

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Making a thread to warn people of a gift they got from a member

Epic??? - April 15, 2015, 8:54 am

Hey,

Just wondering if I'd be allowed to make a warning thread for members who received a gift for a website which was 100% not legal and would cause their account to get deleted once the admins of the site found out they were using it.

I don't want members to have to go through the same problems as me, so I just wanted to make a thread about it and maybe PM them about it, too.

Thanks a lot,
Epic

Aceman - April 15, 2015, 8:56 am

Well, would mentioning the site violate any of HF's current rules? Specifically referring to disallowed blackhat activity, which this site sounds like it's probably associated with. So long as talking about it won't violate HF rules then you're free to warn other members about it.

Epic??? - April 15, 2015, 9:07 am

(Apr 15, 2015 08:56 AM)Aceman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well, would mentioning the site violate any of HF's current rules? Specifically referring to disallowed blackhat activity, which this site sounds like it's probably associated with. So long as talking about it won't violate HF rules then you're free to warn other members about it.

Incidentally, it's about an anime website. I was just thinking it might be against the rules since it's targeting a member's actions. Ah whatever, I don't know how stuff like that is handled around here so I'll just hope for the best.

Thanks!

Yoshikage Kira - April 15, 2015, 9:22 am

(Apr 15, 2015 09:07 AM)Epic??? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Incidentally, it's about an anime website. I was just thinking it might be against the rules since it's targeting a member's actions. Ah whatever, I don't know how stuff like that is handled around here so I'll just hope for the best.

Thanks!

Would the site happen to be crunchyroll.com? And would it happen to involve the giveaway of the 12 month codes?

Epic??? - April 15, 2015, 9:33 am

(Apr 15, 2015 09:22 AM)Gr?ed Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Would the site happen to be crunchyroll.com? And would it happen to involve the giveaway of the 12 month codes?

Yeah, that's the one. I should've thought twice about getting the gift from him...