Thread: How can I increase my Youtube revenue?

FractumSeraph - June 3, 2015, 4:33 pm

So today I was looking at my Youtube channel and decided to look at some of the statistics. Basically in one year I've made $20. I'm by no means complaining, because getting $20 for maybe ten or so videos that are actually worth watching isn't bad at all. I'm just wondering if there is any way I could increase this, or if there is something I'm not doing correctly.

Basically I just make various videos, mainly based around hacking and security, then upload them with a few tags. Nearly all of my traffic comes from either here, or from "Related content" from other videos.

I mean, if you don't have partnership already, go get partnership. They rise your revenue and make you more visible on youtube.

Nothing much other to do.

The biggest issue it seems is your view count. You are getting just $1.67 per 1k views or so, which isn't terrible for a very general topic. The more views you can accumulate, the more of a domino effect you can achieve.

I'm wondering if my "Bad standing" has much effect on this. I uploaded a video showing how to hide files from a webhost. (The basic trick where you use php to open a .jpg that's actually an html file..) Youtube removed it for being to blackhat and now I have a bad standing until August.

Do you have any idea how many hacking forums there is out in the world right now? Go post your videos there! I'm quiet good at managing youtube channels if they are willing to make videos and get the extra views for you if you wish for my help?

-Facepalm-

For some reason the thought never occurred to me to put them on other hacking related forums.

I'm not being sarcastic either, I seriously didn't think of this... I worry about myself sometimes..

Really hope you are adding in stuff like

Educational purposes only, and things before you get shut down.

Update: I now have a YouTube partnership. It took me literally 5 seconds to get it. The moment I applied for it a got an email saying I was accepted. I must be lucky, lol.

Freedom.tm is the one I used.

If it's not good, they allow you to leave at any time. I made sure of that beforehand since I'm new to this.

Noted, thank you, any requirement to join it, did freedom do all the setup for you?

Thank you.

Freedom is pretty decent not a top tier network but definately easy because they cashout via pp and take no fees

You get 60% of the revenue, but you can eventually get more. I think the requirements is ~1000 views a month. I didn't have to set anything up at all.

If you refer people to their network with a referral link you can go up from 60% up to 110%.

That's about all I know.

Bro, you already got 1k view per month now??

Can pm me your site pls?

Thank you.

I cant see the stats pictures in the first post.

And I didnt notice any ads in your video too? So where did the ads posted in your site??

And I like this quote below.?

Code Legal disclaimer: I do NOT own, nor claim to own any property of Nintendo, including "The Legend of Zelda: Wind Waker - The Great Sea".

Lol, Youtube made me put that disclaimer up, as well as a japanese one for the ocarin of time video.

The ads dont appear if youve have been watching a series of youtube videos. That way they dont overwhelm the user. Or your adblocker is stopping them.

For the stats, over the course of one year I have 13k views, I've made $21, and the video with the most views is the nanocore one, which has 3k.

I no longer own any website, so all my views are coming from hackforums (20%) and youtube suggested videks (40%). Not sure about the rest.
