Thread: [\[TUT\] How to make your own custom icons](#)

PolarBeats - March 21, 2015, 9:36 am

To start off i apologize if this is in the wrong section, i thought that because this mainly for people spreading there stubs, this would belong in this section but if it belongs in the Graphic Tutorials section then could a mod please let me know or move this thread? thanks ?

This tutorial is mainly for beginners who need help spreading or making there stubs look legit

How does a custom icon help?

A custom icon could help your stub look more legitimate and professional, for example if your spreading something like a "co:go skin hack" it might help to make a icon with something related to cs:go, like a gun or a knife.

In this tutorial i will be using GIMP but you could use photoshop as well, but your process might be different then mine

[spoiler]

First you're going to need to make a new image, in this case i'll make it 48x48. you could also find a image online and resize it and use it for your icon.

Now here is where you edit your photo to your needs, im not going to go into detail on how to do that. If you really have no idea what you are doing i will be glad to help you, just PM me or post in the thread or you could look Here, but remember, your icon will be 48x48 so it will not show every little detail.

now if you've finished editing go to File>Export then choose you directory where you want your icon to be exported to, also select the .png option.

Ok now that you've exported your file to .png, go to <http://www.convertico.com/> and convert your .png image to .ico

Now bind your new icon to your stub and name it something convincing

Now you're done! if you've done everything right, you should have a stub with a custom icon ?
Good luck and happy spreading ?
please remember: your file will still need to be FUD (Fully Undetectable) to ensure you can spread effectively
