It's a Firewall and security feature. It happens. A lot of times, it's because you're using a word or phrase that's black listed. Like o-rder by 12345-- or something to that effect. (Things that would let the firewall denote you're trying to break in).

Other reasons, is because until it's fully configured to the status he wants it at, you're going to get these challenges. This is to help the up time of HF.
