We had 42 BTC in the wallet. 12 was the sites. 30 was users BTC. I'm fucking done with crypto. I'll post details when I sort this fucking mess out. Not that it will matter, because no one ever actually gives a shit when something like this happens.

Keith Cozart - March 15, 2015, 11:40 pm

yeah RIP RIP all cryrpt haha glad I never used

LETS HOPE SOME PAKI DIDNT GET THE STOLEN BTC.. only hope

Manny - March 15, 2015, 11:41 pm

I never used all crypt. I did once and they scammed me out of $9 BTC. I tried to withdraw and I never got it.

brian188246 - March 15, 2015, 11:42 pm

AllCrypt had a blog up saying it was going down, but at the end of the month.

FRANKIE - March 15, 2015, 11:42 pm

They said that they were only shutting down temporarily because of short staffing but who knows.

Abraham Lincoln - March 15, 2015, 11:43 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:42 PM)brian188246 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) AllCrypt had a blog up saying it was going down, but at the end of the month.

This is new. I think they got hacked again. Not a surprise.

syrah's bitch - March 15, 2015, 11:44 pm

Yeah lucky I got my Beca out of there before they shut down :/

Ventures - March 15, 2015, 11:44 pm

Huh, 42BTC stolen. That's quite a large sum of money. I'm assuming legalities shall ensue?

Moon Rock - March 15, 2015, 11:45 pm

Wow, did know their security was that low. It's a sad way to go :(

adampelletgun - March 15, 2015, 11:45 pm

I doubt they will be coming back.

brian188246 - March 15, 2015, 11:45 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:43 PM)Abraham Lincoln Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is new. I think they got hacked again. Not a surprise.

They did, the site is back up, but just with a text page.

AllCrypt Wrote:AllCrypt.com is down for a bit

Well, due to some apparent exploit in wordpress, someone, somehow, got into the server tonight, installed some files, and managed to empty the goddamned BTC wallet. Best I can tell it was something with that worthless pile of shit software wordpress.

I'm fucking done. I run a site, spend thousands of hours of time, thousands of dollars of my OWN money to run it, decide to shut down, and somehow, through ways I cannot even figure the hell out, someone gets in, uploads files to the server, somehow finds the goddamned BTC wallet on the network, and it appears that they slammed it with withdraw requests. Of course, the wallet is locked - but it unlocks when a withdraw is legitimately made through the site. I THINK they made a real wd on the site, and then slammed the backdoor to get the other funds out.

We had 42 BTC in the wallet. 12 was the sites. 30 was users BTC. I'm fucking done with crypto. I'll post details when I sort this fucking mess out. Not that it will matter, because no one ever actually gives a shit when something like this happens.

Abraham Lincoln - March 15, 2015, 11:46 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:44 PM)Venture Capital Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Huh, 42BTC stolen. That's quite a large sum of money. I'm assuming legalities shall ensue?

Where did you hear that from?

EDIT: Oh, I see.

(Mar 15, 2015 11:45 PM)brian188246 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They did, the site is back up, but just with a text page.

Yea, that's what I meant by the site was down.

PrivateDonut - March 15, 2015, 11:48 pm

They probably got hacked due to the 0day exploit, I personally never used AllCrypt. But yeah just my option on it.

Cameron - March 15, 2015, 11:49 pm

Cunts! I still had 35k OMC in there lmao

syrach's bitch - March 15, 2015, 11:51 pm

I feel so sorry for that guy running it man that sucks because he still get held responsible for it

Abraham Lincoln - March 15, 2015, 11:51 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:49 PM)Camer?n Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Cunts! I still had 35k OMC in there lmao
Wow, that's not fun. I pulled everything out for good a long time ago.

I wonder what they will do with all the OMC. There was probably at least 1M OMC in there.

(Mar 15, 2015 11:51 PM)L??o??gi??c Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I feel so sorry for that guy running it man that sucks because he still get held responsible for it Honestly, I don't really feel bad at all. It was doomed to happen. He ran a poorly made site with many bugs, never fixed any of them, and wasn't friendly in the slightest.

Eventually bugs caught up with him and he just blamed other people for it.

Now a nice big bug came along and really gave him a good bite

Although, this "hack" could have been an inside job. I wouldn't be surprised.

Cameron - March 15, 2015, 11:56 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:51 PM)Abraham Lincoln Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wow, that's not fun. I pulled everything out for good a long time ago.

I wonder what they will do with all the OMC. There was probably at least 1M OMC in there.

So potentially because they didn't fix the vulnerability you found, they got hacked again, correct?

If that's the case, they got what they deserved lol.

Just not good news for OMC temporarily, it's only exchange is HF really.

Abraham Lincoln - March 15, 2015, 11:57 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:56 PM)Camer?n Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So potentially because they didn't fix the vulnerability you found, they got hacked again, correct?

If that's the case, they got what they deserved lol.

Just not good news for OMC temporarily, it's only exchange is HF really.

Well, according to them it was hacked a different way. But the vuln I found was another possible exploit.

James Brown - March 16, 2015, 12:42 am

42 BTC on a site where OMC was the most traded coin with like 0.1 BTC volume?

H.K.S - March 16, 2015, 12:49 am

I kinda feel bad for the owner, but then i read some stuff about him and the way he ran the website, and I guess he could have changed alot of stuff. I mean, im no expert, and i dont want to criticise anyone, but maybe what happened now could have been prevented. Also, he always complained about not having enough staff, so it could have been an inside job or something. Anyways, hope he can get back the Btc's they stole. That is still alot of money...

allcrypt - March 16, 2015, 1:17 am

Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

Abe found an exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am.

Cibor - March 16, 2015, 3:42 am

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

Abe found an exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am.

Actually I enjoyed using AllCrypt, it wasn't the most beautiful site that I saw but it was working fine (untill today). When there was the first problem with 51% OMC, the admin didn't just drop it but helped to fix the problem, right?

I don't think it was an "inside job", he could have done that 1 month before releasing closure of AllCrypt. That time Im sure there were many more BTC.

AllCrypt I hope you will come back stronger.

lucky. - March 16, 2015, 3:49 am

Damn, I feel like it had potential but this set it back a lot further now.
Rest in pepperonis allcrypt.

Raoul Duke - March 16, 2015, 5:58 am

All the BTC was stolen... Can we have our OMC/Altcoin back or you keep them as a "collateral" ?

NiktoKan - March 16, 2015, 6:07 am

It can be an exit scam which often happen in Bitcoin exchange, marketplace and forum.

H.K.S - March 16, 2015, 7:31 am

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

Abe found an exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am.

Its not about being decent. And dont take the community as bad. Allcrypt was one of the easiest exchanges to use. Its was an awesome idea, anf everyone knows you've put alot of work on it. Like i said, hope you can get it back together, and seeing allcrypt opening again would be awesome...

Aceman - March 16, 2015, 8:50 am

I feel like this could be an exit strategy by the owner of the website. He's said time and again that he's lost a lot of time and money on the website and he's seemed quite bitter about it. Wouldn't surprise me if it turned out to not actually be hacked.

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

Abe found an exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am. You're extremely unprofessional which makes me believe that it's probably your fault as opposed to a 0 day exploit. If you didn't want to put the time into the website (including support) then you never should have started it, simple as that.

STR™ - March 16, 2015, 9:00 am

Wordpress is not safer , practical experience

Sad for Allcrypt got hacked , lots of hard work goes in vein :(

reama - March 16, 2015, 9:04 am

This was an exit scam, they have all the BTC now lmao

Little Girls - March 16, 2015, 9:16 am

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

Abe found a exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am.

You're taking business way to personal, you're taking the response from the community to the heart - and giving responses from the heart as well, which a business owner should not do.

Abe found an dangerous exploit on allcrypt and your repayment for him finding it is to rage at him. That may of caused bad attention, and someone found the next exploit and used it against you because what was the reward for finding it? This is why real businesses pay when exploits are found.

Nyan~

Internet Explorer. - March 16, 2015, 9:21 am

I don't think they'll be coming back.

Mr.Peanut - March 16, 2015, 9:24 am

(Mar 16, 2015 12:09 AM)Yani Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I read how they reacted to you finding the exploit and I feel no compassion for them tbh.

Saw the same thing, and feel the same fucking way. It came right around and bit them hard.

Abraham Lincoln - March 16, 2015, 10:18 am

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Or you could be covering your tracks. I'm not blaming you of anything. I'm simply saying that it is a possibility and a suspicion. A lot of money has gone into the wrong hands. People will want answers and all possibilities have to be reviewed.

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

There is nothing wrong with this thread. It's a community alert. I wanted people to know what was going on.

I got the negative view of AllCrypt from the poor support I received. I was treated poorly first by your support, not the other way around.

As a business, it doesn't matter how customers act. You have to keep a cool, professional head. Your goal is to make a good impression, not to treat everyone else badly because they did it to you.

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Abe found an exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

I tested it a few weeks back and it was still vulnerable.

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am.

If you want to run a business, you have to keep personal issues aside. The reason there is so much hate is because you began treating customers poorly.

JavaCoderz - March 16, 2015, 10:34 am

Hmm. I was withdrawing just as this happened, that sucks.

What happens to all of the altcoins that they had? From what I understand, they're saying only BTC was stolen, and the other altcoin wallets were working for me right as this happened (while the BTC wallet was not).

Factor8™ - March 16, 2015, 10:40 am

(Mar 16, 2015 01:17 AM)allcrypt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a hint: Easiest way to do an inside job? Take the fucking coins and pull the power cord. Not sit up til 4am dicking around with twitter and doing google searches on the asshole responsible.

Want to know why I'm a prick? Want to know why I act like an asshole to a lot of people in support tickets? Because of this. This thread. The way the USERS of the site act. It gets real fucking old dealing with childish crap like this, so the tolerance goes to nil, and the default response becomes 'Piss off'. To those of you even halfway decent (HKS for example, above) thanks for the support. To everyone else, well, how I feel is no secret.

Abe found an exploit which was fixed. Which had nothing to do with this.

Oh who gives a shit. Anything I say here is irrelevant anyway. I have better shit to do than to argue with kids at 4am.

While I feel for your monetary losses here and all the effort you put in your website. That does not absolve you of one thing here. Your attitude needs a reality check when you say "childish crap". I believe you were in a customer care oriented business online. The first rule is always to be polite to your customers irrespective of their maturity level or circumstances. It's your business at the end of the day and how you handle your customers wins them or drives them off. Just my 2 cents here. I've been Admin here for the last 3+ years. Handling support issues/member problems. Yes, sometimes I also feel exasperated or wanna tear my hair off dealing with the so called childish crap. But that does not give me any license to lose my head and go haywire. These same customers on your site would get you business. Nobody is perfect, nobody is. I guess, what matters at the end of the day is how you handle stuff and move on. Anyways, hope you recover your monetary losses after this episode.

Seriously think about what I said here. It's a bitter pill to swallow right now but might work wonders for you in the longer run.

Raoul Duke - March 16, 2015, 10:48 am

The BTC was stolen but not the altcoins (just looking at my OMC deposit address money is still here).

So give us the ability to withdraw our altcoin or this is a fucking exit scam...

Just my 2 satoshi...

EDIT: Your customers needs proofs of the thief not just a wall of text saying you are pissed off

hoppedup - March 16, 2015, 11:08 am

I had been planning to send a bit of btc in towards the end of the month to get a extra pile of omc before we hit another exchange . It looks like we are going to need this new exchange sooner rather than later now :(as even if the exchange gets opened back up I highly doubt any more trading will happen. unless allcrypt opens up and makes it a free for all with trading still enabled and everyone trying to sell off the btc they have for alts to withdraw , it is a shame as I really liked allcrypt.

Aceman - March 16, 2015, 11:10 am

(Mar 16, 2015 10:48 AM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The BTC was stolen but not the altcoins (just looking at my OMC deposit address money is still here).

So give us the ability to withdraw our altcoin or this is a fucking exit scam...

Just my 2 satoshi...

EDIT: Your customers needs proofs of the thief not just a wall of text saying you are pissed off You raise two good points. If it was only the bitcoins hacked then the exchange should allow everybody to withdraw their altcoins. As for proof of the hack, he'll definitely need it given how many failed exchanges have been investigated after claiming to be hacked.

JavaCoderz - March 16, 2015, 11:36 am

Asked Allcrypt about the altcoins, and they've replied with this.

I'm confused as to how the altcoins were affected as according to a post here, their balances still remain when checking deposit addresses.

Raoul Duke - March 16, 2015, 11:44 am

(Mar 16, 2015 11:36 AM)JavaCoderz Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Asked Allcrypt about the altcoins, and they've replied with this.

I'm confused as to how the altcoins were affected as according to a post here, their balances still remain when checking deposit addresses.

If I understand correctly it's a collateral for his loss and we should shut up because it's not even the half of his loss...

Mikavv - March 16, 2015, 12:37 pm

Well I just lost the last 6k+ omc I had left, I doubt I'll ever get it back ._.

I was thinking of depositing it back last week but didn't.

Alex™ - March 16, 2015, 12:45 pm

(Mar 15, 2015 11:45 PM)Hitman Agency Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wow, did know their security was that low. It's a sad way to go :(

I doubt it was. Are you aware of the exploit used?

James Brown - March 16, 2015, 12:55 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 11:44 AM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If I understand correctly it's a collateral for his loss and we should shut up because it's not even the half of his loss... You don't understand correctly. Collateral is something a borrower puts up as a guarantee he can make good on his debt in case of a default. Whatever remains of customers' funds still belongs to them.

Aceman - March 16, 2015, 12:58 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 12:55 PM)James Brown Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You don't understand correctly. Collateral is something a borrower puts up as a guarantee he can make good on his debt in case of a default. Whatever remains of customers' funds still belongs to them. When you say 'them' are you referring to AllCrypt's owner or the customers?

YouMakeMeHue - March 16, 2015, 1:00 pm

Honestly, it's AllCrypts fault for putting a fucking Wordpress blog on the same server as the exchange, I mean, seriously?

I understand it's easy to point fingers now but if you're running an exchange you have no excuses, and must pull out all the stops, which includes not putting open-source shitty software which is well known for being shit, on the same server as your exchange.

Whilst the owner of AllCrypt appears to be having a mid-life crisis & crying like a baby, he needs to realise this is no other persons fault than his, if he hadn't put Wordpress on the same exchange as the server, nobody would be in this mess.

ZuGgY - March 16, 2015, 1:02 pm

BTC was sent here:

17B8qfaeNsv3TZbpycUs6dkzYiJGWNeCw5

37 BTC damn...

.Matt - March 16, 2015, 1:03 pm

I don't get why people didn't just pull out as soon as they announced their shutdown.

Abraham Lincoln - March 16, 2015, 1:05 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 01:03 PM).Matt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't get why people didn't just pull out as soon as they announced their shutdown.

I don't get why people didn't pull out back when I said there were major issues, or when the 51% attack happened.

YouMakeMeHue - March 16, 2015, 1:49 pm

twitter.com/All_Crypt/status/567551838719705091

Dat tweet doe.

Aceman - March 16, 2015, 2:36 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 01:03 PM).Matt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't get why people didn't just pull out as soon as they announced their shutdown. There's still money to be made by being on an exchange.

(Mar 16, 2015 01:05 PM)Abraham Lincoln Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't get why people didn't pull out back when I said there were major issues, or when the 51% attack happened. Yes but they took advantage of the buy orders that were up, not of the altcoin itself. Those who kept BTC there were a bit silly but I personally was not concerned with altcoins.

Justin Timberlake - March 16, 2015, 3:11 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 01:03 PM).Matt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't get why people didn't just pull out as soon as they announced their shutdown.

Which is exactly what I did. Sucks for everyone who took losses, especially the big guys.

James Brown - March 16, 2015, 3:24 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 12:58 PM)Aceman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) When you say 'them' are you referring to AllCrypt's owner or the customers? Customers. Their funds are not "collateral" for Allcrypt's debts.

still dont get how there were 40+ BTC on a site that had no volume

Abraham Lincoln - March 16, 2015, 4:26 pm

I'm working on making a quick, basic exchange to use until we are able to get onto a bigger one. I hope to have it up very soon.

Aceman - March 16, 2015, 5:00 pm

(Mar 16, 2015 03:24 PM)James Brown Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Customers. Their funds are not "collateral" for Allcrypt's debts.

still dont get how there were 40+ BTC on a site that had no volume! agree, customers should be able to withdraw their altcoins at the very least.

Not sure how they had that much either. Apparently a large portion of it was their 'profit' but I'm not sure why they would have left that in their hot wallet.

Raoul Duke - March 16, 2015, 5:59 pm

An update from Allcrypt

Mix - March 16, 2015, 8:15 pm

R.I.P Allcrypt

still need a new place for OMC :@

mti1993 - March 18, 2015, 8:22 am any news about the 1M coins which were at Allcrypt ?

I had about 22K OMC there

RA4W - March 18, 2015, 8:27 am

If you use WP for a financial site then you probably should not run it.

Raoul Duke - March 18, 2015, 8:27 am

(Mar 18, 2015 08:22 AM)mti1993 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) any news about the 1M coins which were at Allcrypt ?

I had about 22K OMC there

Nothing new at all (except Allcrypt owner bought a new car)... And still no proof of any hack...

Aceman - March 18, 2015, 8:41 am

(Mar 18, 2015 08:27 AM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nothing new at all (except Allcrypt owner bought a new car)... And still no proof of any hack...He bought a new car? Can you show the source of this information? For somebody getting so upset about losing their money it seems awfully suspicious that he would randomly go out and buy a new car.

MysticParadox - March 18, 2015, 9:02 am

I doubt they're going to come back.

This is the perfect opportunity though to get OMC onto other, bigger exchanges.

Rolls Royce Cars - March 18, 2015, 9:07 am

Lost 7k OMC. This really sucks, however it is my own fault I trusted Allcrypt and I don't feel sorry for them.

Raoul Duke - March 18, 2015, 9:48 am

(Mar 18, 2015 08:41 AM)Aceman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He bought a new car? Can you show the source of this information? For somebody getting so upset about losing their money it seems awfully suspicious that he would randomly go out and buy a new car.

It was just irony sorry if I wasn't clear

Perfectionist - March 18, 2015, 9:53 am

(Mar 18, 2015 09:48 AM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It was just irony sorry if I wasn't clear
I think you mean sarcasm, not irony.

Aceman - March 18, 2015, 9:53 am

(Mar 18, 2015 09:48 AM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It was just irony sorry if I wasn't clearNot sure irony is the correct word you're looking for. Did he actually buy a car? I so that makes me genuinely concerned.

Raoul Duke - March 18, 2015, 10:06 am

(Mar 18, 2015 09:53 AM)Aceman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not sure irony is the correct word you're looking for. Did he actually buy a car? I so that makes me genuinely concerned.

He did not bought a new car it was a bad joke sorry...

Here's an update on his blog:

<https://www.allcrypt.com/blog/2015/03/what-happened-and-whats-going-on/>

Doctor Blue - March 18, 2015, 11:25 am

(Mar 18, 2015 10:06 AM)Raoul Duke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He did not bought a new car it was a bad joke sorry...

Here's an update on his blog:

<https://www.allcrypt.com/blog/2015/03/what-happened-and-whats-going-on/>

It seems password resets were the enemy. We've already seen it a hundred times, if not more, in relation to Skype hijacking and similar attacks. I don't think an automated password reset form is a good design choice for accounts with administrative access, really. Of course one might not realize that when implementing it.

I agree with most, if not all, of the points he's making in the Q&A part. A lot of the complaints he has received are undeserved.

Omniscient - March 18, 2015, 4:22 pm

Quote:If you use WP for a financial site then you probably should not run it.

1. Run it on a subdomain.
2. Run it on a cheap VPS or shared host.

Had he done that the WP could not penetrate into the financial aspects of the site.

And btw on his blog this was my favorite statement from them.

Quote:If we offer the security, and you do not use it, I'm no longer listening to complaints about it. We are not here to diaper you and make sure you aren't being stupid with your money.

Really sums up their attitude that their lack of security was our stupidity. He tells his users to not be stupid with our money and he's right. We all made the choice to use his site. Sadly it was our only exchange at the time and that is no longer true. So goodbye AllCrypt. Now you no longer have to worry about blaming your clients for their stupidity.

Quote:however it is my own fault I trusted Allcrypt and I don't feel sorry for them.

No one feels sorry for AllCrypt. The owner was less than pleasant and ran a shoddy service which was run poorly.

Quote:I agree with most, if not all, of the points he's making in the Q&A part. A lot of the complaints he has received are undeserved.

Maybe. But he clearly lacked good security practices. You and I are aware of past misdeeds in his security. And I know that happens but they had a history of somehow placing blame on others. I'm no fan of that type of behavior.

Doctor Blue - March 18, 2015, 6:43 pm

(Mar 18, 2015 04:22 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Maybe. But he clearly lacked good security practices. You and I are aware of past misdeeds in his security. And I know that happens but they had a history of somehow placing blame on others. I'm no fan of that type of behavior.

He did a lot of things wrong, I completely agree. The worst part was probably the horrible response times on critical bug reports along with the tendency of blaming others. If I recall correctly then Abraham Lincoln was blamed for causing issues several times after reporting severe flaws in the site. They even neglected to fix them for more than a month afterwards and up till now. That's no way to run a business.

Matrix Programmer - March 19, 2015, 2:08 am

Well Omnicoin is now on Bittrex. long live omnicoin ! ?

GamerBoy1499 - March 19, 2015, 6:28 am

Bad language by the author of the post, the owner. I guess he is raging

Shanks - March 20, 2015, 3:15 pm

They had a pretty small balance thoo

Abraham Lincoln - March 21, 2015, 12:32 am

(Mar 20, 2015 03:15 PM)Shanks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They had a pretty small balance thoo
On the contrary. They most likely had at least 3 quarters of a million OMC in there.