Basically what happened, He made a post about paying some $10 to verify something through phone, I contacted him about it as i could use the money. At the time, HF kept going doing and being very slow, but he had my number since he had to use it to verify it. So he texted me and we did it through texts, since it was just codes. We did the first one, $24.99, and then he asked for one more a $14.99, Everything was smooth, The texts show our whole conervation and him getting it. He then stated he needed his other computer to get into his wallet. He has ignored my texts, and my Message on here also. I believe i was scammed for $40. If he pays me in BTC i will comment and have the thread closed.

Always try and keep your conversations on Hf pm system for better proof.

From what I can tell he probably blocked your phone number. So did he buy stuff with your phone number or something? what was the verification for?

Seems too good to be true to give you that much for some phone confirmation codes.

Did it say what the codes are for? He might be trying to do some fraud depending on the site

You could also call your phone carrier and report it as fraud. They should dispute the payment and then whatever he bought with it will be revoked and his account banned on the site most likely for attempted fraud or what ever XD

He shouldn't be able to do anything as long as you don't send him any verification codes that come to your phone.
