http://www.schoola.com/stitch/shop/boys-high-schoola?gender=Boy&size=teen_boys-XXL Thanks, crazy I have that mario shirt!

Edit: Man, are these used clothes or something? I was going to buy $15 worth of mario shirts and noticed: Condition: Blemished, with a moderate wear in chest >>>?

Kinda sad, it appears you are ripping off poor kids getting $100 worth of free shit??

Kinda sad, it appears you are ripping off poor kids getting $100 worth of free shit??Honestly I don't think you can read, everything you buy even if it's for free a percentage of that goes to schools around the US. With everything i've ordered they gave over $100's to many schools. Plus these shirts are most likely from kids that have outgrown their clothes or even clothes that they don't wear anymore.

How does a percentage of free ($0) work?

(Apr 24, 2015 07:54 AM)Rsynced Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How does a percentage of free ($0) work?

The items themselves aren't free. You use the credit they give you to pay for the items in your checkout.

It goes by the value before sharing credit. How I understand it anyway, is that the person who donates the clothes determines what school benefits from that piece of clothing so the school will benefit even if the customer doesn't pay anything and uses a code. Schoola isn't a non-profit company, they can afford to use things like Sharing Credit to spread the word about them.

Here is an image of one of my orders, as you can see it states how much is given to schools and what school gets the money.

You can buy whatever you can with the $15 credit you get. A majority of the stuff is for kids so I can't guarantee the hats may fit you

I'm interested in a code if you still have it.

When I visit the website it pulls up a standard page, is this correct?

I've since run out of codes. Yes, after you pick what you want and begin to fill out the checkout information that's when the credit is applied.

Not OP, but you'll still get the $15 for being a refferal of his. I believe the free shipping offer has expired, however.

Foxes - May 25, 2015, 11:38 am

Unfortunately the free shipping is over but they usually have free shipping like a few days a month

One question

Is it safe to keep using my home address, for multiple orders.

Badside416 - June 20, 2015, 1:36 am

I read a little about them, it's a great thing they're doing. Thanks for sharing man

EDIT: It seems like the $15 doesn't cover the tax LOL had to pay using paypal

Not sure what you mean but if you're trying to make multiple accounts or something you can try adding things like room 2 or apt 1 to the end of the address, i'm not sure that'll work though.

Yck - June 20, 2015, 3:34 am

Only for US? :) I hope so not.

Yea, I mean can I use the same address on multiple accounts?

Damasu - June 20, 2015, 12:55 pm

I did this, and it worked. But It's not giving me credit when I use a vpn or tor

This is working good, I've got a ton of stuff. thanks for the share. Hopefully they ship it soon :P

Foxes - June 20, 2015, 8:38 pm

It should be there in about a week. I hope everyone is enjoying their free clothes and helping money go to schools in need

Kenpachi - June 20, 2015, 11:24 pm

I'm being told to put a discount code. Any help?

edit: NVM. Figured it out. I'm really thankful for you for sharing this, OP. I'm in desperate need of new clothing.

Foxes - June 23, 2015, 12:57 pm

There's still free shipping so get this deal while it lasts!

Edit: just added a code to get an extra $10 to spend

Damasu - June 23, 2015, 7:29 pm

Really, I've gotten about 540 dollars in items already, they all shipped today :P

Kenpachi - June 23, 2015, 7:52 pm

Can this be used more than once? Like I have already ordered my stuff. Would I be able to use your link again to order more stuff for other people in my household?

Damasu - June 23, 2015, 8:02 pm

No you must use the saame address on 1 account. You just have to use multiple vpn connections to make new accounts that you reffered and have them buy some random thing and send it to a fake place. So you get ccredit

Bethany Mota - June 23, 2015, 8:31 pm

So if I want to buy stuff, I use your ref link, add the stuff in my cart, use the promo code and do this X amount of times until I bought the stuff I wanted on different IP's/VPN's? Fuck

Damasu - June 23, 2015, 8:39 pm

Register a bunch of accounts, using american vpn's with your reff link. and buy some random item on the accounts you register. and you will get 15 dollars every time

badapple6969 - June 23, 2015, 8:42 pm

thanks I appreciate the great post

Br?ndon - June 23, 2015, 9:03 pm

Fucking this website is annoying to find sizes.

The size is like cut off so you need to click everything.

Damasu - June 23, 2015, 9:27 pm

Yeah guys :P I cleared out 90% of all the mens medium and large stuff :D
