Alright this is going to be a little sloppy since it's 6 am and I'm using my phone, but whatever.

Basically, I gave him a psc I got in a trade that was worth a little less than his asking price, but he still took it. He then placed my name on his thread as "waiting list". Less than two weeks later he has junked his previous threads and created two new ones. I'm not surprised this is a scam service as he was selling these $200 watches for roughly $21.

Spoiler (Click to View)

Since that time he has managed to create another two threads, cross posting between premium and secondary sellers, and most likely intending to scam more people.

I'm not asking for a refund, I just want to warn others.

*forgot to add that he took a vacation ban shortly after other people and myself paid him, and when I do message him he ignores.

Capri-Sun - March 26, 2015, 9:01 am

The watches cost $99 each.

The psc you sent my brother gave me $2 btc, i will send you this back in the next 24 hours as I'm not happy with what I got with it. Sadly my messages were junked so I can't do much to see the rest of the conversation between you and him.

I and my brother use this account as from my understanding you cant have more than one account in an household. If not please correct me and I'll get him to make his own, I have warned him not to junk my messages.

If anyone else has dealt with my account for these, contact me ASAP as I will not hesitate as to sort the watches out.

I could be wrong. But I'm pretty sure you're not meant to give anyone including your brother access to your account.

He uses my computer so he does not physically have my password ?

Put a password on your computer. Not only is that against HF rules, but this is the second time you blame your brother.

Check your rep: "Neutral (0): User scammed me 130$ for xbox one. said his brother shares his account with him and that he did it".

I allow him to use my account via my computer as from what I'm aware you're not allowed to have more than one account in a household.

If them reps are true I would like to see a scam report open about it.

I already said that i think that the price in return for that paysafecard was terrible, it was like $2 btc for it from what i see. So im happy to resolve it rofl the pms that you sent are in the spoiler. pm me if u want

Capri-Sun - March 26, 2015, 11:33 am

I didnt look as far as the part were you say its a scam.

But it looks like we didnt even talk past when i exchanged the psc for btc.

if you want to solve this please msg me

I'd rather have the watch I gave you the psc for. I don't want a mealy $2 btc for a 20 euro psc. You said you would update me within the hour but instead you vacation banned yourself.

i was busy, and i will get you back your 20 euro psc.

i want you to PM me to further discuss this sent you a pm roughly 4 hours ago. waiting for a response.

Capri-Sun - March 28, 2015, 3:48 pm

I can confirm we're now working to resolve this.

he has agreed to wait a few days for me to be able to have spare funds in order to proceed with getting him his watch.

im sure this is just a misunderstanding and we will have this sorted very soon! :D thanks
