

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [\[Inj3ct0r Exploit Database:\]> _ Has been seized by US authorities _ \[/1337day.com\]](#)

mObile - June 9, 2015, 7:25 pm

[img]http://cylaw.info/wp-content/uploads/2012/12/logo_green.jpg[/img]

[img]http://img4.wikia.nocookie.net/__cb20120118200243/callofduty/images/e/ea/Emblem-CIA.png[/img]

Inj3ct0r Exploit Database has been seized by US authorities and used to collect user information. =/

Quote:Warning. CIA blocked the 1337day domain and try to sell a non-existent material! Authorities seized the domain! The server was not touched! Fuck police. Be careful. The server does not hurt. We are concerned for your safety. Do not register serious domains the US government. CIA arrested 1337day Domain because we refused to give CIA personal information of our users. We will always protect the security of our users. Give us a couple of days and we will restore the work. Do not send money and mail memo! Do not go to this domain. Follow us in the social network. This week we will resume work REPOST!

Update:

if you check the Whois information from the website you can see it was last updated yesterday on June 8, 2015

Scam..??

Source:

Quote:<https://twitter.com/inj3ct0r>

Quote:<http://www.1337day.com/>

SIM-1866423 - June 9, 2015, 7:33 pm

I saw many news about "scam" ... We can't trust injectors anymore ..

sinmar - June 9, 2015, 7:37 pm

Imao implying government cares about them or would run any sort of op like JTRIG. CIA doesn't work on cybercrime anyways.

selinux - June 9, 2015, 7:48 pm

Literally every public exploit on Inj3ct0r is ripped from exploit-db, and every private exploit is non-existent, admin is just trying to scam.

AnonRobot - June 9, 2015, 11:18 pm

I don't think the government gives a shit about any exploit disclosure website let alone 1337day.com unless they expose a very devastating exploit and even then I don't think they would give a shit.

Here is what i think happened here.

Inj3ctor guy scammed a bunch of people so to stop people from asking for there money(bitcoin) he or they tried to do this whole CIA thing so that people would be like "oh shit dude i better stfu CIA is involved."

Mr. Crowbar - June 10, 2015, 2:34 am they did well by doing that. there were a lot of scams in there

HaxOr? - June 10, 2015, 3:53 am

Nah, they got fucking rekt and now they are using the "ERMAGERD CIA HACKED US!!11!" card.

Th3PonyWizard - June 10, 2015, 4:49 am

Who seriously goes to this website?

beachkid - June 10, 2015, 7:02 am

Why would the CIA hack a website? they better things to do than taking a website

xx 0x0 xx - June 10, 2015, 8:52 am

CIA !! lol u made my day by this post mObile yeh im sure it's scam since CIA have nothing to do with cybercrime's i think it's FBI and NSA work not CIA

beachkid - June 10, 2015, 9:06 am

FBI would but not the NSA the NSA just keeps track of it and even spies on stuff and report it to the FBI

Inkling - June 10, 2015, 9:08 am

(Jun 9, 2015 07:37 PM)sinmar Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) lmao implying government cares about them or would run any sort of op like JTRIG. CIA doesn't work on cybercrime anyways.

CIA deals with identity theft and credit card fraud.

Although, they do not deal with exploits and sure as hell wouldn't care about this site at all.

A n g e l - June 10, 2015, 9:12 am

Do people really believe them when they say the CIA posted that text on there ?

4158996621556 - June 10, 2015, 9:12 am

Yeah, CIA totally took it down..

-zERaIT - June 10, 2015, 12:38 pm

Haven't used the site myself but I've heard some rumours about scams.

lchi - June 11, 2015, 8:58 pm

(Jun 10, 2015 04:49 AM)Th3PonyWizard Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who seriously goes to this website?

My thoughts exactly. That site is a total joke..As someone already mentioned, they rip exploits from exploit-db and post them without consent of the creator. Their "priv8" exploits are a joke as well

I can't believe they went with "the CIA is after us". Holy shit

1) The CIA only deals in international affairs, they have no domestic jurisdiction. They admitted that their servers are located on US soil..next

2) The CIA deals in very high profile operations that most people have/will never hear of. 1337day doesn't even begin to touch that level

what is this

selinux - June 11, 2015, 9:28 pm

(Jun 11, 2015 08:58 PM)Ichi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My thoughts exactly. That site is a total joke..As someone already mentioned, they rip exploits from exploit-db and post them without consent of the creator. Their "priv8" exploits are a joke as well

The funniest private "exploit" they had up for sale was the OpenSSH remote root for OpenSSH's current version (I don't remember what it is off the top of my head).

Anyways, for anyone who doesn't think the site was a scam, here:One

Two

Three

And that's just a few of the many.

Ichi - June 11, 2015, 9:36 pm

(Jun 11, 2015 09:28 PM)selinux Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The funniest private "exploit" they had up for sale was the OpenSSH remote root for OpenSSH's current version (I don't remember what it is off the top of my head).

Anyways, for anyone who doesn't think the site was a scam, here:One

Two

Three

And that's just a few of the many.

topkek, thanks for posting those. I hope 1337day stays gone

Wozniak - June 11, 2015, 10:05 pm

(Jun 10, 2015 07:02 AM)beachkid Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why would the CIA hack a website? they better things to do than taking a website

Not implying that they did it, but you don't really believe that do you?

beachkid - June 12, 2015, 8:20 am

(Jun 11, 2015 10:05 PM)_Wozniak_ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not implying that they did it, but you don't really believe that do you?

It was a hacker who did it the CIA wouldn't do crap to a website like this if the FBI got involved they would just take down the whole site like they did to Megaupload a couple years ago (now its called mega.co.nz)

chzq - June 12, 2015, 8:24 am eh, that seems kind of messed up from my POV... what do you think?

R^ptor - May 27, 2016, 11:25 am

I agree with this:

Quote:I don't think the government gives a shit about any exploit disclosure website let alone 1337day.com unless they expose a very devastating exploit and even then I don't think they would give a shit.

I bet they got pwned and didn't want to look stupid so they said the CIA did some shit. The CIA wouldn't care and if the gov cared it would be the FBI not the CIA. ????