Aye thats kind of cool, but I doubt people on HF will come since there is a pretty nice community here and people who sign up tend to stay. Maybe I will check this out when there is an actual community, sounds pretty interesting. If this is your website, good luck OP!

I think it is a pretty cool idea, going to register right now. Hoping to see more debating sections though.

Astute - June 23, 2015, 5:48 pm

RealTalkForums is another debating forum made by a HF member.

Maybe you should talk to him to get some tips on how to build your site.

Good luck with your forum :)

Hmm, it would, but I think I would want to see a need for one before giving that it's own section.

I've made it possible to create posts without registering in the Guest Area in case anyone wants to do that.

Can I also offer a different theme change? It maybe just me, but the black on blue isn't very eye appealing. It kinda looks like hackforums, but it uses a darker colour scheme and doesn't add any white to make all the important stuff easier to see. Just a suggestion. Good luck :)

BTW: I'm "Sensei"

Do you have a specific theme in mind? Or are you just suggesting to get a lighter one?

IMO , being an avid debater, if you changed the color it might work better.

Check out idebate.org

As in it doesnt look tht professional, add a white bg and see how it goes form there

I'll look into redoing the style or look for a new theme. Thanks for the suggestion :)
