As a CSGO player who enjoys the game playing legit and talking with people also playing legit and not hacking, I went to the CS section in hope to find some legit people to talk to.

But if you go there you will see that probably more than 50% of the threads are regarding hacks. So my suggestion is to introduce another sub-forum(?) like the Lobby thing already there.

How about a general video game hacking section instead?

Another reason to why such a section will not be successful is due to the fact members would just spam post threads requesting free hacks, which will make the section lack quality overall.

This goes the same for every individual gaming section, such as League of Legends and GTA. Have you been in the counter strike section?

A hacking/cheating section would be great because the cs section is flooded with cheat providers and people asking about cheats.

Lol CS section would die except for the sub cheat and lobby
