Thread: Epik- and G-Eazy \(UID 2522837 and 2650616\) trying to take advantage of refunds

SpK - May 19, 2015, 6:05 am

I started getting suspicious when the user Epik- sends me a fake payment he has sent to a wallet address that is not mine:

Spoiler (Click to View)

So I leave him a negative -3 saying "trying to get a refund for something he did not buy". Then he +3 me and says "unignore me we need to talk".

After I unignore him, he sends me this:

Spoiler (Click to View)

Apparently this guy has been taking advantage of the refund situation and got himself a $132 for free:

Watch out for them, they will do anything for money.

I was selling the Satoshi Mines bot that was working as intended but people went crazy with it and gambled all their money away. I felt bad that I was in a good position, and people spent all their money on gambling so the only right thing to do was refund everybody. Humans disappoint me every day though.

You didn't need to do this. It's nice you did, but people need to assume risks.

It's their choice to gamble though. That's literally like going into a casino IRL, losing $100 and asking the casino owner for your money back because you lost.

The product didn't work.. You used fake proof in your thread. Hence a fraudulent product. You stated you would refund me via private message. Stick to your word. I sent you payment proof and everything.

People are so stupid like I don't understand the stupidity to be honest.

It's gambling using a bot or not it's still fucking gambling. These kids thought it was pay 0.5 BTC then start making easy bank. If someone had some sort of exploit they wouldn't sell it and if they did you must be out of your 12 year old fucking mind that they would sell it under a couple thousand dollars. Jesus if you're gambling use your head for a bit.

I feel bad that you started refunding these kids.

You sell a bot on a forum yet brag about your $400K a month income.

Well the point is you were false advertising by inspect elementing your proof of the bot working.

Kind of ironic that you can't trust a soul when you are lying to make sales ?

EDIT: But OT, Epik is legit retarded to try to defend himself and thinking screenshots of him being hesitant makes him less guilty

I'm trying let people know that I didn't do it on my own sole accord. I know I'm not innocent, what I've done was what I've done.

No, you are trying to bring someone under the bus with you so it will appear that you were manipulated into doing something you really didn't want to. But sorry to break it to you, there was no real manipulation because you were too hungry for money and you made your choice to try to abuse members offering refunds.

At the end of the day, yes it was on your sole accord

You're right about that partially, but I would never think about lying to a HF member or scamming anyone in that case, until G Eazyy offered me a way to make money. I ended up doing it and I knew I shouldn't. I regretted it the moment I sent the fake screenshot to SpK.

If your motive is money, then you can't say you would never think about trying to scam someone on HF did when you tried and failed lol. If you truly never wanted to scam someone on HF then you would never try to do this in the first place...
