

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: World Unblock

Omniscient - May 7, 2015, 8:27 pm

I spoke a few months ago about adjustments to HF Country Blocks. One advantage of Sucuri is that they offer direct blocking of viewing as well as an option to block POST data.

This is the first time in about 8 years that I've unblocked everyone except of China, Russia, and North Korea.

Viewing statistics in the blocks I believe we blocked at least 40% of the traffic to HF.

In all honesty I don't expect the unblock to last. Any problems with an unblocked country is very likely going to place it back into the block list.

Please be aware that VPN's, Proxies and Datacenters are still blocked.

This is going to be a test of Sucuri and the new setup too. I'd like to see how this goes.

For now I'm sure many visitors who were previously blocked can rejoice. Even if temporarily.

Thank you.

Juicy - May 7, 2015, 8:28 pm

Well it's good that you are giving the unblock a try. I am just curious how it will turn out.

Charlemagne - May 7, 2015, 8:29 pm

Great news for the members who lived in those blocked countries! Do you think when the CF thing gets resolved you will add those countries back onto the list, or let them run free for a while?

Omniscient - May 7, 2015, 8:29 pm

Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

Ninetales. - May 7, 2015, 8:29 pm

Damn, definitely seems like quite the experiment.
Good luck with this, Omni.

Hexicidal - May 7, 2015, 8:30 pm

I have a feeling HF traffic is just going to explode.

Happeh - May 7, 2015, 8:30 pm

Wonder if we'll see a 40% increase of activity posting wise too or if it'll just bring more negative problems.

brian188246 - May 7, 2015, 8:30 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) low quality non-english replies, and scams. Was going to say this, hopefully not too much of it.

Juicy - May 7, 2015, 8:30 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

True, but on top of that you can expect to see a major increase in the income you receive, even if you are having to deal with those who will try to upgrade fraudulently.

53732 - May 7, 2015, 8:30 pm

Hopefully the block gets re-instated. The last thing we need is more of those annoying 1 or 2 post pump and dump accounts asking for free shit. Hopefully their English isn't broken. Maybe a few HQ member might join because of this, who knows?

Happeh - May 7, 2015, 8:31 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

Staff are going to have their work cut out for the next few days.

VodkaNik - May 7, 2015, 8:32 pm

Be sure not to approve any ISIS members for leet.

Prince™ - May 7, 2015, 8:33 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

Hopefully it doesn't happen and we get to have more traffic and quality people on HF. Thanks for giving it a try though Omni.

Shiroe - May 7, 2015, 8:33 pm

In bound LQ post incoming

Mi2414 - May 7, 2015, 8:35 pm

I hope the new traffic will bring HQ members and not LQ members..

Friendly HF User - May 7, 2015, 8:35 pm

Awesome idea, however this never affected me.

Omniscient - May 7, 2015, 8:36 pm

Quote:Wonder if we'll see a 40% increase of activity posting wise too or if it'll just bring more negative problems.

My bet is negative problems. But I'm giving it a shot anyways.

Quote:True, but on top of that you can expect to see a major increase in the income you receive I'd rather see sellers and service providers in the Marketplace make more money. This gives them more customers too.

Quote:Be sure not to approve any ISIS members for leet.

I'll have to add a checkbox on registration. ☐ Are you a member of ISIS?

Juicy - May 7, 2015, 8:37 pm

Is there a list somewhere of the countries that had currently been blocked?

And although there will be bad, I can see this potentially being a good thing for the community for the reasons you listed above.

Redwall - May 7, 2015, 8:37 pm

This sounds interesting.
Let the games begin.

'Cynical - May 7, 2015, 8:38 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:36 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My bet is negative problems. But I'm giving it a shot anyways.

I'd rather see sellers and service providers in the Marketplace make more money. This gives them more customers too.

I'll have to add a checkbox on registration. ☐ Are you a member of ISIS?
Captcha question and response.
"What Muslim extremist group are you not a member of?"
Anyone that says Al-Qaeda gets auto-IP block. ?

Anywho, really looking forward to more LQ half-english posts. ?

Sir - May 7, 2015, 8:51 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

Not to mention advertising spam.

Based on seeing some people that have been active users for a while going into countries which were originally blocked, the unblock is good for them.

But as you stated I wouldn't be surprised if the block list started piling up again.

Roger Waters - May 7, 2015, 8:52 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:51 PM)Starstruck Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not to mention advertising spam.

Based on seeing some people that have been active users for a while going into countries which were originally blocked, the unblock is good for them.

But as you stated I wouldn't be surprised if the block list started piling up again.

Advertising Spam won't be as effective if they can't post links.

Flaxpicker - May 7, 2015, 9:00 pm

Even though there might be a few negatives that come with this I feel like this would be a pretty good thing for HF...More traffic = more active marketplace

#sweg

BITW - May 7, 2015, 9:10 pm

This is atleast good news. Many thanks Omni

Sir - May 7, 2015, 9:42 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:52 PM)Roger Waters Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Advertising Spam won't be as effective if they can't post links.

True, but you know they still try in every way that they can lol.

Dmitriy - May 7, 2015, 9:44 pm

I'm wondering why Russia is on the block list, the reason behind it. Abusing the site, black hat activity or fraud/scams? No wonder my friends back there can't access it.

Windows95 - May 7, 2015, 9:44 pm

I dunno omni, most VPNs that didnt go through were on the block list.

'Cynical - May 7, 2015, 9:46 pm

(May 7, 2015 09:44 PM)ProgramLogic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I dunno omni, most VPNs that didnt go through were on the block list.

Last time I checked (a few months ago) RunAbove servers were able to get on HF..
Omniscient might wanna check that out.

Condoms - May 7, 2015, 9:46 pm

Hopefully no one will be asking me for condoms now. I hear people from other countries like sex alot.. .-.

But this may bring more business to you Omni. Never know. Just gotta watch the trustscan.

Magicmann - May 7, 2015, 9:47 pm

(May 7, 2015 09:46 PM)Condoms Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hopefully no one will be asking me for condoms now. I hear people from other countries like sex alot.. .-.

But this may bring more business to you Omni. Never know. Just gotta watch the trustscan.

Did people actually PM you asking for condoms?

JDCL - May 7, 2015, 9:47 pm

Seems like most of the communists are still blocked LOL. At least we wont have Chinese scammers on the forum with copy + paste English replies any time soon.

Tony Stark - May 7, 2015, 10:54 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

What I was thinking.

But oh well, it's fun to experiment.

Raijin - May 8, 2015, 1:43 am

HackForums might be the only forum I've been part of that's used country blocks.

Then again HF is a massive hacking discussion board.

Definitely going to attract a lot of new attention, good and bad.

Edit: hq members, scammers, talented hackers, law enforcement, etc

'An0ny - May 8, 2015, 4:41 am

Wow, this is a day to remember. Finally I can visit HackForums when I go on holiday in Albania :)

xVipX - May 8, 2015, 4:49 am thanx hf iam able to visit HF without use vpn from algeria iam happy :)

raxe - May 8, 2015, 4:49 am

(May 7, 2015 09:47 PM)Joclings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Seems like most of the communists are still blocked LOL. At least we wont have Chinese scammers on the forum with copy + paste English replies any time soon.

hi i am lawyer from united states

?

IpSiety - May 8, 2015, 5:55 am

Don't worry chinese people, some day you will be free.

Prince™ - May 8, 2015, 6:08 am

(May 8, 2015 05:55 AM)Elliot Rodger Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Don't worry chinese people, some day you will be free.

? Should never happen.

He B TeMy - May 8, 2015, 6:21 am

(May 8, 2015 06:08 AM)Prince™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ? Should never happen.

Not even the great firewall can save you

Prince™ - May 8, 2015, 6:28 am

(May 8, 2015 06:21 AM)He B TeMy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not even the great firewall can save you

Looks like Omni's country block is stronger than the great wall of china currently. ?

Levi - May 8, 2015, 7:00 am when can we expect to see our man kim jong-un as new hf staff

homm88 - May 8, 2015, 10:08 am

(Before I start, I'll mention that I too was one of the users from blocked countries that was unblocked just now.)

I really don't agree with such overzealous blocking measures.

I understand there may be cases where there's high amount of problematic users from a specific country, and it may make sense to block a country at that point... but in case of HF, it appeared as literally every other smaller country was blocked from it.

"Low quality users" is not a country specific thing. There's an equal share of immature kids from every country, so it can't be that.

You might claim "they speak English as a second language and use broken grammar", but under which arbitrary reasoning would you pick the countries you approve then?

Why would France be allowed, but Slovakia not?

Both of them are European countries that have do not have English as their main language, yet you want to block one but not the other?

Also, even if you do end up reinstating the country blocks - there should be at least an individual appeal/exception possibility. If there's a HQ user from a blocked country, you could just unblock a single IP to let them in. (if you're only motivated by money, make it an l33t/ub3r feature)

JDCL - May 8, 2015, 10:19 am

(May 8, 2015 10:08 AM)homm88 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) (Before I start, I'll mention that I too was one of the users from blocked countries that was unblocked just now.)

I really don't agree with such overzealous blocking measures.

I understand there may be cases where there's high amount of problematic users from a specific country, and it may make sense to block a country at that point... but in case of HF, it appeared as literally every other smaller country was blocked from it.

"Low quality users" is not a country specific thing. There's an equal share of immature kids from every country, so it can't be that.

You might claim "they speak English as a second language and use broken grammar", but under which arbitrary reasoning would you pick the countries you approve then?

Why would France be allowed, but Slovakia not?

Both of them are European countries that have do not have English as their main language, yet you want to block one but not the other?

Also, even if you do end up reinstating the country blocks - there should be at least an individual appeal/exception possibility. If there's a HQ user from a blocked country, you could just unblock a single IP to let them in. (if you're only motivated by money, make it an l33t/ub3r feature)

This is an experiment. Blocking multitudes of people is probably the best strategy for keeping this forum HQ. Have you ever thought about something called "Life isn't fair"? You should come to realization that this is doing you a favor. Instead of making a complaint, why don't you go out and do something for the community?

homm88 - May 8, 2015, 10:36 am

(May 8, 2015 10:19 AM)Joclings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is an experiment. Blocking multitudes of people is probably the best strategy for keeping this forum HQ. Have you ever thought about something called "Life isn't fair"? You should come to realization that this is doing you a favor. Instead of making a complaint, why don't you go out and do something for the community?

I'm not definitely complaining. The post is intended as constructive criticism.

"Have you ever thought about something called "Life isn't fair"?" It doesn't need to be fair to everyone. However, there is always room for improvement and if done right, these kind of changes could be beneficial for all parties involved.

"You should come to realization that this is doing you a favor." This isn't about me.

"Instead of making a complaint, why don't you go out and do something for the community?" This is not about me.

Besides, I do understand that majority of the users posting in this thread are already regular users who are either against the unblocks, or neutral on the topic since they are not directly affected.

I simply wanted to share a different point of view on this matter.

JDCL - May 8, 2015, 10:38 am

(May 8, 2015 10:36 AM)homm88 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm not definitely complaining. The post is intended as constructive criticism.

"Have you ever thought about something called "Life isn't fair"?" It doesn't need to be fair to everyone. However, there is always room for improvement and if done right, these kind of changes could be beneficial for all parties involved.

"You should come to realization that this is doing you a favor." This isn't about me.

"Instead of making a complaint, why don't you go out and do something for the community?" This is not about me.

Besides, I do understand that the majority of users are posting in this thread are already regular users who are either against the unblocks, or neutral on the topic since they are not directly affected.

I simply wanted to share a different point of view on this matter. Hack forums really doesn't need criticism. ?

"this isn't about me" really? You are representing a large amount of people that have been allowed to join the forum.

Raz3d - May 8, 2015, 10:42 am

A second chance is always nice. They just have 1 job now, not to fuck it up.

IpSiety - May 8, 2015, 11:15 am

(May 8, 2015 10:08 AM)homm88 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) (Before I start, I'll mention that I too was one of the users from blocked countries that was unblocked just now.)

I really don't agree with such overzealous blocking measures.

I understand there may be cases where there's high amount of problematic users from a specific country, and it may make sense to block a country at that point... but in case of HF, it appeared as literally every other smaller country was blocked from it.

"Low quality users" is not a country specific thing. There's an equal share of immature kids from every country, so it can't be that.

You might claim "they speak English as a second language and use broken grammar", but under which arbitrary reasoning would you pick the countries you approve then?

Why would France be allowed, but Slovakia not?

Both of them are European countries that have do not have English as their main language, yet you want to block one but not the other?

Also, even if you do end up reinstating the country blocks - there should be at least an individual appeal/exception possibility. If there's a HQ user from a blocked country, you could just unblock a single IP to let them in. (if you're only motivated by money, make it an l33t/ub3r feature)

> Equal share of immature kids in all a countries

Based on what are you making this ludicrous assumption. Some countries have a lot more spammers, advertisers, scammers because they are complete shit.

Kogan - May 8, 2015, 11:35 am

In my opinion this is excellent progress, Omniscient.

With this new update will see HF obtain a massive amount of traffic, we may see an increase in fraud (as you stated previously in the thread) but the risk vs reward is definitely worth it in this case with the projected traffic increase. HF should be available to everyone!

Great work as always.

ZuGgY - May 8, 2015, 11:36 am

Well, let's hope they can stay good and stuff in unblocked.

Thanks for the update.

Eternal. - May 8, 2015, 11:38 am

I am all for giving this a chance, and Sucuri is pretty sweet.

Nutar - May 8, 2015, 11:52 am

Well, for now, I won't have to pay for my VPN. Yay!

OT:

I hope this change will bring more activity to the forum (hopefully HQ).

Cynical - May 8, 2015, 2:35 pm

(May 8, 2015 10:38 AM)Joclings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hack forums really doesn't need criticism. ?

"this isn't about me" really? You are representing a large amount of people that have been allowed to join the forum.

Homm88 has very valid points and all of your come-backs are complete shit. Homm88 seems like a very HQ addition to the community, too, so sit your ass down and stop being so negative. If someone wants to spread their opinions, ideas, and feelings, let them do so; don't shit all over their parade. ;-;

Hexicidal - May 8, 2015, 3:16 pm

(May 8, 2015 10:38 AM)Joclings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hack forums really doesn't need criticism. ?

"this isn't about me" really? You are representing a large amount of people that have been allowed to join the forum.

"He has a right to criticize, who has a heart to help." - Lincoln

Omniscient - May 8, 2015, 3:25 pm

Quote:I really don't agree with such overzealous blocking measures.

Oh really?

Quote:"Low quality users" is not a country specific thing.

Actually...not true. Because if you're in a non-English speaking country the post quality is commonly very low. Countries with English as a second language are normally just fine. It's the ones with no English taught in schools that tend to really suck.

Quote:Why would France be allowed, but Slovakia not?

In France scammers actually get arrested. Half the problem is scammers and fraudulent upgrade payments. If the residing country is practically lawless when it comes to computer crime it tends to cause HF problems. They want to post about carding. They make upgrades with fake or stolen PPs. They don't care about scamming even $20 then opening a new account to do it again.

Quote:Also, even if you do end up reinstating the country blocks

I'm pretty sure they will be reinstated over time.

Quote:If there's a HQ user from a blocked country, you could just unblock a single IP to let them in. Not how firewalling works. If I block Slovakia then whitelist an IP that IP can penetrate through security measures because it is indeed whitelisted. So I will not whitelist members past security.

Quote:(if you're only motivated by money, make it an l33t/ub3r feature)

I'm not only motivated by money. So that's why I end up blocking half our traffic. I care more about my site quality.

btw homm88, you're in a country where I have had repeated problems with fraudulent payments by ban evading scammers. Fact is that if I'm getting reversals for upgrades then I know they are also ripping off the community in the Marketplace.

Gary - May 8, 2015, 3:34 pm

Well, you made it so certain countries can't pay with PayPal. Why not just make the countries you unblocked pay with BTC?

Omniscient - May 8, 2015, 3:35 pm

(May 8, 2015 03:34 PM)Gary. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well, you made it so certain countries can't pay with PayPal. Why not just make the countries you unblocked pay with BTC?

That is how it is now. The only reason I'm even remotely comfortable doing this.

Emoticon - May 8, 2015, 3:45 pm

(May 7, 2015 08:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably have an increase in ban evaders, fraud upgrade attempts, low quality non-english replies, and scams.

Could you disallow access to marketplace in certain countries and force members in those countries to pass some kind of verification with personal information before being allowed to make sales threads or post in the marketplace in general?

I feel like that'd be a good option to resolve some of the scammers.

EDIT: Even better, put a warning in the new trust scan that the member is from a higher-risk country. Then it's up to the people to decide how much to trust the individual.

On the other hand I don't see any way to more effectively prevent ban evasion.

Magicmann - May 8, 2015, 3:47 pm

(May 8, 2015 03:45 PM)Xerucide Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Could you disallow access to marketplace in certain countries and force members in those countries to pass some kind of verification with personal information before being allowed to make sales threads or post in the marketplace in general?

I feel like that'd be a good option to resolve some of the scammers.

On the other hand I don't see any way to more effectively prevent ban evasion.

The issue with that is it means more work for the staff, and would in some form imply that they are "HF Approved," and its been said time and time again that no changes will be made that even imply that a seller is vouched for by HF officially.

Omniscient - May 8, 2015, 3:48 pm

Quote:Could you disallow access to marketplace in certain countries and force members in those countries to pass some kind of verification with personal information before being allowed to make sales threads or post in the marketplace in general?

Yes, I could definitely be more creative with a plugin. We do have the Trust Scan which should also help members.

Unsure how happy members would be though being blocked access to part of the forum, an important part, by country. So let's say they get l33t. Do I still block them? What's the point of them upgrading then? And if they can bypass the block to Marketplace by upgrading then what's the point of blocking?

Emoticon - May 8, 2015, 3:49 pm

(May 8, 2015 03:47 PM)Magicmann Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The issue with that is it means more work for the staff, and would in some form imply that they are "HF Approved," and its been said time and time again that no changes will be made that even imply that a seller is vouched for by HF officially.

It wouldn't display to people that they were allowed in marketplace, they just wouldn't be able to post without the manual verification.

It would cause more staff work, probably even more work for Omni himself, but it would also increase marketplace activity and increase the amount of (legitimate) transactions in the marketplace.

(May 8, 2015 03:48 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, I could definitely be more creative with a plugin. We do have the Trust Scan which should also help members.

Unsure how happy members would be though being blocked access to part of the forum, an important part, by country. So let's say they get l33t. Do I still block them? What's the point of them upgrading then? And if they can bypass the block to Marketplace by upgrading then what's the point of blocking?

I feel like, while it'd cause more threads "PLZ UNBLOCK MARKETPLAIZ" and such, the majority would understand that it's to protect the community. Some of those countries have no form of enforcement for online fraud activities, so they can't really argue against that.

IpSiety - May 8, 2015, 5:55 pm

(May 8, 2015 11:35 AM)Kogan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) In my opinion this is excellent progress, Omniscient.

With this new update will see HF obtain a massive amount of traffic, we may see an increase in fraud (as you stated previously in the thread) but the risk vs reward is definitely worth it in this case with the projected traffic increase. HF should be available to everyone!

Great work as always.

You're one hell of a risk taker ?

Emily Brontë - May 8, 2015, 5:59 pm

Good luck with this, glad that those who were previously blocked have a chance to join up now

EziNet - May 8, 2015, 10:24 pm

Glad I'm not part of China, Russia, or North Korea :D

Canon - May 8, 2015, 11:41 pm

Why block North Korea? Do they even have internet there ;D Well this doesn't affect me in any way but thanks!

Stapleton - May 9, 2015, 1:37 am

Great news Omni. I can finally use Opera Mini again.

Datageni - May 9, 2015, 6:48 am

Aslong it doesn't affect me ?

Thanks for the heads up, Omni.

Vandie - May 9, 2015, 6:54 am

Wait, I had no idea that North Korea could even access the greater Internet, never-mind HF...

xyre - May 9, 2015, 8:22 am

(May 8, 2015 10:08 AM)homm88 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) (Before I start, I'll mention that I too was one of the users from blocked countries that was unblocked just now.)

I really don't agree with such overzealous blocking measures.

I understand there may be cases where there's high amount of problematic users from a specific country, and it may make sense to block a country at that point... but in case of HF, it appeared as literally every other smaller country was blocked from it.

"Low quality users" is not a country specific thing. There's an equal share of immature kids from every country, so it can't be that.

You might claim "they speak English as a second language and use broken grammar", but under which arbitrary reasoning would you pick the countries you approve then?

Why would France be allowed, but Slovakia not?

Both of them are European countries that have do not have English as their main language, yet you want to block one but not the other?

Also, even if you do end up reinstating the country blocks - there should be at least an individual appeal/exception possibility. If there's a HQ user from a blocked country, you could just unblock a single IP to let them in. (if you're only motivated by money, make it an l33t/ub3r feature)
Completely agree, there must be another way besides blocking whole countries.

Omniscient - May 9, 2015, 12:29 pm

Quote:Completely agree, there must be another way besides blocking whole countries.
Nothing that's as easy to implement and incredibly effective using low amount of resources.

Fact is that many of the countries around the world offer HF almost nothing in terms of quality. It's like opening a high-end jewelry store in the middle of the ghetto. All you do is risk getting robbed while you pay employees and add extra security measures. You also just don't make a lot of sales in ghetto.

Sir - May 9, 2015, 1:03 pm

(May 9, 2015 12:29 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nothing that's as easy to implement and incredibly effective using low amount of resources.

Fact is that many of the countries around the world offer HF almost nothing in terms of quality. It's like opening a high-end jewelry store in the middle of the ghetto. All you do is risk getting robbed while you pay employees and add extra security measures. You also just don't make a lot of sales in ghetto.

Unless 2Chainz or Rick Ross roll up into your store amirite?

Spoiler \(Click to View\)my jokes suck

JDCL - May 9, 2015, 6:16 pm

(May 9, 2015 01:03 PM)Starstruck Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Unless 2Chainz or Rick Ross roll up into your store amirite?

Spoiler \(Click to View\)my jokes suckLmfao. ? I cant breathe.

prada ? - May 9, 2015, 6:25 pm

(May 9, 2015 06:16 PM)Joclings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lmfao. ? I cant breathe.
Here you go:

<http://www.wikihow.com/Breathe>

JDCL - May 9, 2015, 6:41 pm

(May 9, 2015 06:25 PM)Prada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here you go:

<http://www.wikihow.com/Breathe>

Lol i think someone would be dead by the time they read that whole thing.

SIM-888979 - May 10, 2015, 7:06 am

Yay, I'm finally able to access HF without a bloody VPN.

Thanks, Omniscient.

Agitator - May 10, 2015, 7:57 am

(May 10, 2015 07:06 AM)Aurora Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yay, I'm finally able to access HF without a bloody VPN.

Thanks, Omniscient.

Aurororrorrorrorrorrorrorora why are you always so savage

Azog - May 13, 2015, 10:55 am

Thanks so much bro. I just rejoined it. I'm from Pakistan.

Blazin - May 13, 2015, 2:01 pm

I like that you unblocked so many different places.

Jazzy_Smazzy - May 13, 2015, 8:30 pm

This is something risky you are planning to do here... Good luck. Lets hope it lasts.

R?DSPY - May 14, 2015, 5:47 pm

You should unblock North Korea. Kim jong needs to know how to be a leet hacker.

z e r o - May 14, 2015, 5:57 pm

(May 14, 2015 05:47 PM)R?DSPY Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You should unblock North Korea. Kim jong needs to know how to be a leet hacker.

He's already the L33test hacker ever. The Interview hack was pretty l33t.