Thread: The Void // A Hack Forums Custom Theme

Hydra - March 31, 2015, 8:03 pm

2022.11.001-alpha released

You've finally discovered true darkness, welcome aboard. For the past few months, this tiny personal project turned into a large community project and it's been in development ever since. Thanks to the fantastic and generous members on Hack Forums, we can now present a customizable, advanced, and dark theme to all members of this forum. Flat Darkness isn't just a theme, it comes with features that no other theme has. Some features are exclusive to this theme - there is no existing userscript that provides these features. Take a look at the screenshots and list of features. If you're interested, give it a shot! You have nothing to lose; if you don't like it, simply uninstall. Thank you and enjoy!

Archive (Click to View)

These screenshots and features are outdated as of 3/30. Lots has changed since 2015. Will update this OP soon.

1. it's too dark. Top needs to be lighter.

2. icons should be replaced to fit with the theme.

This is a really nice theme, nice job.

What icons are you referring to? The awards?

or these:

If you're talking about this, I'm already working on that. Have buddy list icons partially done, will remake all to be flat.

The ficons need to be replaced with something minimalistic and flat.

Do we use this with Tamper Monkey?

I am sort of confused.

EDIT: I thought I had TamperMonkey on this computer, gg.

Looks great. I'll probably download it after the HFES bugs are fixed. Thanks for releasing :)

brian188246 - March 31, 2015, 8:16 pm

The theme is very nice, good work.

The most annoying thing to me (and I don't think it can be fixed) is how it blinks the blue theme before Tampermonkey goes in effect and enables yours.

I have a white bg occurring, have you tested this theme and getting the blue flash? Mine is literally instantly changing.

Are you clicking on the actual link or above it in that GIF, hopefully it's the link and the GIF glitched.

There is no solution that I know of so far, I'll search around. I set it to load at document-start so it's as fast as possible. I was thinking downloading the CSS and linking locally would work but TM/GM cache the CSS so it wouldn't really make a difference. But regardless, I'll write up instructions on how to do that, the only con is that updates will have to be made manually.

What do you mean? It's me clicking the "your posts" and "your thread" buttons that are part of MyBB.

Happens when the GIF isn't recording too.

The bug seems to not happen 100% of the time now, very weird.

I also have the scammer DB script on, maybe one loads before the other.. sometimes?

Just found another bug though, the little blue 'go to post' icon is missing.

Go to TM and select the userscript and click on the settings tab.

Copy the settings below:

*Position 1 and document-start

It most likely is going to fix this, thanks for pointing it out.

edit: I'm aware of that and working on getting it added back.

I am planning on adding a color scheme changer that will allow you to change the color of the theme to your liking. As for the darkness, I'll lighten up the background a tad bit.

That seemed to solve it 90% of the time now, still for some pages (like User CP) the glitch is occurring, even when I disable my other script.

But that doesn't really bother me, the theme looks great and I'll keep leaving feedback here! :D

Quickly done some modifications to this to suit me. Not too bad.

Also, TM/GM caches the files. If you want it to automatically update when you push changes, I suggest you add a ?time=32145345 query to the end of the css.

Yea, the caching was screwing with me. I ended up renaming the css file every update so the updates get pushed out correctly. So like this:
// @resource Custom_CSS
raw.githubusercontent.com/iHydra/flatdarkness/master/stylesheet_test_003.css?time=3272834

You could store a random string in local storage. Every 10 minutes or so, it changes. Just append this string to the query of the CSS file and problems fixed. That's how I'd achieve if, anyway.

I have just installed this forum theme and I'm loving it so far. I'm a fan of simplicity so this theme suits me well. The only issue I have is that the original Hack Forums forum theme pops up when you click to load another page on the site. It only pops up for a few seconds before returning to the dark theme, and it's a bit annoying, but I'll learn to live with it.

I appreciate the work you've put into this forum theme thus far and I'm looking forward to the changes to come. ?

That's how it is, I can't really fix it. TM/GM load the scripts post-visit not pre-visit. It is the reason why you're seeing the original theme.

Stylesheet has one. Inspect element has two. Don't forget to add !important at the end just before the ;

If a property exists in the original stylesheet, you must add the important tag so it overwrites the style.

Are you doing inspect element or stylesheet? Keep in mind TM/GM caches resource files so you'll have to change the name of the stylesheet with every change/file version.

As I typed this out, figured the problem. You forgot to close up border-radius.

Update now, made a lot of changes. Let me know if there is anything wrong that needs to be fixed.

Yeah it was better as a solid line since the rest of the design doesn't have any glowing or fading or gradients.

I've found the relevant part of the CSS sheet and I can edit it back to how it was, but I'd need to host the CSS on my Dropbox and have the theme grab that version instead. Not sure if Hydra would be cool with that, though. I'll wait for his reply.

Gecko vs. Webkit, I'll go with Webkit. Safari uses Webkit too so it allows for 2 browsers to be "optimized" instead of just one. And I'll eventually add in gecko support but that's when I get more stuff done on my list.

Not sure how GM works but if there is like a date on how long ago was the last update, you click that and it updates. That's how it is for TM.

Speaking of usernames.

Can I get some feedback on:
Changing each usergroup's username style to something else.

Ex: Regular/Groups have flat white, Epic have gradient gold, Ub3r have Sparkling Blue, etc.

Colors won't change from blue to pink, just the styling of it will.

No I think you should leave the ub3r blue alone, it looks great. However if you could somehow change the color of the stars and userbar to the color of the name that'd be so perfect man.

As for the others, I think the white for regulars and groups sounds cool, the gold for epics sounds cool, and what else would be cool is if you changed the color of l33ts usernames to the yellow it used to be, that'd be really awesome. ?

He B TeMy - July 19, 2015, 3:19 am

I wouldn't change my username color/style, i choose 3p1c over l33t display because i think it's perfect.

If you want to try to change, at least make an option to revert it please ;)

Meant to reply a while ago but got caught up with something. It most likely isn't the theme. Disable all userscripts one by one and see which is causing that. This theme doesn't touch spoilers, doubt it's causing it.

Any word on whether or not you're going to change the color of the ub3r userbar to the blue you have set for the username color?

Would be an excellent implementation. ?

(Jul 18, 2015 06:52 PM)iHydra Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Speaking of usernames.

Can I get some feedback on:

Changing each usergroup's username style to something else.

Ex: Regular/Groups have flat white, Epic have gradient gold, Ub3r have Sparkling Blue, etc.

Colors won't change from blue to pink, just the styling of it will.

A better way to distinguish group members from regular members would be nice, I know right now there is a small visual difference between the two but I can't really tell. It seems like group members/3p1c members are a bit more "bold" than regular members? I'm not sure how this could be implemented, just a small effect or something to easily distinguish the two.

It's already pretty close to that color but I'll take a look.

Group and regular member color are the same so I'll have to take a look at the CSS and see if I can change the group color. Should be able to and if I did change the color, it'd be noticeable but not beyond the general style of all the username styles.

New update coming out this week.

-HFES's "Fancy PMs" will be styled to fit the theme;

-Accesskey added to Preview Post buttons. Alt+S is to "Post Reply" (MyBB Built-In), Alt+W will be to "Preview Post";

-Scrollbar changes for all scrollbars(Quick Edit, Code/PHP Tags, Page Scrollbar).

Shortly after I push out 0.1.0, I will finish up the MyBB Editor(this) and will push out 0.1.1. After 0.1.1, I'll be busy for about 2-3 weeks before I can begin working on the next update. Hopefully by 0.2.0, I'll have put in enough features and changes that I can then begin going through all the code and optimizing it so it works on Chrome AND Firefox. Currently only Chrome has full features, Firefox is limited. Lots of CSS can be replaced with JS/jQuery(which will work fine for both browsers).

I'm also thinking about doing something interactive with the theme like a Member Spotlight where I highlight a member's username across the forum(similar to HFES' Gilded Posts) for those who have contributed to the forum and I've noticed it. One member per update would be suitable. Nothing overboard with the effects, but it would be noticeable with ease and it'd look classy.

- HFES Pretty PMs styled to fit the theme(MUST have HFES installed)

- Fixed MyBB bug - MyBB editor textbox sticks outside, now it is inside(<http://i4.minus.com/i2pAb3MFFN1lg.png>)
- Textboxes styled to fit theme
- All scrollbars styled to fit theme
- Accesskey for Preview Post added(ALT+W will "press" Preview Post like how ALT+S will "press" Post Reply/Update Post)
- Other minor changes

Next up is the MyBB editor, not sure when I can get it done though, it'll take a lot more time than I thought. I want to not just change the colors but also the icons.

I got annoyed at the fact that you have to scroll in a code div. This changes that and it might be worth adding.

Oh and iHydra, will you be updating the quote divs to look similar to the code boxes?

I haven't really bothered grouping anything. Made them all separate because on my development version, I change the functions up to try things out. For version 2, I will optimize everything so it looks good and is organized. On top of that, it'd be more efficient and work for multiple browsers.

I'm going to slowly convert a lot of the CSS into jQuery so it works on Firefox and Chrome instead of just Chrome. Firefox users may see "new" changes but that's just because I made them compatible. I'll list major CSS-->JS changes in the changelog for each update.

Update:

Version 0.1.3 will be released either later today or tomorrow. Firefox should now be fully compatible and all features should work. Converted all the CSS that was limited to only Chrome/Webkit.

Well the CSS file gets cached so it's not that. What exactly is slow for you? It loads faster for me now lol. It's not even flashing the old theme anymore, I just realized that.

Roger Waters - September 4, 2015, 7:12 pm

It takes a second for the little buttons for forum indicators (like whether or not you have read them or not) and the color takes a few seconds to change if you have it as something other than black.

It's on the bottom right. If you don't see it, try reinstalling. Weird :P

What do you guys think of "sponsored" thread highlighting? As of now, I only plan to highlight Omni's threads when you browse "View New Posts" and any subforum. Can't think of anything else to highlight that'd be important. Staff don't tend to make announcement threads and I don't have any intentions of monetizing this as of now so that's all it'll be for for now.

I say "as of now" and "for now" because it may or may not happen. If I ever do it, it'll be in a non-disturbing way, guaranteed.

Crake - September 26, 2015, 11:49 pm

I'll admit it, I'm impressed. This is the first theme I've seen which isn't total shit. It's actually very good. However, you need more contrast between things like the post header and the post, or the quick reply box and the container. Also, the buttons below a quick edit box ("save changes" and "cancel edit") shouldn't be connected, as it's an inconsistency from the buttons immediately below. Also, the double arrow rendering is in the way of some things, and the skype button shouldn't be capitalized like other buttons: someskype

Double arrows:

Version 1.5 will be out tomorrow. Yes, 1.5, not beta 0.1.5. Changing the version format because this will most likely be the last one for a while.

Omni has announced he's upgrading to MyBB 1.8 and a new theme will be made which will, I assume, break 60%+ of this theme. Might as well redo everything and make a much better theme for 2.0 after the new theme is released.

On the bright side, MyBB 1.8 has better template formatting and it'll be easier for me to make changes. I'm pretty sure it'll also be much easier for me to edit the MyBB editor which I kept struggling with.

Changes:

- Buddy List Fixed
- Centered Post #
- Removed Custom Resize Handle (Causing problems)
- Received Rep Redesign
- Gauth Reset Link Fixed
- Code Syntax Highlighter Added

Report any problems you find.

Known Issue:

Resize Handle has a white background - I can't find a fix for it, very little support for it.

I added the suffix "Stable" to the userscript. As I work on the dev version, I'll add it to github as "Development" and you guys can pick either or. Stable will contain little to no problems. Development will obviously get the new features faster but may contain problems and what not. Just be aware of that. I won't upload broken versions but some minimal problems will be in it.

Regarding the rep boxes, caught a mistake in the code that limits a part of the format to only overall positive rep so fixed that in dev. v1.5.1 will be out probably tomorrow or the day after.

It's hard to say. I'm expecting 60%+ to break. 1.8 changed the templates and the new theme won't have the same exact HTML code.

A VERY rough idea how it'll look on MyBB 1.8

The pagination is fine as is. I don't even recall making them small so they've been like that.

As for HF Logo, you'll need to add in a line of code in the userscript. Do note that the logo doesn't look as it should because of the background color difference.

Under CSS Modifications inside the userscript, place the following code below

$(document).ready(function () {

Code $('div[class="logo"]').removeClass("logo").attr('style','text-align:center');

Stapleton - October 21, 2015, 10:50 pm

Update v1.5.1 is LIVE!

Download now: <https://greasyfork.org/en/scripts/10682-flat-darkness-stable>

Changes:

Added the option to enable NSFW(Not-Safe-For-Work) and show the logo(custom made - will soon offer numerous variations). The original logo didn't match the background of this theme so it looked bad. Settings are located in the code of the userscript so go into TM/GM and edit the userscript. Instructions inside.

Lastly, I fixed a few minor errors on my end so that's that.

Next up:

Working on adding a toggle button to show hidden signatures(one button per signature) while in NSFW. Going to attempt to add all these customizable settings all in one settings page accessible through HF.

Hydra - October 23, 2015, 11:13 pm

Have you ever scrolled down a long page looking to see if you were quoted? Well now it just got easier! Introducing... Quote Marker!

<https://i.imgur.com/7RZBNz5.png>

You'll be able to change the color to your choosing in the user settings section of the userscript code. It grabs the username listed in the "Welcome back" message and matches it with any quote blocks.

I wanted to add a floating button that would appear if you were quoted on that page and if you clicked it, it'd take you straight to it. The problem with that is if you get quoted multiple times in that same page, it will take you only to the first one and I'm not experienced enough with jQuery/jS to code something better. I'll see if Kondax has time to make something like that but let's get some input on this first. :)

Install Dev version to test out the quote marker:

<https://github.com/iHydra/flatdarkness/raw/master/flatdev.user.js>

If you have SFW enabled, you'll notice a "Toggle" button for each post. Just ignore it for now, I'm still working on it. It will eventually toggle the signature since it's going to be hidden by default in SFW.

Working on the MyBB Editor. This will be for v1.6.0.

*Icons of the buttons will be redone. Hover color will change. I can't do those changes in inspect element so.... yea. Oh and the textarea expands to the width so if you have a wide screen, it will expand out instead of that annoying square size.

I'm also looking into adding in onHover or onClick(undecided yet) effects on the "User(s) browsing this thread:" text. Basically it will be "minimized" to no usernames and when you hover over, it will expand by sliding right to show all the users. What do you guys think of that?

Note: Black Ops 3 is coming out on Nov 6. I'll most likely release v1.6.0 before then and then no new features for a few weeks. Sorry but I need to gamehead the fuck outta that game. :)

I personally like to view the users browsing without having to hover it, as it doesn't feel clunky i think it's fine imo.

2 Options:

Modify the stylesheet and change "left" to "center"

Or add jquery code inside the userscript section:

Code /*

* CSS Modification (jQuery/jS for multi-browser support)
*/

$(document).ready(function () {

paste this:

Code $('div.menu > ul').attr('style','text-align:center !important;');

Maybe something like that? You'll have to find an alternative to Greasemonkey or Tampermonkey.

People have been PMing me about an issue with installing the script. This occurred on Firefox only from what I was told and it has been fixed now. I've updated it to 1.5.2 to fix the issue, no other features or changes were made.

As of right now, no. Won't be able to push out an update until late tomorrow or Thursday. I have final exams tomorrow so don't have time to work on it.

Temp. Fix: Assuming you haven't modified the userscript, go to line 133 in GM/TM and delete that line.

Look for this line of code if you've modified the userscript:

Code `$('#div[id="quickreply_multiquote"]').remove(); // Remove Multiquote - Disabled by Omni and it's showing because of some CSS changes`

v1.5.3 ---- Changelog

- If you are quoted by any member, that quotation will be color-coded and you can notice it faster as you scroll down.
- userColor Quotation setting added (pick your own color)
- ALT+S is a shortcut key to post reply. I've added a shortcut key for preview post. Read more inside the userscript.
- Safe-For-Work is now fully working. I've added a toggle button with the help of Hash G. for hidden signature images that allows you to reveal them individually. It does not hide text(I don't see how text can be NSFW), just images. Avatars are hidden as well.
- Safe-For-Work has setting to turn on/off
- Show Logo has a setting to turn on/off
- Multiquote button has not been changed, original button still exists until the next update. A bit difficult to change to CSS when the feature uses localStorage.
- Multiquote import by quick reply is now revealed, no longer hidden
- Dev Icon added by iHydra's and kondax's username.
- Quite possibly more changes that I just cannot recall but they're small changes

UPDATE NOW!

I want to get the editor styled to match the theme so I think that'll be for the next big update(1.6.0).

It works fine if you don't touch the button to 'dropdown'. You can click print and subscribe and it will work fine. I did that when I first made the theme and never fixed the drop down part. It shouldn't be a problem as long as you don't click that text. (Thread Options)

I'll be redoing the icons soon. Trying to figure out what style of icons will fit the theme throughout all the pages.

Update v1.5.4 will come with a few neat changes. No ETA yet so if you'd like to get early access, feel free to use the developer version.

So I decided to finally style the Staff, Mod, and Groups pages. Hopefully you all like the new style.

Sneak Peak:

Staff: <https://i.imgur.com/gFs1M3l.png>

Mods: <https://i.imgur.com/qQSzouh.png>

Groups: <https://i.imgur.com/M81K6mS.png>

You may have noticed the icons on the staff page next to staff usernames. I'm working on a Badge system which will add an icon next to text linked to "priority" members such as Admin, Staff, Mentors, and Group Leaders. This "Badge" system is meant to identify users who some may not know. You can most likely memorize who the staff are but mentors aren't always wearing the Mentor userbar and group leaders are constantly changing. I need feedback on this feature though, do you think it's good enough or should I scrap the feature?

Another thing I've added is a quick and easy option to remove(hide) the Nav Links on the menu below the logo(Home, Upgrade, Search, Members, etc.) in case anyone wanted to use that.

Next up on my list is the ability to select a pattern for the background instead of a solid color.

Lastly, I'm going to try to get rid of the random lines that are all over this theme thanks to MyBB.

Example:

The line under "View All" in the Smilies box. I get it's part of the class used for other areas on MyBB that needs the line there but no idea why MyBB Devs didn't bother making a unique class for smilies box. Anyways, I'll fix that as well.

PS: Unless I get some crazy new idea to add, I'll finally style the MyBB Editor(this: <https://i.imgur.com/zVDtPVQ.png>) and that will be v1.6.0. And no, I haven't forgotten about the Multiquote Button, it will be fixed in v1.5.4.

Thanks!

Still working on making the Multiquote button into a working CSS button. As of right now, I have the CSS button done but if you MQ a post, it doesn't save its state after a refresh. Asked a few devs for help - once that has been fixed and working, I will release the next update. For now, I'm just making other changes, improvements, and features while I wait.

Added a double click feature that will select all code for [code] tags. Simpler than a select all button :)

Also, thanks to Snorlax's help, multiquote button is now fully working!

Update 1.5.4 will be out either end of today or tomorrow.

Hydra - February 28, 2016, 4:14 pm

Update 1.5.4 is LIVE!

<https://greasyfork.org/en/scripts/10682-flat-darkness-stable>

Don't have time to post images of the features and kinda forgot the features I added in :P

- + Group, Staff, Mod pages have been restyled
- + Badges is WIP but testable if you'd like
- + Code tags can be double clicked to select all *
- + Multiquote button has been changed to CSS and saves state after refresh/page change
- + Mods/Staff: Selecting threads, PMs[Not only Mods/Staff], etc. will now be highlighted *
- + A few other stuff I can't recall(nothing major tho)

I've noticed HFES is conflicting with my theme. Double clicking code tags and checkbox modifications are not working when HFES is active. I'll most likely incorporate some of the features that HFES has in the near future into the theme.

If you find anything wrong, please let me know!

Sometimes it happens to me, sometimes it doesn't. I have a theory that it's based on your loading time. If you load super fast, it'll do that, if it takes a bit to load, it'll load just fine.

Quick hotfix update for those who are unable to install the userscript due to the sublime css file. Github changed the URL structure for that file so it's coming up invalid on the script. Updated the stylesheet with the new github url structure as well to be on the safe side.

1.5.5 is now the latest update.

Install from: <https://greasyfork.org/en/scripts/10682-flat-darkness-stable>

Edit: Changed it from 1.5.4a to 1.5.5 so it doesn't say "Downgrade" and confuse people.

Alice Dee - February 29, 2016, 6:53 pm

Yeah it could be because of the loading times. Nevertheless, great job Hydra, the theme is very nice looking.

Did you refresh the page? Restart browser? If you really deleted TM, there's no way this theme would stick after a refresh/restart. Maybe Chrome/FF is syncing the addons back on (reinstalling TM and TM syncing your userscripts).

I try to not upload buggy versions but there's been a few times where a new feature doesn't function properly. Aside from that, nothing but pros for getting early access to new and upcoming features.

It's been a while since I worked on it but I'm almost certain the biggest change in the dev is the MyBB editor in full edit.

Developer usually has the latest features we are working on but might be broken/not working or have small minor problems.

Hydra - August 23, 2016, 12:52 pm

More changes to dev version. Will soon push out a stable update, stay tuned.

- Removed line under user info on profile page

- Removed line under smileys in newthread and newpost

- +Fixed spacing of Additional Usergroups in profile page to be at equal height in relation to Forum Info section.

- +Added a "Send PM" button next to the username in the profile page for quick PM access. Usually you'll need to scroll down and click the link on the bottom.

- +When making a new post or thread, the textbox will expand in respect to your screen's resolution/width. WIP

More changes to come as I get more ideas. Forced to work on Firefox at school and noticed a few issues exclusively for FF so will work on fixing those as well.

Download Developer version here: <https://github.com/iHydra/flatdarkness/raw/master/flatdev.user.js>

*Textbox might be too wide for smaller screens, just a heads up.

1.5.6 will go live in 2 days, Thursday the 22nd of September. It's pretty much done and ready, just need to make a few design changes before pushing it out.

DEV v1.5.6.8 has the latest changes that the stable version will get in 2 days if you want early access.

Hydra - September 22, 2016, 8:42 pm

v1.5.6 is now LIVE!

- Removed line under user info on profile page
- Removed line under smileys in newthread and newpost
- Removed other lines that were not needed
- Outline when a textbox/textarea is focused is now disabled (e.g. blue outline on Chrome)
- +Fixed spacing of Additional Usergroups in profile page to be at equal height in relation to Forum Info section.
- +Added a "Send PM" button next to the username in the profile page for quick PM access. Usually you'll need to scroll down and click the link on the bottom.
- +When making a new post or thread, the textbox will expand in respect to your screen's resolution/width.
- +Textboxes are now styled
- +More changes that I've forgotten but are very minimal

A few people can't get Stable to work and I'm really busy with school to put time in and fix the stable version.

Users can't install the stable version because the links in the OP link to version 1.5.5 and the stylesheet_1.5.5.css file doesn't exist anymore. It just seems you need to update the links in the OP to 1.5.7.

Unless I'm missing something here? Because I just went to your github and installed the flatdarkness.user.js (Stable 1.5.7) and it's working perfectly fine for me.

EDIT: For those just tuning in, just use this link (

<https://github.com/iHydra/flatdarkness/raw/master/flatdarkness.user.js>) to download the stable 1.5.7 theme straight off of OP's Github.

With Greasemonkey on Firefox, a dialog will automatically pop up asking you to install the script. I have never used Chrome, so I'm not sure if Tampermonkey will do the same thing, but if not, the link will just take you to the theme's script source where you could just C&P it into a new user script.

Yea, like xadamxk said, not much I can do. I'll be attempting to port this userscript to a Chrome Extension as, according to xadamxk, it would remove any delay you see which I've been wanting to get rid of since I made this script. Never knew an extension would resolve that. Will take some time but hopefully all works out in the next month or so.

A new dev version has been released. 1.5.8.4

Could you please update to it if you are using dev version and see if the load time between the original theme to this theme has been reduced/is faster? To me, it seems much faster, but unsure if that's simply a placebo effect.

Wow. Got exciting news. Grinded out a few hours just now trying to figure out how hard it'd be to do this and I'm close to being done with it all. Some functions aren't running, still needs work, however I can confirm that the "flash" of the original site/theme is no longer occurring. Keep in mind this is for Chrome only as of now and until I'm completely done with it, I won't look into making a firefox extension.

Permissions using so far:

alpha 0.5 is being processed now.

Changelog 2/12/17:

- + Redid ScrollToTop - Moved to the left edge middle of page.
- + Fixed highlight issue when double clicking a username and "Send" in the Send PM button would get selected as well.
- + Thin scrollbar style
- ~ Working on SVG Sprites - instead of using raster png icons, SVG icons (vector) will allow for better quality (especially for 2K/4K monitors) and increase in performance. They also allow for customizations such as color of the icon which could expand the theme's color settings to icons as well.
- ~ Began work on Quick Settings and Options page
- Got rid of settings and a few other options for now, will reintroduce later on with an actual options page.

For those who have it already installed, let me know how it updates and if it goes smooth - interested in hearing how well it works.

Changelog 2/13/2017

+ Styled error bar + Fixed editor height that would block post options + Fixed multiquote button style to match other buttons + Recolored regular/group user stars + Colored prefix tags and removed [] brackets from label + Made Thread Rating on one line instead of two; adjusted thread option buttons (print/subscribe)

Safe to say I won't be updating the userscript no more, will be focusing on the extension as that will be the best way of creating a smooth experience. If there is an emergency event that requires me to make changes to the userscript, I will. However, all future updates will be for the extension which is currently in its alpha stage.

MQ buttons work on my end, check your console for any error please.

There's one bug that was never fixed on the userscript versions but it's been fixed for the extension: if you install the script fresh and there's nothing inside the quotedPosts variable, it will give out an error. To fix this manually, just multiquote a post by clicking the MQ+ button and then unquote it. It should then fix the error. It did for my end.

Once you do that, the online/offline work. Reason they didn't before was that error would prevent any further code from running.

That's because the javascript runs once (on page load) and never again.

However, with the extension I am working on, that is resolved.

That is the icon without refreshing and I used quick reply. Instead of using javascript, I used CSS which works better.

That's already a feature. You can change the light grey to a color. It's in the userscript however WIP for the extension. Userscript has a selection of colors, the extension will be any RGB value you'd like.

Hydra - May 2, 2017, 2:14 am

Made good progress tonight.

Every setting except Badges and API are working. You can set your own theme and quote color, no more presets or hardcoded colors. This uses Chrome's Storage Sync so once this gets out of Alpha/Beta, it can sync your settings from one computer to another. I plan on giving you the option of disabling that but that's down the road.

API won't be worked on until it's out of beta. May write some stuff for it but being in beta, the endpoints can change which renders my code pointless for the most part.

Going to wrap a few other things and push out the update.

Thanks

- + Added new things I can't recall :)

How to install: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?pid=53899751#pid53899751>

If installed already, Google Chrome auto-updates every few hours or you can force update by going to "chrome://extensions/" and clicking on "Update extensions now"

*Remember the required minimum Chrome version is 54 ~~ This is because I use certain methods that are only compatible with 54+. I personally do not want to be limited by outdated versions and you shouldn't even be on an outdated version (54 is outdated too though, just not that old). For public release of version 1.0, I will be increasing the minimum version requirement to 55 or 56. I'll keep the versions at least 4 months apart. v56 came out in Jan for example, it's May now.

There's no reason to stay on the userscript, it's slow and outdated. No more updates will be made for that. I'll wait a few weeks to hear some feedback on the extension and then I will begin working on the Firefox extension. If enough people show support, I'll consider Safari?

Top right of your HF pages should say V1.1.0

That's currently the latest version. I'll eventually turn that version indicator into a "Check for Updates" button. However, Chrome will automatically update all extensions upon restart of Chrome. So if you don't shutdown your computer for a week, you won't get the update unless you kill all Chrome processes and reopen Chrome.

Are you gonna have other browsers supported too? Like Opera or Palemoon?

Unless enough people ask for it, no, I won't natively support them. However, some people have managed to use Chrome extensions in Opera.

(Aug 21, 2017 10:56 AM)Max_Lietz Wrote: CITE Are you gonna have other browsers supported too? Like Opera or Palemoon?

(Aug 21, 2017 12:08 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Opera and FireFox have adopted the same API's, so Chrome extensions work almost, if not completely, natively.

Safari has yet to do so, so the extension would have to be almost entirely recoded.

Luckily, iHydra's extension uses mostly CSS, so he shouldn't have to recode a whole lot if he does choose to support other browsers.

Yup. I use this on Opera. @Max_Lietz if you're running Opera download this (<https://addons.opera.com/en-gb/extensions/details/download-chrome-extension-9/>) and you'll then be able to use most extensions available on the webstore.

The problem with "mostly CSS" is that CSS has browser compatibility problems. I've done a few "CSS hacks" to get certain things working. These things, like contain: ";;, do not work on Firefox. I'll have to recode a few things for the Firefox extension but I'll most likely push it out in a beta while I develop it so I can have people report bugs to me.

I'm aware of that error. Haven't looked too deep into it since MQ still works correctly but I'm going to guess that's due to the asynchronous connection it does every time it loads. I'll eventually fix it because that still shouldn't be happening. Lol

Anxuein - August 23, 2017, 12:39 pm

You can just get rid of that error just by checking if they are null or not. If it works there's no need to change it :P

Hydra - August 24, 2017, 12:05 am

After taking a look at Firefox userscripts, I'm not sure if I even want to make an extension for FF now... this is gonna be a pain in the ass. It's like making two unique cores that share similar traits. And each time I update something, they have to be updated in their own way. ugh...

I'll get it done, just give me a month or so. Going to take time redoing everything.

IIRC, once you use MQ+ at least once, it fixes itself. My computer doesn't get any errors.

Oh and styling Pretty PMs from HFX to match the theme. Once done, I'll push out another update. Flat Darkness and Matte Black were the two themes that weren't working and they had one line in common that Old School HF did not.

Not sure the reason why (idk anything about js), but this line was causing the two themes to not work:

Code // @run-at      document-start

I'd wanna say it's another extension messing with it. Disable all your other GM userscripts and FF add-ons. If it works then, enable one at a time to find out which one it is.

It's amazing.

Question: How difficult would it be to add a feature that limits the responsiveness of the theme?
Like sets a limit on the width of the page
I'm willing to donate if that is what it takes :p

Yes, like that, but it doesn't even have to be that small. Maybe 50% bigger than that on your screen would be perfect on mine.

I'm on a 5k iMac, so the resolution along with the big screen has everything very far apart for sites that don't have a limit to the width like HF or reddit.

In that case, I could just set a max-width limit for such large screens? Better than a % variable that would be all over the board. Max-width of 1920px or something like that? Would that work?

Try it out thru Chrome >> F12 (Dev Tools) and doing this: <https://i.imgur.com/TW7Bpqw.png>

If Omni upgrades HF, Flat Darkness userscript and extension will break. I'll first fix Chrome extension and then continue working on FF extension but it's a huge pain in the ass. No ETA tho.
And the userscript will not be worked on either - would be a waste of time. Rather spend time on the extension.

Maybe because the theme basically integrated my theme into the classic theme.. ? btw, I'm not done fixing my theme. It doesn't look good - was just a quick n dirty support in the meantime.

And no, I'm not adding tabs. Wanna know why? Because Omni isn't done configuring the forum yet. He's disabled all plugins because they need updating. Tabs will return most likely and so it'd be a waste of time to add it.

Saltpeter - October 24, 2017, 11:09 pm

Great work with this. Glad you were able to get an update out so quickly after the upgrade.

Hydra - October 24, 2017, 11:10 pm

Another update with more adjustments and fixes. Getting closer and closer to a finished version. I'm getting told people don't like it being so dark so after I finish updating the theme, I'll mess with making a "lighter" dark version. It'll be an option - pick your poison. I hope to make it so it's pure CSS changes so 0 "flashing" (showing previous elements for a really short time and switching to new).

Fun Fact: Since the upgrade to MyBB 1.8, there's been 75 new users who've at the very least installed the extension. No, I'm not tracking you, Google just provides me with stats of weekly users, installs/impressions, and uninstalls.

Apart from this, the complete theme looks really amazing.

Great work brother. Won't touch the sidebar menu just yet. Will wait for Omni to finish working on it. I'm expecting heavy changes that would render all my styling to be useless.

Version 1.2.11 is being published. Give it 60 minutes or so. I have decided that the Z value (X.Y.Z) will define the amount of changes made in the update. If it goes from 1.2.5 to 1.2.18, I've made 13 changes. My intention is that the Z value will let users know how much of a difference in change there is in the future updates.

Changelog 10/30/2017 ~ Version 1.2.11:

+ Header

--- Fixed centering of the logo

--- Able to hide logo again

--- Moved version bubble

--- Removed extra gap between logo and Welcome User block

--- If hiding logo, clicking in the empty space where logo should be will act as the "Home" button

+ Fixed hover effect in showgroups.php

+ ATTEMPTED to fix "jitter bug" in Options panel (I need testers, I can't replicate this bug)

Version Numbering Convention:

3.1.4

1 = Minor Update

4 = Quick Fixes (each change increases this number, going from 4 to 13 means there were a lot of changes whereas 4 to 6 means a tiny update)

Sneak peek to next update (tho not final):

Not liking how dark it is and the dropdown menus are same color as the forum (#333).

Let's get some reports of fixes that need to be made please. Want to update this once more and then that's it for now. No point since new theme is almost here and WILL break this again and probably worse than the MyBB 1.8 upgrade.

Eternal. - March 28, 2018, 7:53 pm

Still using this, another must have Hack Forums extension. Thank you for your hard work making this. I've been using this since it was a userscript.

Not sure if this is just me, or something I did lol but if not the version is doubled:

Make sure you don't have the Extension AND Userscript running.

Check Console (F12 > ESC) for any errors.

Changelog 3/30/2018 ~ Version 1.3.0:

+ Header

>> Changed header background color to fit with logo's background color

>> Merged User Panel with Header block

+ Breadcrumb

>> Reduced extra spacing

>> Added style support for sticky notice

+ Postbit

- >> Darkened base background color for better contrast
- >> Reduced spacing for a more compact fit
- >> Button vertical spacing corrected to be centered
- >> Reply, Quote, etc. buttons styled properly

- + "Bug" Fixes
- + Other changes I can't remember

v1.3.0 is the first of many short burst updates to come. Expect a few more small incremental updates within the next 2-3 weeks. Aiming to fix a lot of the broken stuff and improve the theme overall.

Changelog 3/31/2018 ~ Version 1.3.9

- + Header
 - >> Reduced spacing between panel block and logo
 - >> Optimized logo load
- + Breadcrumb
 - >> PM Notice adjusted to fit better
 - >> Small text in the breadcrumb area adjusted to fit better
- + Tabs
 - >> Styled tabs to fit the new style of background layout
- + HF Xtension Support
 - >> Cite Button now styled properly
- + "Bug" Fixes

I'm not an expert at this stuff and I did start this project to learn Javascript and CSS. I've learned over the years and always find flaws in my code. This update should have reduced a lot of the "flash" and "jitter" page loads some may experience. There were a few things that I did better or removed (weren't needed).

Next update will be quite large. New style is in the works. This will take some time and lots of community feedback.

Material Design - Hope to have this more colorful and lighter. Also, you'll be able to change from Flat to Material.

No ETA as of now. I want to perfect this style. Will be a lot more polished than the original one. I'm following the Material Design specs as much as I can (but being a forum and limited ability, it'll be tough). I'm not done with the index.php and put 4-5 hours into it.

Currently it looks like this:

There's a new theme in the works as Omniscient is looking for a designer. New theme = broken Flat Darkness. I'll remake Flat Darkness or something similar when the new theme comes out. Till then, most likely won't be any updates but who knows :) Might feel like fixing that nav_bit icon. ?

Alright, I had no idea a new theme was being worked on.

More work than expected. Manifest V3 will be fun...

Hydra - September 30, 2022, 3:48 pm

Flat Darkness 2.0 will be out by Sunday. When I feel like I've caught up with all the fixes and improvements, I'll begin working on Firefox extension. Extension will require supported stable releases of Chrome, to be updated with each update. This usually is the latest 2 to 3 major versions of Chrome (105 and 106 for example).

Manifest V3

Navbar and Breadcrumb converted to flexbox

Small changes introducing new design approach (mix of flat and material design)
Less padding in some areas (headers), more padding in others (buttons)
Improved quoted posts style, support for HFX quotes but forced theme style
Improved navbar dropdown menus
Much more to go before release...

Hydra - September 30, 2022, 10:08 pm

(Sep 30, 2022 08:46 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) HFX adds alot of elements other than quotes.

Have you tested them all?

Usually have it enabled while developing and browsing so should have it all covered. If not, people can report it.

(Sep 30, 2022 09:12 PM)shatter Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just ignore manifest v3 and support FF users. :V

Pretty sure Firefox supports Manifest V3. They have documentation on it. Won't be a problem.

Pending Review

Changelog 10/1/2022 ~ Version 2.0.05

+ Overall

>> Manifest V3

>> Reduced spacing between panel block and logo

>> Implemented material design style specs in some areas: rounded corners, drop shadow, etc.

+ Navbar

>> Flexbox implementation

+ Pagination

>> Fixed layout issue

+ Breadcrumb

>> Tighter spacing

+ Tabs

>> Material Design style

+ HF Xtension Support

>> Please disable Smart Quotes, quick fix applied but HFX applies inline styling that I can't support.

Will need to implement setting to pick between HFX or FD "smart" quotes.

>> Please report issues found

+ "Bug" Fixes

Started working on the new theme. Don't plan on releasing it to Chrome Extension until it's completed so will be a while. Once I have something substantial, I'll post it on Github so you can load it as an unpacked extension.

Omg, after seeing this screenshot it really makes me miss using this theme I'm ngl.

Flat Darkness is still by far one of my favorite themes I've used, especially with the logo we had in 2016 or so. I believe Novica made it iirc?

2022.11.001-alpha has been released on Github. See OP.

Download the .zip, extract it somewhere you'll easily access (e.g. Downloads or Documents folder). Go to `chrome://extensions` and "Load unpacked" and select the root/parent folder.

Please provide feedback but be aware this is an early release. Lots of untouched buttons, fields, etc. Very minimal Javascript as well - for now.
