Going to get back into Graphics, and this is the first I have done in MONTHS.

Be nice, but I do enjoy some constructive criticism!

Got the idea from another persons work, thanks Prada? for finding it.

Seen his piece about a week ago, tried to create what I remembered.. turns out I remembered alot of it lol.

Original piece was created by the following two members of behance:

Nice work mate,

Did you make this all by yourself?

Yessir, used Illustrator, Photoshop and InkScape (Free Program ._.)

Got the idea from another designer I'd seen earlier in the week.

Thanks ^^

Literally the post above you says I got the idea from another persons work?

I remembered it and created it.

Didn't think it was as similar as that.. shit lol.

They're both basically the same thing, have some originality.

I have plenty of originality.

I was getting back into it, it was just practice lol.
Chill out

Although the idea might not be yours, your stuff still looks great.

I like the way the colors look. Less saturated than the original, if that's the right terminology.
The foreground also fits way better in the background, which is probably because of the fact that the outer ring has the same color as the rest of the background.

Can't really give any criticism on this piece. It has a good color scheme, the right size.

I'd like to see some other work like this.
