Woah, this actually looks really useful. Thanks, I have to start up a new Kik account due to slight issues with my last one. And tonight I'm working on a different method. But, this looks really good. Thank you so much for sharing.

using it now and it's a lot more tedious than i would have imagined. nonetheless, great tutorial.

Very basic.

There is a lot that goes into automation of Kik messages. Sometimes your blustacks will not respond correctly so you have to plan around that.

Tip: For those of you who are doing this. Once you are in the loop of responding to your users, make sure you set the bot to click about 3-5 times on each chat. Extra clicks don't do anything, but lack of clicks will sometimes glitch out and continue your loop, but one step behind. Trust me. You'll make a lot more money per hour, and save yourselves a lot of tedious work.

The way this works is it looks for a picture, so lets say when you add a picture to kik chat, it waits for the image to pop up and click it, rather than automating a simple mouse recorder, I've used this for about 200 kik messages and it hasn't messed up once.

I used to hit play in the morning and not check mine until the next morning. It also automated my traffic.

Trust me I have been there before young one.
