Archive Member Agreement Wrote:I, Realizm, agree that I may not open other member's Student Program Training Threads. Nor will I discuss the contents of my, or other members, SPT questions with anyone. By breaking these rules, or other rules set by group leaders, will result in my removal from Archive and a permanent blacklist.

Why you joined Archive?

I joined to contribute and see what the group had to offer. I knew xadamxk would do something with the group to really try and contribute to HF and I wanted to be apart of that.

How you feel about learning site policy?

I'm fine with learning more about the site policies. The more I know the better.

How much you already know about site policy?

I feel like I know most of the HF's policies fairly well, though if I am ever confused or forget something then I look it up.

Realizm - May 30, 2015, 11:51 pm

Hahaha yeah I just noticed that we have quite a few Writers in here as well xD

Yes I understand the rules and feel very comfortable using those resources, but are we allowed to use other sources such as the Help Docs? Even though some of it is fairly out dated, a lot can at least be taken from it and is more "official" than a non-authority member's thread such as an Ub3r

Oh sorry I was camping this weekend and was only on my phone. I recognized the threads except for this one but wasn't sure if it was just my phone not loading the page or something with bad service lol.

Everything you need to know about Hack Forums

^Not working and I realize why now that I quoted your post xD

I will be sure to answer all of the questions on my computer from now on and point out anything I find wrong or ask questions as I come across things ?

Quick Link: All Help Documents

If you navigate to the top of the page, under the forum logo (banner), you'll find a link called "Extras."

Example \(Click to View\)

Once you click the link you'll be brought to a page, click on the All Help link and you'll be brought to all of the Help Documents.

Question 3

What is a user title on Hack Forums?

How do I edit mine, under what conditions?

And what are the default user titles?

I know but you said make it like we were actually helping somebody lol. I can either let you keep the training wheels, or help you to take them off ?

What is a user title on Hack Forums?

A user title is a title under your username that you can see on every post. Upgraded members can change this user title to anything that fits within the Hack Forums guidelines/rules/regulations/policies.

Example (Click to View)

How do I edit mine, and under what conditions?

Only upgraded members can edit their user titles. You can learn more about upgrades here and here.

If you are upgraded, then you can follow these quick and simple steps to edit your user title.

Example (Click to View)

Scroll down and click on "Edit Profile" as shown in the example below.

Example (Click to View)

On the right hand side of your screen you can fill in a blank space with any user title you desire.

Example (Click to View)

Remember to click "Update Profile" at the bottom of the page when you are done or the changes will not be saved.

What are the default user titles?

- [nobody@HF:] - 0 posts = It's literally a guest account. The group itself is not in any privilege
- [user@HF:] - 50 posts = Regular user with basic permissions such as read, write, and execute.
- [bin@HF:] - 250 posts = It's basically a symbolic link or also known as "symlink" or "shortcut".
- [www@HF:] - 1000 posts = It's a symbolic link which is short for "world wide web".
- [bind@HF:] - 2500 posts = Bind is a shortcut for Berkeley Internet Name Daemon and is used when implementing the DNS (domain name service) protocols.
- [ssh@HF:] - 5000 posts = SSH stands for "Secure Shell"
- [root@HF:] - 10000 posts = root is equal to UID 0 aka super user.
- [gawd@HF:] - 25000 posts = /dev/null
- [exiled@HF:] - Banned

Realizm - May 31, 2015, 10:28 pm

Oh okay, and wow that really sucks :/

But no I haven't looked at any threads. I did however think that your Omni appreciation thread was nice... Titans plan was the same thing but you said to wait cause you were gonna do something xD

Realizm - June 1, 2015, 8:25 pm

Thank you bud! And don't hate on me if the colors are a little off as I'm color blind ?

The user ranks go in order from top to bottom with "Normal Members" being the lowest rank and "Admin" being the highest rank. Normal Members

Also, 3p1c should be orange, because they can't be white xD

Question 5

What do the following terms (relating to HF) stand for/ mean?"OP"

"RF"

"PM"

"PP"

"SRPP"

Oh, yeah I was going by the username color xD Hahaha yeah... I mean not horribly, but colors definitely mix for me and certain shades of colors look the same like black and a darkish purple lol.

OP Description:OP, short for 'Original Post', is the first post on a thread. It will always be marked as #1 in the top right hand corner of the post.

Example (Click to View)

RF Description:RF, short for 'Repfuck', is when an Admin member removes all positive reputation from your profile leaving only the neutral and negative reputations.

PM Description:PM, short for 'Private Message', is a messaging system built in to Hackforums. The system is very similar to emails, but on-site so nobody ever has to know your private contact information.

PP Description:PP, short for 'PayPal', is an online transaction handler. You may link your credit/debit card and/or bank account to your personal PayPal account in order to buy and sell things online.

SRPP Description:SRPP, short for the Science, Religion, Philosophy, and Politics forum. In this forum, you can discuss any of the four things listed in it's name. Debates often take place in this section.

Prestige is a statistical number created by a mathematical formula based on your member stats. An exact formula is still unknown and has yet to be released. Though if you are interested, the user xadamxk has created a thread solely dedicated to finding the formula and has gotten the calculations down to a maximum of 3 numbers off from your actual prestige. You can find the thread by clicking here.

Realizm - June 3, 2015, 8:15 pm

Oh my bad, that's an official quote from it lol. I didn't even think to link it and idk why either...

Members can go to the Buy Awards page to donate for an award. Simply follow the steps provided and you will receive your new award automatically once the payment has been confirmed. You can read more about awards and donating for them in the Help Documents located here.

If a member wishes to privately donate with nothing in return, they must send a private message to Omniscient.

Realizm - June 3, 2015, 10:32 pm

I try going to it and it just shows up as a 404 error page. I thought it had been removed... maybe I need to delete my cookies.

EDIT: Yeah, it's working now Imfao. And just when I thought I was on a role for doing good lol ???

How many posts until a thread is 'hot'?

A thread is considered a 'Hot Thread' once it receives 100 or more posts.

How many posts until a thread auto-closes?

Threads do not auto-close. Omni will not add this feature as there could be tutorials, helpful threads, etc.

(Jun 5, 2015 10:28 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Actually, he did implement it.

There is a plugin that will kick in when a thread hits 2,000 posts ?

Damn! Is there a link anywhere so I will know for the future? I tried searching Omni's threads a little but thought it to be better to use the search function on the RANF section and Suggestions section so I searched for "closed" "close" "close post" and "close thread" but that's all I got lol. Thought it might've been a trick question, especially with the stats page having a 5.2k post thread and several 4k+ post threads lol. But then I remembered seeing vDos' thread (I'm friends with Red Sox who helps run the stresser) and I remember how they've had old threads. I looked and almost thought about saying 2k posts since their thread was closed at about 2k posts and what marketer wants to start a new thread when they can use such a reputable one lol.

Realizm - June 6, 2015, 11:21 am

Lol wow... I can't believe I didn't find that xD

Hey this week is Titans Event and on top of that, lobstering is just kicking in so I'm extremely busy this week. I'm going to try and keep up with the questions and I'll answer that as soon as I can, but if I am gone for most of this week then that's why. Oh and I have my summer courses I'm taking as well.

I'll try to post my answer to the latest question tonight after I finish my homework :)

Realizm - June 16, 2015, 4:39 pm

Members can use the [Help] (remove spaces) tag to reference the Help Documents.

Realizm - June 22, 2015, 8:35 am

Yeah I should be able to keep up with any easy questions. I'm going to be using HF as a distraction which has worked out pretty good so far. Did you want me to start on the game show project? I know you said to count the Carnival as my project but I can do the game show fairly easily. Or at least set it up.
