I thought SpK was some multi-millionaire based on his threads, then he sells a gambling bot for .5 BTC and fakes the proof to get sales.

Why'd he sell a bot which makes you money in the first place?

And why'd he do it if he's (allegedly) this multi-millionaire, who seemingly doesn't need money? So many questions...

Would you stop earning money once you reached a "millionaire" status? or would you keep earning more to reach a larger amount and get closer to that "billionaire" status?

Shitty thing to do at the end of the day but he is man enough to accept that he got caught and refund the buyers.

Good on you, many people in that situation would have done the exact opposite.

I'd definitely not be selling a (non-?)working bot to people on HF in order to grow my money, In factt, I'd most likely have a list of business ventures in which I could invest my money. By the way, you forgot(?) to factor in that SpK is still earning money semi-autopilot (if that's true).

Also, SpK posted a thread where he's earning 'big bucks' with stocks/binaries/options on Plus500, why would he waste his time for pennies on HF if he could invest it in that? Doesn't seem logical to me.

PS: This post is written in a totally non-offending way, it just is very illogical for me to comprehend why a millionaire would sell a (non-?)working bot for 'pennies'.

Let's dumb it down to something your incapable mind can comprehend.

Example taking RuneScape '07 (no multiple accounts allowed):

You just made 100 million by selling White Berries. Now that you've got the 100 mill, you want to grow it to 1 billion. You've got several options to choose from:

- Pick cabbage and sell for 10gp/K
- Kill cows for their cowhide and sell for 300gp each or w/e they used to sell for.
- Invest your money into buying certain items low and selling high. It is estimated that you'll make about a mill/day with this method.

Now this can be compared to SpK's situation. What he's doing is picking cabbage while he's got the money (IF and only IF that's true) to invest into stocks/binaries or whatever. He can start a franchise. He can start a clothing shop. He can start or take over practically ANYTHING (realistic) with the money he has, but no. He has to sell a (non-?)working gambler bot for pennies, and lie about the bot. Post fake earnings. Does that seem logical to you?

People like you... I've got nothing positive to say.

Oh so you mean when you have money your only option to make more money is to invest, not by taking what you know already and making money off it with no investment and little work.

Oh ok yeah that makes sense.

You're basically saying that he knows how to make fake programs and make money off it by scamming members who trust him because he's apparently wealthy and posted fake proof. And your logic is flawed because SEEMINGLY he definitely knows how to make money by CFD trading (16K in 24 hours), but rather posts useless programs on HF with fake payment proof to scam our members for .5BTC. Yes sure, why not.

As I said, investing is ONE of the many options he has being a millionaire.

Also, is being autistic meant to be some sort of insult? You do realize that autistic people can become more than good programmers/developers, and are being paid top-dollar for their services? There's a bunch of them who currently have more on their bank than you'll ever accumulate in that pathetic excuse of a life of yours.

Yes one of many options, another option can be his sale of his bot that he developed, that does work. He didn't scam anyone, he propped up some images to better market his product, Something many people on HF do.

Nah, a lot of people made profit but went crazy with their earnings at the end. With gambling you have to be smart about when to stop, with or without a bot.

En1gma - May 16, 2015, 7:10 pm

Firstly the bot did work for me at first and I made some nice profit. However I didn't cash out and bot seemed to go on a losing streak multiple times and I lost it all. This is partly my fault for not cashing out. I can still see how the bot will work and may test it with other settings in future.

Spk has sent me a full refund via paypal.

Of course, if 10 of the guys all went for 100% profit before stopping then yeah a lot of people would make profit, in fact a whole 49.8% of the people would make profit. (Presuming you used best possible strategy.)

Again, since the bot works, why did you bother to fake bot earnings? Couldn't you just had let it ran yourself and not used inspect element, and posted real proof?

Edit: Do you think that's weird that they went crazy with their earnings in the end, when they thought you 80x'ed your 0.1 BTC and told them you'd keep the bot running continuously and make a blockchain for it and update people daily on profit?
