I am not going to create any special feedback thread, I just wanted to thank all of you guys.

When I had personal issues I would just come here and chat with some of you and read the fun stuff and become happy again, I have noticed there are so many nice people around that are willing to help you and support you in any way they can and that is a great thing. Not only that but just the fact that you do not know these people and they are still willing to help you is just great.

I have learned so much from all of you guys.

You guys are truly one big family.

Thanks for the amazing 2 years!

1 and 2 years are like baby steps.

None the less, glad you like the site, it is actually pretty good, activity wise. The community (friendly people or whatever), no idea on why you said it was good. It's rather shit, full of idiots.

Let's see if you stick around for another 2 years.
