nevermind fixed the problem

aaaaaa

LijpeMD - March 24, 2015, 3:16 pm

The answer on your question: Yes the RAT will be removed if you reset your computer.

But you can remove it manually, wait till someone comes to help you out.

Format you hdd and reinstall windows/linux (whatever you use)

HoshHash - March 24, 2015, 3:17 pm

Assistance disscontinued.

Reason: Infecting HF members

Ive heard the story.

Fayd - March 24, 2015, 3:20 pm

Listen to Farfar from now on, and NOBODY ELSE! He can solve this.

??????? - March 24, 2015, 3:22 pm

wipe hdd or reinstall os otherwise your SOL unless you can get a malware removal tool that works

I WAS NOT INFECTING HE IS A LIAR I SENT HIM MY RAT FOR HIM TO TEST IT Alright, Post the FRST report and i will have a quick look at it.

-Farfar.

CreateChaoss - March 24, 2015, 3:50 pm

what do u mean to post the first report

HoshHash - March 24, 2015, 3:51 pm

3. Download Farbar Recovery Scan Tool here and save it to your desktop, Execute FRST.exe/FRST64.exe

Please make sure that you have all the Whitelist boxes checked and for optional scan, have " Drivers MD5" and "Addition.txt" Checked.

Press the button Once the the scan is finish please copy and paste the logs to pastebin.com/privatepaste.com

Warning: You need to run the Compitabel version of the Tool for your system.
