Looks like a mixture of your Knight and Element themes

You used to not suck, now you suck.

Stop sucking.

I based it off a UI kit I found online.

It's all a Re-Theme of a Re-Theme of a Re-Theme, I have to agree with Lazy on that one.

Don't get me wrong, it doesn't look bad, but not very original either ?

Yep that's true now.

It is similar to a few of my other themes, but it is not the same. Someone might like this theme & not my others. I want them to be able to use a theme that they like. If some themes weren't similar in style to each other, there would only be a few themes available.

Its hard to break ground with a design, i know its really hard to make a new design that looks great or even find a design that looks great. I love your themes, you do a fantastic job! Just try to work on a new design, something refreshing.

But it looks the same and they all have the same controls, even if the codes aren't exactly the same. The only change in any of your themes is the h/w and roundrect, the color and the gaidentlining for Biobonic theme. This theme, knight and Biobnic theme dont have the outlines like the other ones. And this theme using rounded groupbox while the knite one did not but had a rounded Top rectangle which this one does not. And this, knite and flow themes have rounded buttons while elements and boibonic don't.

It's like you went 2 steps forward and one step back. They all look nice and I really like the Left line on the groupbox for element themes. This is a nice collection of themes you've made though.
