Thread: Best Extended mouse pad?

16 mp image of my mousepad \(Click to View\)

My mousepad is almost kill. I'm looking for a new one, I want one that is extended to accommodate my keyboard (TKL) and plenty of room for my mouse.

Price is not important, just nothing unreasonable.

Hey mate, as my parents live in a pub, they are able to get me some long ass beer mats which work WONDERFULLY as a mouse mat, see below. They're pretty cheap and you can get many alcoholic types. Here's the current one I have, it's about 3 feet long and 1 ft wide.

That is really cool! I think I'm gonna go with an actual mouse pad but might buy some of those for other stuff.

Thanks!

See, I would, but the only one they sell looks like a giant turd.

I wish they sold the fragged edition with the anti fray stitching.

The new ones by Kingston (HyperX). Come as big as 900x420 (mm) and a lot better than what Razer has to offer

I'd go with the Razer Goliathus (if it weren't butt ugly) instead of this, because of the anti fray stitching. Fraying is the weakest link in the chain.

In all honestly, there is no best mouse pad. What it comes down to is your personal preference to the feel of the mouse pad, as well as the build quality. A good majority of the mid-range and up mouse pads will last you at least a year.

I have the Mionix Sargas 900. It is nice and big but the problem is on a part of it the top separated a bit on the edge where my wrist rests. its more of a desk mat.

I highly recommend the Steelseries QcK mouse pads.

I think I'm going to go with the White PCMR extended mousepad.

No extended version. Also no anti fray stitching.

I use and recommend the corsair mm200 Its Gigantic.

I've got a (imitation) leather American Express mouse pad. It's 40cmx22cm and the material is really good for the mouse. I'm not sure if you can buy them as it was a present, but I'd highly recommend them. The only problem I've had is that because of bad storage it is slightly warped, and is not wanting to flatten back out.

I got the Star Citizen - Aegis Goliath mouse pad as a gift, there's only like a few sold i think, very smooth and high quality, if you can manage to get your hands on one i would instantly grab one.

I have most regular mouse pad and I'm satisfied with it, just order one for $1 on eBay.
