Thread: Audible hallucinations?

I swear there's something mentally wrong with me

I'm having the weirdest ass audible hallucination right now, but it only occurs when I'm in a certain part of my living room. If I'm anywhere in front of my couch I hear it, but if I move behind my couch it goes away

It's this low hovering sound, sounds like a motorcycle is on my doorstep

Is there any way to make this shit stop?

For some reason this makes me think of Sheldon from big bang theory. Maybe its your TV or something?

it's gotta be some kind of electronic device in your house.

or you have a magnetic field in that spot for who knows what reason.

You have body receptors for strong magnetic field. You could be a mutant.
