Thread: So my brother wants to join HF

SourMan - June 6, 2015, 4:01 pm

So yeah, after many years of my brother watching me lurk HF, he finally decides that he wants to join as well. I did not let him though, I heard that if there are 2 accounts sharing the same IP, you can get banned? Is there a thread that confirms this? Should I let him make an account or would that get me banned as well?

I'm not sure if this should be in the right section either :) Sorry if it isn't

I also had the same question in my mind, but same response.

You will get ban'd if he does.

G???????f????s? - June 6, 2015, 4:05 pm

Message a staff member. Usually they'll write down an exception for you.

CollisionJr - June 6, 2015, 4:05 pm

If anything you have to verify with the staff if your brother could make an account.

*banned

Not really, people who live in small towns in USA have a Network Tower that they all have the same IPs.

The Illusionist - June 6, 2015, 4:05 pm

I've seen people suggest that if you have a family members joining on the same IP you can contact a Admin and they'll allow you to have more than 1 account on 1 IP without being accused of "Multi-Accounting" I'm not 100% sure if the people who suggested this are right or not.

Hydra - June 6, 2015, 4:07 pm

You will have to contact an admin to add a note to his account letting all other staff members that you two are related.

There are multiple members on here with brothers/spouse/sisters who have an HF account as well.

SourMan - June 6, 2015, 4:07 pm

Ill see what happens, I won't let him make an account for now. I'm going to ask Factor8 about this just to clarify.

eight - June 6, 2015, 7:16 pm

Keep your brother away from this cancer.

johndiplo - June 6, 2015, 7:33 pm

You might get ban if he does join

Judicious? - June 6, 2015, 7:36 pm

He could always use his mobile device and not be on wifi.

ZuGgY - June 6, 2015, 7:36 pm

Contact a staff member to put a note on your accounts. The catch is though if one of you get banned, the other may get banned too. So be aware.

souplandon - June 6, 2015, 7:41 pm

lots of precaution to take and know ahead of time which you do, i'm sure u will be safe after validating.

Lmao these comments are funny. I already contacted a admin regarding my situation. I'm not letting my bro make an account till I get confirmation that I won't be banned. Thanks for the input boys!

Bro, just tell your brother to just some some weed and chillax. Tell him hacking isn't for him. You only can be the hacker in the family. Tell him he can be the stoner in the family. SMOKE WEED EVERYDAY!!!?

TheUnknown0 - June 6, 2015, 9:10 pm

I hope your brother isn't a 12 year old Noob!

~$ocio - June 6, 2015, 9:11 pm

Message a staff member and they will leave a note in case of a merge.

i can't agree more keep away

gore - June 6, 2015, 10:14 pm

I was told by staff that as long as your account doesn't start acting up (scamming, infecting, etc) then it doesn't matter.

But if something like that happens, all accounts with the same IP will be treated the same.
There's also the option of them being merged together.

My husband and roommate both have regular accounts but never go on them really, and I've never had a problem with it.

Jet??? - June 6, 2015, 10:21 pm

your trust scan is going to look sketchy

SourMan - June 7, 2015, 7:40 am

I'm not tryna get banned fam. I just bought a bunch of lifetime plans on HF. I msged a admin yesterday, waiting to hear from him.

Yore - June 7, 2015, 8:04 am

It's pretty weird if both of you have an account on HF. That's sorely my opinion though. You should report it to the Staff firstly, though.

SourMan - June 14, 2015, 8:21 pm

Just wanted to give a quick update. Finally staff responded and gave me the greenlight. My brother just created an account this morning under "Cryptable" or some shit

Although it isn't an official rule, it's how Factor8 has been operating for years. I always wanted an official/actual reason to fight him, I guess this will be it inb4 OP is thinking about multi-accounting...

?Sh?wn - June 14, 2015, 8:31 pm

Just get your brother to use neighbour's wifi so you both can have an account but not on the same IP. I think you should avoid having same IPs. Just makes it easier.

It was n my mind, Good Question =) Investigate

SourMan - June 14, 2015, 8:41 pm

Lmao there is no way to provide without releasing private information about both of us. Anyways staff made an exception to let him join under the same IP. Oh and I have no reason to multi-account lmao

Transcendent - June 14, 2015, 8:46 pm

There is no guarantee that you're accounts won't get merged.

Roger Waters - June 14, 2015, 8:46 pm

Factor8™ can assist with this. I suggest you and your brother don't violate site policies as the accounts can be merged if one of you severely breaks them. There are no guarentees that your accounts won't be merged at any point though.
