Your account must have a successful purchase older than thirty days, but not older than a year in order to access the Community Market. The purchase of wallet funds, games, DLCs and software meet this requirement. Retail CD key activations and gift purchases do not satisfy this requirement.I was told my account was Steam Guard ready, but apparently not.

Steam guard is a different thing and steam market is a different thing.Get your facts right.You asked me if the account is ready for trade after 15 days and i said yes, it is ready for trade after 15 days.You never mentioned once that you are going to use steam community market.If you'd have asked, i would have said NO the exact moment.I am refunding your payment.
