Fucking every time. It makes me feel like even more of a loser.

Duyere - July 4, 2015, 11:28 pm

The term is called Post Anime Depression Syndrome, aka PADS.

It's the worst feeling after watching an anime, but it doesn't always happen to me.
It most often happens when I have deep interest toward and/or feel the anime is incomplete.

I'll have a connection to characters I'm interested while I'm watching/completed an anime but the feeling fades when I move onto a new anime.

Kirit???o - July 4, 2015, 11:44 pm finishing animes is the hardest thing for me since i can't find anything as good as last one or better :/

soo i end up not watching anime for like 2 weeks until i finish researching recommended anime from the same anime i watched xD

Peanut Butter - July 4, 2015, 11:56 pm

For a few minutes, then i download some more shit to watch, rinse and repeat.

Deany - July 4, 2015, 11:58 pm

Spoiler \(Click to View\)Sorry to burst your bubble but the Code Geass: Boukoku no Akito OVAs are set in a timeline between the rise of the Black Knights and the supposedly dead Zero when he was said to have died in R1.

You can read about it here: http://codegeass.wikia.com/wiki/Code_Geass:_Akito_the_Exiled

I was fooled too but Lelouch is still dead ?
