Thread: Think you have what it takes to run a group?

Understalker - May 3, 2015, 12:24 pm

Me and Arrow decided we will be adding another leader to run the group since paying for leadership is lame.

You will be running the group alongside Haydrazs, however the userbase that we have right now cannot be changed. You will be free to invite anyone who me, Arrow, or Haydrazs don't dislike.

You are free to change the group to whatever direction you'd like.

Post and explain why, we're only doing this for the community as me or Arrow have no gain out of this.

I've always wanted to help lead a group that would better the HF community in someway. I think it would be a fun and interesting experience. I'm not going to say I am more qualified or deserve it over anyone but I am up for the challenge regardless.

Best of luck to everyone!

King Cin - May 3, 2015, 12:41 pm

I think I have what it takes to run a group. I've ran an unofficial group called "The Order" before together with Th3PonyWizard & Aura. It wasn't anything really big, but it means I have had experience with recruiting & removing.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4270138>

If I were to start a group now, I would make it a simple lounge group compiled of users that have proved to be somewhat useful to HF. I would then ask them for their skillset/interests and create a project that wouldn't be annoying to do so they can choose whether to participate or not. After that's all done I would start thinking of a new project. None of them would be forced, but I'd make them so that you'd want to participate out of your own free will.

Also, you're not sure if a hacking group would work, but I'm really asking you to give Pony a shot, he does wonders.

I am the forceop meme. I am willing to take some time out of my forceop life to manage a group. I am also very sane, and not at all autistic.

"LOL" means "Laugh out Loud", and "OMG" means "Oh my God"

"RUH" means "Are you horny?"

"PIR" means "Parent in room"

"GNOC" means "Get naked on camera"

These are facts.

Also, "HHYSJDHNCS", meaning "Hey, have you seen Jeff Dunhams hit new comedy series?"

ZerFallen - May 3, 2015, 12:58 pm

I think it would be a great experience to be a leader. I'm a mature member who deals mostly in the SRPP and the L'appel du vide sub-forum. I'm constantly discussing topics of politics, religion, science, history and the list continues. I'm pretty well rounded in all fields of discussion and debate and think that being a leader would be something interesting to do in my loads of free time.

I'm not going to make an entire application for this because I don't really think there are too many requirements for being a leader other than maturity and loyalty. Nevertheless, I hope you consider me for the position. ?

Prepubescent - May 3, 2015, 1:00 pm

I think I will be good for this role as I want to prove everyone wrong. I applied to buy a group from Omni a while back and start it from scratch but he said no as he didn't think I would follow through with payments etc.

I also think that if I was to be a leader or just a 'Moderator' for the group, I could help overrun the forum and help the group to become that little bit better than it is already and soon take over all the other groups and Echo will be the only group standing tall whilst we push the others down.

We voted out the option to officialy merge with Echo a couple of months ago. We're a sub-branch of Null tho, because I'm not allowed to have ownership of a group (Omniscient did not approve me) and I don't trust people to proxy me for an obvious reason. So I would rather have it unofficial/sub-branch rather than actually proxying it and lose my money.

If I'm ever approved, I'll consider buying a group if there's one for sale at the time.

MrOrang - May 3, 2015, 2:13 pm

You have to ignore stupid shit and be able to handle shit maturely while still having fun with the community.

Anarchist. - May 3, 2015, 2:22 pm

I have quite a large amount of leadership experience when it comes to online communities and also usergroups. I have owned several usergroups throughout the past on a few communities, all of which were successful and managed to accumulate a successful amount of posts on a regular basis. Although the communities were much smaller than Hack Forums, one of my usergroups managed to accumulate around thirty-thousand posts within the private sub-forum. That's not bad considering the usergroup only consisted of a handful of users.

I also have moderation experience and have also administrated a few MyBB communities of my own, once again proving that I have experience when it comes to a leadership role. I was in a Senior Staff position on another well-known MyBB community for seven, perhaps even more, months. Although the position required you to be pretty strict, it still doesn't necessarily mean that I don't have a down-to-earth and comical side to me as well. I'm laid back once you get to know me, and I participate in several Skype group chats and tend to have a laugh once I get home from work in the evenings.

Running a usergroup on Hack Forums would be a first for me, as would it be with a majority of the other members hoping to receive this position. I wouldn't be flooding the usergroup with a bunch of new recruits, but I'd be assessing members profiles on a regular basis to see whether or not they would be deemed a position within the usergroup. When I was running a usergroup on a MyBB board named FK several years ago, I would look for well-rounded individuals who had a bubbly personality but spoke common sense and could interact with other members and weren't entirely egocentric.

It would be a privilege to run the usergroup with you guys, and I can assure you that I would give it 110%. If you felt as if I was slacking in my role as a leader, I would happily resign from my position and hand it over to someone else. I tend to lurk when I browse Hack Forums, so it would be nice to establish some friendships on here and begin building up a stronger, more positive reputation. Cheers, lads.

Vandie - May 3, 2015, 2:47 pm

I'm going to throw my name in here even though I know I'm nowhere near as qualified as some of the others here. I'm not going to lie, I like to be in control but then again I do respect those who are ahead of me. I haven't really done much for HF but I feel that which I do is of a rather high standard. I'm a writer for the AA weekly which although not massive, is something that I have been dedicated to. I started an OMC gambling website so that OMC would have something that may actually be used and I have made sure to keep many users within shooting range. (this may sound a little strange but those who I refer know what I mean) I feel like what I'm trying to say is that I'm dedicated to what I put my mind to and I love this community. Due to this, I think that, given the chance, I could do a lot with this opportunity.

Thanks for this chance.

Signed, Vandie.

Enforc3r - May 3, 2015, 3:36 pm

I am not applying because I know my post count is low and I am still fairly new but this is how I would imagine a group. Most groups here are looking for "HQ" people who excel in the area of speciality. From their it's friends of friends and the sleep your way to the top buy-in's.

There is a gaping hole in the scouting side of all this. Most are not picking up those showing good potential or talent and nurturing these users to become better faster. With good advice and direction from a small group of leaders, teaching them how source requirements, how to protect their identities, ethics, trust, things that take a very long time to fully learn and understand. Building a group of patriotic members rather than a group with users who are in many groups. It's bizarre to me because irl people work for only 1 company or go to one school or fight for one army.

It's only how I see it and as I am not in a group and probably do not understand the mechanics of them am probably misunderstanding it all together. Either way good luck.

Roger Waters - May 3, 2015, 4:01 pm

Whoever gets chosen should do something different. All groups have pretty much become the same thing IMHO.

Update - May 3, 2015, 4:13 pm

I feel like if I could be a leader of a group I could help think of new ways to get the group involved. I really enjoy meeting new people and being involved in group conversations and activities. I've always wanted to see what it was like being a leader but, I never had the funds to buy a leadership position. This could be the perfect opportunity. Also, hackforums has reached a point for me where I dont find myself online as much as I used to just because its become the same stuff, given this opportunity would be a chance for me to expand my ideas and outlook on HF providing me with an actual reason to come on HF and help out with the group.

This is a great idea. Thanks for the opportunity, I've always had a great idea to make a group related to just servers. Echo is a great way to work that, HF has yet to see a dedicated " server " group, by this I mean Webservers, Gameservers, VPNs, Debugging programs etc. on external machines. I have some great ideas such as monthly server awards, we can have a shared server where users are free to experiment whatever they like, we will be able to fund this through various ways including through my personal wallet as I hope.

This idea for starters would be one of a kind, I won't plan on giving you previous experience bullshit because frankly that won't get me anywhere, experience is always nice but everyone has to start somewhere for experience, I'm hoping this can be my experience. Once again this as far as I know has not been done before on HF and we have many server enthusiasts who have the same passion as me that could also use this as a way to gain experience and show others what they can do.

I'm really hoping I can get a chance for this I can elaborate more over PM if you like. Thanks again for the chance and best wishes as well as luck to everyone :).

Honestly I'd like to see one of these groups get by without a post quota filled with garbage, spammed posts, or a forced activity check (which in turn just causes more junk posting to meet the quota!)

If your group can do that, sign me the fuck up.

Ninetales. - May 3, 2015, 6:38 pm

Heyyo.

I would love to help run a group..

Ever since I started using this forum a lot more, I've always had plans to hopefully lead a group one day. Even to a point where me, Fox, and Billie Joe tried saving up the funds to create our own "chill group" in which it really would contain mostly of people we thought had humorous personalities and would be fun to just create a smaller community with.

Sadly, we don't have stacks on stacks on stacks, so the idea unfortunately went to the back burner.

I feel that if I was given the opportunity to help run a group, I would bring a fair amount of fun and just general activity to the group.

I would bring in members that aren't fucktards, and I won't sell shitty buy-ins cause money doesn't show character of peeps, only eyes do.

I HIGHLY doubt that you will choose me, but for ages I've thought that I'm prepared to lead a group. I have a vast knowledge on how groups run based on how many I'm in. And, I'm not going to be the type of person to be all anal about activity or LQ posts or anything like that. In the end Echo is a lounge group and it's meant to be fun. I'd try and make Echo into a enjoyable group where people can log onto HF and know that "Hey, if I post in Echo I'm going to be able to have a good conversation with another member that we will both enjoy." With that said, I wouldn't change the group at all. I'd leave it as it is. If something isn't broken, don't fix it.

(May 3, 2015 04:34 PM)guycheap Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is a great idea. Thanks for the opportunity, I've always had a great idea to make a group related to just servers. Echo is a great way to work that, HF has yet to see a dedicated " server " group, by this I mean Webservers, Gameservers, VPNs, Debugging programs etc. on external machines. I have some great ideas such as monthly server awards, we can have a shared server where users are free to experiment whatever they like, we will be able to fund this through various ways including through my personal wallet as I hope.

This idea for starters would be one of a kind, I won't plan on giving you previous experience bullshit because frankly that won't get me anywhere, experience is always nice but everyone has to start somewhere for experience, I'm hoping this can be my experience. Once again this as far as I know has not been done before on HF and we have many server enthusiasts who have the same passion as me that could also use this as a way to gain experience and show others what they can do.

I'm really hoping I can get a chance for this I can elaborate more over PM if you like. Thanks again for the chance and best wishes as well as luck to everyone :).

Just updated my application as promised. Thanks.

Truth is nobody has what it takes to be a leader. Most people, if not all people who applied here are only in a quest to quench their thirst for power and to heighten their e-peen. It's not about what you have, it's about what you can drive people to do that matters-- at least, in my opinion.

I would love to be considered for this. I have many plans and ideas on how to make the group run successfully and that benefits its owners, member and also makes the community appreciate the efforts of the group without giveaways. I would like to run a very tight group with people doing what they do, while each other helps them out. My recruitment phrase would include a chat on teamspeak or some alternative and I would only want those who strive to improve themselves and improve others around them.

Experience? Well leading a group on HF no but I was Staff and a group leader on BossForums while it was running and have worked as an events/entertainments manager for a very large corporate UK company.

If this sounds like the kind of thing you want in your group, I look forward to chatting some more. If it is not what your looking for then it probably isnt what i am looking for either so no hard feelings..

Knowing your strengths, is knowing your weaknesses.

My direction would be collaboration, bringing the best people to work together to produce the best results.

Maybe Arrow could consider the league of assassins as a group ;)

Since a young age I have been in a sporting atmosphere and ever since it has taught me the best ways to deal with situations, where or not to use positive or negative reinforcement. Now that I've grown up In this atmosphere it has give me chance to flourish as a coach, leader and as a person. You may say that you can't compare leading a HackForums groups to being a coach but what is there difference? Instead of kicking a ball we are clicking a mouse our decisions are made clear by the things we write such as in sport where your decisions are shown by the things you do. To be honest, I probably look after around the same age range when I'm coaching too, hahaha.

If people are gonna start saying 'I have more rep than you so i should be leader'. Firstly the should be considered less due to the arrogance that rep means they have an ability to manage anything other than kissing ass. Secondly look at the post/reputation ratio as there are many with 400 rep with 8,000 posts as someone with 350rep in 800 posts is better IMO.

I still hope you consider me for this position.

As for the comment about 26 year olds trying to make money from the group? Are you mad? most of the people using the groups to make money are those still in education and I personally do not think that someone older is more likely to use it for profit.

Likely the owner of this group will be another person in 6 groups and 12 awards and not 100% dedicated to the 1 group, this is the way it seems to work around here. Thats why the groups end up being the same general chat sub-forums "what movie do you like" threads and shit.... I hope it isn't the way on this project

The people making the decisions are the ones deciding so please stop vouching for friends - they dont care (I had this discussion regarding +Wolf a while ago)

Baysick - May 22, 2015, 2:38 am

Still living at my dorm, haven't seen them for half a year D:

I wouldn't mind taking a group in a new direction. You know me, and we have done business before. I can put money into the group for giveaways etc. I am very active, and have things planned for myself on HF. I have never ran a group but I have been in four now. I have a leader mentality and I think I will do nothing but improve the group.

#Skyline - May 22, 2015, 4:36 am

I think I have what it takes to be a leader.
Please get back to me on this.

Ventures - May 22, 2015, 11:00 pm

understalker rly needs 2 close this lal

YekiM - June 12, 2015, 6:31 am

I know that understalker isn't here, but I'm writing this down for future reference.

I think a white-hat related group will benefit the community - such as malware removal, analyzing and for training users up that want to be involved in such activities.

RSPS Owner - June 12, 2015, 3:19 pm

I believe I can be a big impact in the change of groups. I've ran multiple things before & gotten a successful rate and this group will be far different from any other. Nothing will be alike on or another group, this group will be different from the group up. I believe the saying "Actions speak louder than words" &, if allowed, I would definitely let my actions speak loudly and change the way groups are.

I've always wanted to run a group. I'm someone easy to get along with and fair. Been around these forums a long long time. Lurked most of the time but I've seen it all. I have the time to give and the drive to do it. I can keep order and manage growth. Have managed various other groups on other forums in the past. If you are interested in me running or just getting a general invite send me a PM. I'd love to work with you guys.

Red S?x - June 12, 2015, 3:58 pm

Realizm - June 12, 2015, 8:46 pm

Well the group has kind of gone to shit, I mean you guys are now getting desperate and running sectors. If you guys want help making a decent group, just let me know and I'll help out. I have multiple ideas for groups that most people on this forum would probably enjoy.

Are you mentally handicapped or just pretending? Sectors was just something to do, because we got bored of just lounging. Fuck off with your opinions and suggestions, and use them on titans so the group is less boring.

p.s this thread has been irrelevant for a long time, retards just keep bum.ping it without actually reading it. THIS IS NO LONGER UP FOR GRABS
