Thread: So I am streaming my adventure on becoming a game dev

Graybyte - April 1, 2015, 3:40 pm

So what I want to do in college is become a great game developer.
I am going away to college this summer and I want to get a head start.

In this stream series I will be coming from knowing only a little bit of programming to publishing my first game.

I hope you guys can come out and support me. I will be starting off by learning Python. Hope to see you there.

I really wouldn't recommend Python to do game development with Imfao.

what would you recommend me learn instead?

I only picked it because I heard it was best language to pick up first.

Python is a horrible language (yes, that's an opinion guys).

C# is delicious, and providing you can grasp the fundamentals of Computer Science, it'll be a doddle.

Good luck, seems like a nice little product. Will try to check in every now and again.

Leostraza - April 1, 2015, 4:31 pm

10/10 would watch again.

Bruh moved on to learning C# because everyone decided Python was a bad starting language..

Oh well.

If you ever need someone for mapping, I can use advanced perlins quite effectively to make some insane stuff.

But if you're going from basic to pro then you won't have use for anyone on this forum.

But OP, I think this is a great idea and I thought about it as well... Problem is, I don't have a nice camera nor the editing skills to do it.

We are changing directions. We are learning C# instead of python.
