Thread: NulledHacks General | Computing | Gaming Discussion Forum

I created this forum a while ago, still developing it and adding new functionality but decided to open it up ?. Would be really happy to get registrations up with members beginning to actively participate in discussions. It would also be cool if I could get feedback and suggestions on improvements and additional features I could add/create on the website.

Members of HackForums can get a special award by messaging me with their forum username.

I'll be having a posting and referral contest with prize money in order to boost registrations and site content, details will be announced on the website.

Thank you for your time.

A very nice theme. Would love to see some prostats instead of the right box. Also, maybe make it flat? My preference, might be others that dislike such thing.

If you were to add a Privacy & Anonymity forum you'd defiantly see me there!

Thanks for the feedback, I've thought about the theme being more flat and agree, therefore will action that soon. As for Prostats I'm unlikely to add it because I am currently working on something similar to incorporate.

Cool suggestion, added.
