

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: L33T & Ub3r Username Color

Realizm - May 9, 2015, 9:39 am

I see a lot of members complain about their name color when they buy an upgrade. And unless they join a usergroup, they have to either be the yellow or blue color. What if there was an option to change your username to white in UserCP's profile options? Just a drop down or a check mark thing where you can pick either the upgrade color or white. I've never liked the ability to change your name color on other forums and their online list looks like a package of skittles. But we already have white as a username color so I don't find it a big deal.

Serion - May 9, 2015, 9:40 am

Doesn't really matter in my opinion. But I guess this would be something for people who can't stand green or blue.

Oliver Sykes - May 9, 2015, 9:40 am

(May 9, 2015 09:39 AM)Realizm Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I see a lot of members complain about their name color when they buy an upgrade. And unless they join a usergroup, they have to either be the yellow or blue color. What if there was an option to change your username to white in UserCP's profile options? Just a drop down or a check mark thing where you can pick either the upgrade color or white. I've never liked the ability to change your name color on other forums and their online list looks like a package of skittles. But we already have white as a username color so I don't find it a big deal.

I second this. I found the Ub3r color so out of place, and the white from when I was in Polymath just looked so much better imo. (Could just be because I was l33t for around a year)

Maxi - May 9, 2015, 9:41 am

I'd love this. I don't like my blue name =(

Fr?sh - May 9, 2015, 9:41 am

this would be cool. but you can always buy 3p1c to get the white username

i joined a group so my name wouldnt be green because green is me least favorite color jooglord - May 9, 2015, 9:41 am

To me, it's not a big deal at all. If you find someone complaining about the color of their name, HF is not the forum for them.

Realizm - May 9, 2015, 9:41 am

(May 9, 2015 09:40 AM)Serion Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Doesn't really matter in my opinion. But I guess this would be something for people who can't stand green or blue.

It's just one of those useless features that would make a few more upgraded members happy. And for normal members who want to upgrade but not be forced to have the username color change it'd be nice.

Raz3d - May 9, 2015, 9:43 am

I like how it is now, I don't feel like this has to be changed.

Foundatons - May 9, 2015, 9:44 am

Don't buy an upgrade then if you really want a white username.

Realizm - May 9, 2015, 9:44 am

(May 9, 2015 09:41 AM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't like this idea, you purchase upgrades which give you the default username color. If you want a white username you would wear a group userbar or even purchase the ep1c upgrade.

I'm a tad color blind so the regular member color and group color are almost identical to me. I meant the regular member color not the group color I guess? Doesn't matter to me.

S corpion - May 9, 2015, 9:46 am

It's ok But It'd be cool if we could have green/Blue names while still using a group userbar.

So we could select to have blue name while in our custom groups :)

Oliver Sykes - May 9, 2015, 9:46 am

(May 9, 2015 09:44 AM)Realizm Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm a tad color blind so the regular member color and group color are almost identical to me. I meant the regular member color not the group color I guess? Doesn't matter to me.

They're both white; the ep1c/group is bold though, right?

Realizm - May 9, 2015, 9:47 am

(May 9, 2015 09:44 AM)Foundations Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Don't buy an upgrade then if you really want a white username.

People upgrade for features and more abilities around the forum. This is just another feature that could make a few upgraded members happy. If you don't want to use the feature you don't have to. But the only reasons I could see for not having this is Omni doesn't have time to implement this or doesn't want members to have the option to do this.

Prince™ - May 9, 2015, 9:47 am

Would like it. No big deal though. Users like me can just switch between default usergroups(Ub3r to 3p1c or vice versa) to change the color. ;) Unless if I want my name in blue while wearing the 3p1c userbar and white while wearing the Ub3r userbar.

Time? - May 9, 2015, 9:48 am

I'd love this to be honest. The blue just isn't very appealing in my opinion.

Realizm - May 9, 2015, 9:48 am

(May 9, 2015 09:46 AM)Oliver Sykes Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They're both white; the ep1c/group is bold though, right?

Idk it just looks a little more shiney to me ?

Realizm - May 9, 2015, 9:52 am

(May 9, 2015 09:49 AM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think Omni changed the colors of normal members when he was playing about with the theme. But a lot of members complained due to the multiple colors, it got slightly confusing.

Everything is fine the way it is. HF is unique, so changing colors of default members could ruin the nostalgia.

It's just the upgraded members changing their name color back to regular member or group color. Whatever works is fine with me I'll never use this feature. I just notice a lot of people disliking their username color and stuff and I feel like if this was an option more people may upgrade.

Charlemagne - May 9, 2015, 9:57 am

I certainly would not like this. I like the blue color, but I can understand why other users would want this to be changed.

Projec7 - May 9, 2015, 9:58 am

(May 9, 2015 09:57 AM)Charlemagne Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I certainly would not like this. I like the blue color, but I can understand why other users would want this to be changed.

Not like it's going to be changed, but an option to give us upgraded members. ?

Paathurnax - May 9, 2015, 10:04 am

Honestly I find the blue colour of Ub3r to be pretty nice. It fits in well with the purple theme. However the L33t colour doesn't at all. So maybe it would be a good idea.

White always looks good when you're in a group.

Auxil - May 9, 2015, 10:12 am

I think the color changes are just another thing for people to strive for when applying for groups / upgrades. I really hated the "no-upgrade" white, so I got L33T. (I also wanted the L33T benefits).

I got tired of the L33T color and benefits, so I got 3P1C. Currently I am quite happy with the bolded white, and I don't see any dramatic benefit changes, but the userbar is nice, and so are the colors.

I don't think we should have the option to change our usernames color. I like everything the way it is. Keeps everyone unified, but separated at the same time.

Realizm - May 13, 2015, 10:16 am

The only thing with people saying "switch between userbars" is that not everybody likes the Orange of 3P1C or the yellow/green of L33T or the blue of Ub3r. But some people do. So you can wear the userbar you want and still have your username color white or default to the userbar. And the best part is... HF's Online list doesn't become a rainbow because white is already used for a username color.

Omniscient - May 13, 2015, 12:11 pm

This won't happen. Sorry.