There is no way to buy Bitcoin instantly using PayPal as a payment processor. I would recommend that you take a look in the Currency Exchange section but I doubt anyone would deal with you because you are a new user.

I have 2 questions:

1-Is there a website to invest some BTC (small amounts under 50$) and get profit without having to go in the cloud hash and pools cycle? something like an easy solution with profit (I know it'll be small) but in the lazy way, like invest and forget for a month.

2-When running omnicoind I found something called "accounts" what exactly are those? how do they work? and if moving money from one to another, does it count like normal transaction and pay fees for it??

Thanks in advance.

First of all, gambling and sports betting are different.

And I've been sports betting from a long while.

You're just a nobody, I have no idea why but you have been trying to pick a fight with me for a long time now.

Sorry for being offtopic but you think everyone's scared of you because you have the blackhatter award but please, you are nothing. You are both right in a sense, many feel gambling despite having a strategy is luck and making money is not in your hands after a bet. However I agree with grim, sprits is different because it is also based on knowledge, like stocks to make money you need to educate, and like stocks there is still a chance you can bust, of course busting on sports is higher loss but larger return.

Any issues you may have with Aaron, true or not, should not be reflected on the rest of the group and this thread. I am personally with crypto to help the general community, and I don't appreciate your constant hate and slander against the support thread and the rest of the group. I have no problem if you dislike crypto and its members, however when you "warn" users from using this free service I don't feel you are bringing any contributions to the crypto currency community on HackForums in general.

I am personally with crypto to help the general community, and I don't appreciate your constant hate and slander against the support thread and the rest of the group. Like it or not, when a leader of a group does something like that it reflects on the whole group.

If I can add to what you were told earlier, it is actually possible to buy bitcoin through Paypal instantly, although it isn't completely direct. WeSellCrypto allows you to buy altcoins (such as dogecoin and dash) instantly via paypal, and these can be easily converted to bitcoin, even for inexperienced users, by using Shapeshift.io. The only drawback is that WeSellCrypto requires that you either have a verified paypal, or that you contact them via email beforehand and manually request verification. (Details on that can be found here) Obviously this isn't completely practical, but it can come in handy in a pinch if you have no other option.

Another thing worth noting is that if you would like to use purse.io, as suggested by Canary, you can use Gyft to buy Amazon giftcards instantly with Paypal.

Let me know if you find this useful, or if you need more specific details.
