

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Laptop battery is weak?

CrypticX - June 12, 2015, 11:35 am

Hi there

So my laptop's battery is becoming weak, I mean the battery discharges real fast. And I know that this happens when you let the laptop charging for too long, but it wasn't the case with me though. I always waited for the battery to get at 100% and then remove the charger, but I don't know how it all happened. It's an old laptop though, don't know if that would be the cause.

But anyways is there any way I could fix this without purchasing a new battery?

Thanks in advance ?

Aiba - June 12, 2015, 11:36 am

This happens to batteries over time.

Its time to get a new laptop or a new battery

Deany - June 12, 2015, 11:37 am

(Jun 12, 2015 11:36 AM)Aiba Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This happens to batteries over time.

Its time to get a new laptop or a new battery

This. Mine died after 8 years of use lol. Not too shabby for outdated hardware.

Ahri????? - June 12, 2015, 11:37 am

It is said that after 1000 charges your battery loses a certain % of it's ability to hold charge. I would replace it, I know I would replace my battery when the warranty is near it's ending.

CrypticX - June 12, 2015, 11:46 am

Alright thanks for the answers. I won't invest into a new battery though, i'm better off buying a new computer ?