(Feb 2, 2015 02:35 PM)Davros Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Davros' Review of High On Quack's SMS Bomber

Send Time

The send time is near instantaneous. I sent five messages to my personal phone which was AT&T and before I could even look at my phone (which mind you was right beside me) I heard it ringing and buzzing like a mad man (and it was still only 5 messages!).

Pricing

I have not used many sms bombers, so I am not able to accurately compare prices to equivalent products on the market. I can however compare it to one product which I was going to purchase, and it was SLIGHTLY cheaper, however it didn't offer spoofing like this SMS bomber does. Most other sms bombers also require that you use your own email account. This does not. Meaning all messages are sent completely anonymously, and with the spoofing of mass messages, people can not block the numbers, and therefore can always be spammed.

GUI/Ease of Use

The GUI used for the bomber is absolutely AMAZING. I'm completely in love with it. It makes things extremely easy to use, and makes sure you know what you're doing. It could use a little centering here and there (in my PERSONAL opinion) other than that it's great. And the only thing you have to do to actually bomb is put in a number and select a carrier. Ease of use is something you WILL NOT have to worry about with this bomber. And another little edit here, this is all HTTP based, so there is no need to download programs, and the autobuy works perfectly!

Send time: 10/10 Pricing: 10/10 (For features included) GUI: 9/10 (GUI was updated, perfect, but still have seen better, up'ing to a 9!) Ease of Use: 10/10

The only complaint I have would be the 30 minute cooldown on spamming from multiple numbers. Of course you can max out the amount you send and make sure that it's well worth the 30 minute wait. High on Quack has previously announced already that he will be reducing the time when he picks up better servers, which is absolutely amazing. I would highly recommend this product to anyone looking to purchase an SMS bomber.

(Feb 2, 2015 03:25 PM)b0ngt0ker420 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lmk when there isn't a cooldown time or it is decreased by at least half and I'll purchase.

Goodjob so far. ?

(Feb 2, 2015 03:38 PM)WeaponX Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Shits dope, got it to annoy the hell out of my roommate because he has a flip phone and now he can't do shit on it. Exactly what I needed, thanks.

(Feb 2, 2015 06:15 PM)b0ngt0ker420 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He added 2 features requested and even upgraded the server with no cooldown time. This bomber is a beast now.

Can now send text at set intervals and see the progress.

BIG VOUCH!

(Feb 2, 2015 07:07 PM)????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Roger that Quack.

Looks like it would really annoy the living duck out of people.

(Feb 3, 2015 12:26 PM)Bob White Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just purchased, waiting for delivery. ?

Edit: Got it, sending test hits to lots of numbers now, will report back with results. So far so good though, a LOT easier than needing to input gmail accounts like all the other popular sms spammers.

How does the progress bar work? I see numbers like 2.2, 3, 3.2, 3.4, etc?

(Mar 9, 2015 05:31 PM)POLY Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Vouch! Payed with paypal and was able to bomb immediately after purchase. So far very intuitive, however not incredibly reliable. I requested 1,000 messages to be bombed to my phone, but it all stopped at 227.

Plus, the most messages you can send at a time is only 1,000. I don't know why the thread still advertises 10,000.

Out of box it supports Verizon, AT&T, T-Mobile, Sprint and Virgin Mobile. But any carried that has an SMS email gateway should work and can be added by the user. You can check to see if your carried has an SMS email gateway (and what it is) here.
